Uncle Walt
THE POET PHILOSOPHER.

The man who sells me bumble bees and boots and shoes and sweaters close will have my trade for years to come, because he sells me nothing but the best. He never takes my hard earned kale for goods inferior for and state, and when he sells me bonedless wheat, and DELER says: "This simply can't be beat," I know the goods will not be punks—he never lies about his junk. I used to buy my punks and things from Jimson—now his hands he wrings because I chase myself no more to patronize his one horse store. He used to show me tempting beans and succotash and other greens, and I would order some and say: "This makes me spirit aches." The clerk has made a sad mistake. I wearied of that chestnut tharf, I wearied of his witted stuff, and every man who pays his cash for first rate goods, and then gets trash will hate the man who works the game, and all excess he may frame.

Another Letter From Choral.

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Sir,—In your issue of yesterday I see a letter from "Amateur," in reply to mine of previous evening and to which I beg to take some exceptions. Now, with regard to the item "Chickadees and hawks," he says: "only able to cater to the public in a small way." Well, Mr. Editor, I am more than surprised that my friend has been so long unnoticed as a star in theatricals. He says that he provided performances in a smaller hall, which were full of people, and were loudly praised both by them and the press. Why, then, after all these full houses did he not have funds enough? Then, again, he said he had no backers. Why, Mr. Editor, who are the backers? The public of St. John's are the same, and surely if he had come forward and reproduced say in the T. A. Hall, a play so loudly praised in the press, he would have had a packed house and funds enough after a few productions to start a company of his own bat, but instead he has kept his company and still keeps them in a small hall. In other words he hides his light under a bushel. I trust he will come forward now and produce these plays in a larger hall and reap the benefits thereof.

Again, Mr. Editor, he says that I made a mistake when I said he put a dramatic ahead of a Choral Society. Well, perhaps he thinks I did, but I did not. He says "we need a Dramatic Co. perhaps a great deal more so than a Choral," and says he does not commit himself but uses the word perhaps. He does not look further on and see the words "a great deal more so than," which words contradict himself and his word perhaps. If he did not think he expressed it in his words, he had it so upmost in his mind that it came from his pen unnoticed by himself.

Thanking you in anticipation I remain, yours very sincerely,
CHORAL.

Catherhall, Nfld.
Dear Sirs,—While in the country last summer I was badly bitten by mosquitoes, so badly that I thought I would be disgraced for a couple of weeks. I was advised to try a Liniment to allay irritation, and did so. The effect was more than I expected, a few applications completely curing the irritation, and preventing the bites from becoming worse. MINARD'S LINIMENT is also a good article to keep off the mosquitoes.

Yours truly,
W. A. V. R.

Concert at Pouch Cove

The entertainment by Rev. Father Curran and parishers at Pouch Cove, in the school hall last night turned out to be a grand success. The programme opened with a concert which several friends from the city assisted, and rendered songs and recitations. Amongst those who contributed were Messrs. P. F. Moore, Leo C. Murphy, J. O'Grady, J. Spens, P. K. Devine. During the interval Rev. Father Curran delivered a short address in which he thanked the people for their kind co-operation and the visitors from St. John's, especially Hon. M. P. Cashin, who had given the use of his automobile to bring down some of the gentlemen who assisted. As the hall was lighted up with acetylene gas, last night for the first time, Father Curran took occasion to give a short explanation on the process of the preparation of the illuminant, the whole undershaking of lighting the hall, the church and the presbytery, having been successfully carried out under his own directions. The explanation of the processes of generating the gas was very interesting. We think that Father Curran can boast of being the first to get this light in a Nfld. outport. After his address the programme was resumed and concluded with the one act comedy "A Stormy Night," which Messrs. J. O'Grady, L. C. Murphy, J. Spens and Leo C. Murphy acted and kept the audience laughing till the curtain fell. Refreshments having been served in the hall down stairs, the theatre flat was cleared for dancing which the young men and women kept up with great zeal till morning. Father Curran who is a genial host treated his city visitors right royally at his beautiful presbytery after entertainment was over at the hall. The attendance was the largest ever, and the programme and the recitals were beyond expectations and will enable the zealous pastor to go on with certain improvement that he is contemplating in the parish. The city visitors left for town at midnight, the two automobiles gliding the road in quick time. Before leaving a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. W. D. Reid, President of the R. N. Co., who with his well known generosity in such cases put his big touring car at the disposal of the four of the party that went down to help on the good work.

