Other People's Grievances.

By RUTH CAMERON.

for themselves.

And they air this indignation at every opportunity, and appear to feel they are adding to their own stock of virtue in thus championing the oppressed.

Do you recognize the class I mean? A neighbor of mine is a charter member of this class. She can find grievances for anyone; some of them I feel sure would astonish the unconscious sufferers. An interview with her seldom passes without one of these vicious complaints.

Yesterday she dropped in to tell me about a wedding she had attended, and this was the part of her tale which she told with the most vim: "My dear, what do you think the bride's only brother gave her? Nothing but two silver spoons, and they are not poor people at all. It must have almost spoiled the wedding for her. I felt dreadfully when her mother showed them to me, for they had always talked so much about Harry and how kind he was."

Now I don't know the bride intimately, but I do know her well enough to realize that she is a placid, cheerful person, and not at all the sort to have her wedding spoiled because her brother only gave her two silver spoons. I don't think she'd be half so indignant about it as my kind neighbor is, if he gave her nothing at all.

Again, we have a mutual friend whose only daughter is teaching in a distant city. Usually she comes home to spend Christmas with her mother, but this year for some reason, best known to herself, she failed to. That vicious grievance lasted my neighbor all the holiday season. She went about saying, "Wasn't it too bad that Emma didn't make the effort to come home Christmas? I feel so sorry for poor Mrs. Richards. I am afraid Emma isn't as thoughtful as she used to be."

Another neighbor of ours who entertains her relatives a great deal, seldom goes away from home. "Considering all the company Mrs. C. has, I don't think she gets entertained very much" fulminates the grievance bearer. "I should think that those cousins of hers who come here every spring and fall would have her visit them occasionally."

As it happens, Mrs. C. has very good reasons of her own for preferring to extend hospitality rather than accept it, and repeatedly refuses urgent invitations from those particular cousins.

Sometimes these grievance inventors cause real trouble, for it not un-naturally happens that their complaints occasionally reach the ears of those complained against, and are falsely credited to the people to whom the grievance really belonged.

And then, again, they sometimes become so bold as to try to persuade the unconscious sufferers themselves, that they are being mistreated, which, as everyone can see, is a fertile source of trouble.

On the whole, unless you are able to alleviate or smooth them out, other people's grievances are a good thing to let alone, especially when they are not troubling the owners.

FOR WOMEN ONLY.

"That is the nature of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription—the one remedy for women which contains no alcohol and no habit-forming drugs. Made from native medicinal forest roots. Dr. Pierce tells its every ingredient on the bottle-wrap per. Prominent physicians and some of the best medical authorities endorse these ingredients as being the very best known remedies for ailments and weaknesses peculiar to women."

This is what Mrs. GENETT E. COFFEY, of Longstreet, Ky., says: "I feel it my duty to write and tell you what your medicines have done for me. I was a great sufferer for six years from a trouble peculiar to women, but I am thankful to say, after taking four bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I am not bothered with that dreadful disease any more. I feel like a new woman. When I first wrote you for advice I only weighed 115 pounds—now I weigh 135. I thank you very much for your kindness. You have been as a father to me in advising me what to do, so may God bless you in every effort you put forth for good. I hope this testimonial will be the means of some poor suffering woman seeking health."

Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, newly revised up-to-date edition, answers hosts of delicate questions about which every woman, single or married ought to know.

Household Notes.

Whites of eggs should be cold if you want to beat them very stiff.

Fill pastry shelves with creamed sweetbreads; they make a delicious entree.

It improves prunes to add a little cider to the water in which they are cooked.

Steel knives can be very well cleaned by a paste made of emery powder and oil.

Muslins must be ironed wet. If allowed to get dry they will have a rough appearance.

All muslin should be starched wet. If they are starched dry they never look so clean.

Fruit jars can be easily opened if you will take hold of the top with a piece of sandpaper.

Scissors are excellent to shred lettuce; they are much more convenient than using a knife.

Food for late comers can be kept hot by covering it tightly and placing it in a pan of hot water.

Always use cotton instead of silk when mending gloves. The cotton will not pull the kid.

In starching colored muslins, do not allow the starch to be too hot; it will destroy the color.

Stains on mirror glasses can be removed with a flannel cloth dampened with spirits of camphor.

It is good economy to save the best.

When a sponge becomes slimy, soak it in strong borax water, wring out and renew the water. Continue this until the sponge becomes clean.

The juice can be kept in pies by putting one or two pieces of macaroni in the centre of the crust. This allows the steam to escape and prevents the juice from boiling out.

Fish Families in Ocean Deep.

When a disaster occurs at sea, and people read that some leviathan vessel has gone down to the utmost depth of the ocean, imagination is stirred in wondering what conditions surround her.

According to Sir John Murphy, one of the greatest authorities on oceanography, the bottom is a desert of pitchblack darkness, penetrating cold, and eternal silence. Worms, sea puddings, and coral polyps sluggishly crawl or sway in the almost currentless depths, and only two species of fish, both of them small, with much head and little body, have been found deeper than a mile and a quarter down.

The range of fishes in the sea is as though it were divided into layers, one above the other, and no fish can live above or below this layer. Thus many of the deeper fish—three-quarters of a mile below the surface—have been found floating at the top. They had swallowed a fish as large or larger than themselves and its buoyancy had lifted them out of the strata to which they were accustomed.

The physiology of a bottom fish is almost impossible to know, because they are built to resist a tremendous pressure of water, and when this pressure is released—as when they are brought to the surface in a net—sometimes the fish has burst—the organs are crushed beyond reconstruction.

Similarly, if a fish of a higher stratum attacks a bottom fish in the neutral zone where both can live, and—as sometimes happens—his teeth become entangled so that he cannot let go, and he is dragged into deeper water, he strangles instantly, for his breathing arrangements are of no use to him under the pressure of water in the lower strata of the sea. As a rule, however, the fish of the various depths rarely feed on those above or below them.

There have been brought to light an astonishing number of forms of fish, and especially of prawns of a brilliantly red color, living in the ocean at a depth of 2,000 feet. But, astonishing as it may seem, these brilliantly-colored fish and prawns, instead of being conspicuous in the water at that depth, are nearly invisible, when almost any other color could be easily seen.

Surely Settles Upset Stomachs.

"Pape's Diapiesin" ends Indigestion, Gas, Sourness and Heartburn in five minutes.

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that just makes Pape's Diapiesin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvellous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin will give you a hundred dollars' worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or at night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.
