DISTRIBUTORS AND PRODUCERS OF MILK TO HAVE HEARING

Committee Will Figure Cost of Production and Set Prices at Various Centers

Ottawa, Oct. 19.—At this morning's session of the milk investigating committee it was decided before proceeding to visit distributors and producers in the various cities throughout Canada, requesting that they appear before the committee Wednesday or Thursday next prepared to state all the facts and to give information regarding their side of the question. The witness will be sent out immediately from the food controller's office and will state the cost of production and will state the cost of distribution and the cost of the milk.

The meeting discussed the charts which had been prepared. The main chart showed the cost of producing milk per quart in the various provinces including depreciation, but not including cost of distribution. The following prices show the cost of producing a quart of milk:

Nova Scotia, 6.0c; New Brunswick, 7.0c; Quebec, 6.0c; Ontario, 5.5c; Ontario, Toronto district, 4.0c; Ontario, Hamilton district, 5.0c; Ontario, London district, 6.0c; Ontario, Ottawa district, 6.0c; Manitoba, 5.0c; Saskatchewan, 4.0c; British Columbia, 4.0c.

It was pointed out that in the case of Alberta, only two replies to the questionnaires had been received, and one average was placed very high. The committee were of the opinion that the Alberta figures could not be considered as final.

Chairman Tustin spoke of the extravagance of delivery noticeable in some cases and said that as Ottawa had the cheapest milk all round, would it not be possible to place all other cities on the same basis with the same methods?

After some discussion on the question of price of milk, it was decided that the milk committee should take the cost of production as it stands and fix prices for the various districts. As cost of production advanced or decreased, the price of milk could be fixed on a sliding scale.

W. A. Wilson, dairy commissioner for the province of Saskatchewan, who only reached the convention this morning, opposed the resolution passed yesterday favoring the manufacture and transportation of margarine. He stated that the administration and manufacture of oleomargarine would penalize the most laborious branch of agriculture and the one farmers would be most likely to drop.

Mr. Robertson, butter manufacturer, Belleville, said that a flood of petitions

REPRESENTATIVES TO THE PROVINCIAL TRIBUNALS NAMED

thorities, that all men in the locality of the class called out comply with the law. He should report all not complying with the act to the district military representative.

Representative's Duties Attention was called to the explanatory announcement issued by the minister of justice on September 11, which appeared in all the daily newspapers in Canada, and was posted in all post offices. The representative, pursuant to this notice, will endeavor to explain to those in his locality affected by the act, the advisability of reporting or claiming exemption as early as possible. He should also make clear that the man who reports for service will not be placed on active service any earlier than the man who claims exemption, and does not sustain his claim; furthermore, claims for exemption will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, so that the man who filed his claim first will be the first to know his status.

The claims for exemption which are sent in through the post office to the registrar of the district will be scheduled by him and copies sent daily to the military representative (district), who will transmit them to the local military representative. These schedules will indicate the date and the tribunal at which the person concerned will be heard.

The exemption schedules will be in the hands of the local military representatives some days before the hearing of the claim in each case. In this way, the representative will be enabled to investigate each claim before it is heard by the tribunal. In cases where the claim is found by the preliminary inquiry to be well founded, the representative should notify the tribunal in writing that the claim will not be contested by him.
It is impossible to give details as to what action he should take in such individual cases, so that he will be obliged to use his own discretion; but he should be guided by the following general considerations:

(a) That it is expedient in the national interest that the man should instead of being employed in military service, be engaged in other work in which he is habitually engaged.

(b) That it is expedient in the
be engaged in other work in which he wishes to be engaged and for which he has special qualifications.

(c) That it is expedient in the national interest that, instead of being employed in military service, he should continue to be educated or trained for any work for which he is then being educated or trained.

(d) That serious hardship would ensue, if the man were placed on active service, owing to his exceptional civil or business obligations or domestic position.

(e) Ill health or infirmity.

(f) That he conscientiously objects to the undertaking of combatant service and is prohibited from so doing by the tenets and articles of his religion.

(g) That he is engaged in the service of the community in a position of importance, and that his removal from that position would be a serious loss to the community.

(h) That he is engaged in the
loss to the community.

(i) That he is engaged in the
loss to the community.

(j) That he is engaged in the
loss to the community.

is only in cases where a man has such towards a number of other people that he is unable to leave his business in other hands, that he should be allowed to exemption.

In view of the foregoing, the local military representative should consider this ground, he should see to it that the applicant should be exempted only on the basis of the grounds set out above, and that he should be allowed to defer his application for exemption until the time for the meeting or deferring of his application.

When a case is presented to the ground of exceptional domestic position, inquiry should be made among the responsible citizens who knew the parties in question, particularly the clergyman or priest, as to the character of the man's services. It must be understood, however, that undue weight must not be given to sentimental considerations, since, as pointed out above, everyone must expect to make sacrifices in such a time as the present.

ground, therefore, only in cases where a man is the sole support of a widowed mother, or has other dependents who would be quite unprovided for if he were called out.

On the completion of each day's work before the tribunal, the local mi-lary representative will transmit to the district military representative the copy of the schedule of the cases considered by the tribunal on that day, including thereon in what manner each case has been disposed of.

When a case is not disposed of immediately, but is taken under advisement, the local military representative will indicate this on the schedule sent forward and will subsequently, on receiving notice from the tribunal as to its decision, report this decision to the district military representative, giving the necessary reference.

In cases where the local military representative considers it advisable to defer the case, he should indicate this on the schedule sent forward.

To Stop a Persistent, Hacking Cough
The best remedy is one you can easily make at home. Cheap, but very effective.

Thousands of people normally healthy, every other respect, are troubled with a persistent hacking cough every year after year, disturb their sleep and making life disagreeable. It's no wonder—there's an old home-made remedy that will end such a cough easily and quickly.

appeal from the decision of the tribunal, he should make sure that he complies with the regulations in this regard, both as to time and formality.
He should immediately notify the district military representative in every case in which he appeals, stating in writing the grounds on which his appeal is based. When this is done, his duties in regard to that particular case are ended, as the prosecution of the appeal will not devolve upon him.

In cases of doubt whether to appeal or not, the local military representative may apply for instructions to the district military representative, but in most cases he will be expected to use his own discretion on the general principle that, consistent with the interests of the service, the fewer appeals taken the better.

While on duty at the tribunals, the local military representative should, but in most cases he will be expected to use his own discretion on the general prin-
taken the better.