Nearly Burnt to Death.

At 2.30 this afternoon, Thomas Wright, cook of the Ellen Stewart, at Smith's wharf, was lighting the fire in the forecastle when a match dropped into a four gallon can of oil and it exploded. He came out of the forecastle a mass of flames and jumped overboard. He was rescued from drowning by a man named Best. Wright is terribly burned about the face and body. Life was sent by Dr. Campbell to the Hospital.

They Don't Want

THE EARTH—JUST YET.

Mr. T. R. McGrath, Custom official, and brother of Mr. P. T. Altogether 7,200 square miles. The Minister's don't want the earth, that is not all at once. They'll take to go on with fat pickings, good jobs, and 7,200 square miles as a tilley. And yet, Mr. D. Morrison need to pine for a business government. The People will be after that business government with a big stick shortly.

To-Day's Messages.

Special to Evening Telegram.

LONDON, To-day. Italy's warships are before Tripoli. Italy's ultimatum is in the hands of the Turkish government. Only a few hours can elapse before Turkey must make reply. A late despatch from Constantinople gives the report that Turkey has rejected the Italian demand. Despatches from Rome indicate that such an answer will not be a surprise.

Special Evening Telegram.

TRIPOLI, To-day. The Italian fleet, demonstrating off this port, has not yet attempted to land men, but a cordon has been drawn along the coast to prevent the Turks from landing arms and men. All last night Italian warships passed and repassed close in, throwing their searchlights over the town. Five Italian battleships, one cruiser and six destroyers have arrived. The greatest excitement prevails everywhere. Banks and business houses are closed, and trade completely paralysed. The Europeans who remain in Tripoli are gathered in groups in streets. Nearly all the Italians have sent their families away, the Consul giving them a free passage. The steamship Adria with steam up is kept here at the disposition of the Italian Consul. Turkish pickets are trolling the town day and night. The most threatening danger is that the Arabs may rise against the Italians who are still here. The departure of many Europeans has intensified the feelings of the Arabs against the Italians. Trading vessels lie in the roadstead with cargoes undischarged. No native or foreign labor can be obtained. So threatening is the native population that probably the members of the Italian Colony will leave Tripoli tomorrow. At present they are gathered at the Consulate.

CONSTANTINOPLE, To-day. It is reported that the Turkish government has decided to reject the Italian demands in the Ultimatum, and that she has addressed explanatory communications to the Powers. When it became known that Italy had granted a time limit of only 24 hours, to enable the Turkish government to instruct the authorities at Tripoli not to oppose the Italian landing, there was consternation in public and official circles, and strong denunciation of Italy's methods.

DUBLIN, To-day. Notwithstanding the announcement yesterday that the railway strike in Ireland had been settled, later it was ascertained that the negotiations were deadlocked. The strikers accepted the terms of the companies, but when it came to resuming work, the companies refused to reinstate strikers in their former positions as that meant the displacement of the men engaged to fill them.

Mr. M. Myrick Denies Statement

Editor Evening Telegram.

Dear Mr. Editor,—In an article appearing in the Plaindealer of yesterday's date and referring to a meeting held last Friday night in St. Patrick's Hall to wind up affairs in connection with the Citizens' Reception Committee, re the Papal Delegate, I am referred to with a little sarcasm as making a proposition that Nicholas Murphy be given thirty dollars for services, etc. Now, Mr. Editor, I want to tell the correspondent of the Plaindealer that I made no proposition of any kind, and if he will come out over his own signature, I will tell him what I really did do. What he should have done was to have called on the Sec-Treasurer and received information first, and then have stated facts.

Thanking you for space, Mr. Editor, I remain yours, etc.
