Twenty Thousand Watermelons at a Dedication.

TACOMA, Wash., July 19.—The World's Fair commission of this State is preparing to dedicate on the fair grounds in September the tallest flag pole ever erected. Twenty thousand watermelons will be cut at the dedication.

Cotton Mills Closing.

Boston, July 19.—The Amoskeag cotton mill, the largest cotton mill in the United States, and probably the largest in the world, is to close for a month. It is probable that similar action will be taken by a number of New England mills, owing to the condition of trade.

An Excursion Train Wrecked.

EAST AUBURN, N. Y., July 19.—An excursion train on the Western New York and Erie, running a Sunday school convention from Buffalo, was wrecked at 7:45 last evening near this station by running into an open switch. Jack White, a fireman, is probably fatally injured. About twenty persons were injured, all of whom will recover.

Detective Graham arrested him on Saturday.

—The Chatham Planet, talking of the L. and E. S. E. matters says: "The 'bond of flesh' being exacted by the city, the syndicate will probably drop the Cleveland route, so far as the Port Stanley harbor is concerned. It will serve the civic corporation right. But the syndicate will not necessarily be killed off. There is Round Bay and the E. and H. to look to. If London won't act decently and secure a fair share of the Cleveland Transportation Company's trade, it will be a case of getting nothing. There is ample traffic to utilize both harbors and both railroads. The London folks want to act the hog and get everything.

Bicyclists Before the Fair Board.

appointed to lay before the Western Fair board the conditions upon which the wheelmen would be willing to aid in the construction of a bicycle track. It is understood that the other cycling associations in the city will have delegates present.

In Hymen's Bonds.

An event of more than ordinary interest to a number in London and Thamesville took place at 460 Quebec street, London, yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, it being the marriage of Miss Jennie Armstrong, principal of Dorchester public school, daughter of Mr. Thomas Armstrong, to Mr. Elias Graves, of Thamesville, general provision and produce merchant. The ceremony was solemnized in the presence of a few immediate relatives and friends by the Rev. J. E. Moore, of Thamesville. The happy pair left on the 4:25 p.m. express for Niagara Falls, Buffalo, New York, and other eastern cities.

An Exploded Sensation.

The Ingersoll correspondent of the Woodstock Sentinel-Review writes a sensational account of an alleged abduction in that town. A J. Haskins, of London, is said to have run off with the infant child of his daughter, Mrs. W. C. Wright, of Ingersoll. The account reads: "While taking at the gate his daughter unwillingly placed her infant in his buggy, when he (Haskins) immediately drove off. The parents did not realize the danger for some time, but after a while the purpose of the unnatural grandfather dawned upon the mother, and she became frantic with grief as time flew by and her darling babe did not return. The father of the child was unable to get a horse and buggy at once, but when he did he gave chase and found that Haskins had called at a place in Dorchester, some fourteen miles distant, where he was compelled to leave the child, while he supposed to have continued his journey to London."

An ADVERTISER reporter called upon Mr. Jas. Haskins, who is employed at Hunt's mills, this morning. After hearing the extract referred to read, the "unnatural grandfather" laughed heartily. He had, he said, driven down to Ingersoll on Sunday morning last, accompanied by his son, in order to get his daughter to spend a few weeks in London. His daughter at first consented to accompany him in the buggy, but finally decided to journey by train. He had then taken his grandchild with him and driven home. His son and Mr. and Mrs. Wright arrived in London later in the evening. Mr. Haskins denied that any friction existed between him and his Ingersoll relatives.

Completely Cured.

HAMILTON, Nov. 2, 1899.

MR. WILLIAMS: Dear Sir, I have great faith in your Royal Crown Kennedy, and can recommend it to the public as a great blood purifier. I was laid up for three months with an ulcerated ankle; dropsy also set in my legs. I was advised by Mr. John Pickell to try your medicine and vegetable pills. After using two or three bottles and one box of pills I was completely cured. Yours truly,
