Railway Employes' Wages to be Reduced.

The Employes of J. D. King & Co., Tcronto, Are Out.

There is a general strike at the boot and shoe establishment of J. D. King & Co., Toronto, and about 160 men and girls are out. The employes had demanded the dismissal of certain employes. This was refused, and hence the strike. A REDUCTION ON THE M. C. R.

Detroit Journal: That the Michigan its employes on all its lines 10 per cent. is the startling rumor that has been flying around. Many of the best posted railroad men agree that it is probable. Such a farreaching cut as this would occasion a conwhich the road must be running. Careful inquiry among the employes of the Michigan Central yesterday failed to find any who had yet been cut in wages, but at the same time there was in some quarters a very general feeling that the reduction was extremely probable, and most of those who looked at it in this way also affirm that there could not be any cause to grumble, as everything How will the property be divided? DETROIT PRINTERS. At the meeting of Typographical Union No. 18 at Detroit on Sunday, a proposal to reduce the piece scale from 35 to 30 cents was voted down. The subject of unemployed printers was placed in the hands of a committee to learn how many unemployed printers there are in Detroit, and what will be the best plan for their relief.

At a meeting of the Central Labor Union, held in Arbeiter Hall, Detroit, on Sunday, a resolution was adopted advocating less hours of work and higher wages as a means of immediate relief, and for a permanent system based on the principles of a cooperative commonwealth. KNIGHTS AND FEDS MAY UNITE.

THE BIGGEST FISH THAT SWIMS.

It is the Basking Shark, and It Grows foreigner with an unpronouncable name put Thirty-five Feet Long. on a celluloid collar on Friday evening pre-There was great commotion in the paratory to attending a party. He had the zoological department of the Stanford University on Monday afternoon when President Jordon received a telegram from an Italian fisherman at Monterey saying that he had caught a monster of a basking shark, flesh was burned to a crisp and the young and inquiring if they wanted it. Did they want it? Well, President Jordan rushed from his office across the quadrangle to the zoological laboratory, where Prof. Gilbert and some other fish sharps were busy with pickled fish, and with dignified excitement flourished the telegram. He jerked out his watch and said there was thirty minutes before the Monterey train would get to Palo Alto, over a mile away, and Prof. Gilbert grabbed his hat. He called an expert assistant who could hustle, and the two scientists made that trian. The fisherman soon got his answer. President Jordan would have missed two dinners to go along, but he couldn't. All this haste and interest show how much value a basking shark is to a scientist. He is not of much value to anybody else. His value arises like that of many other things mainly from his rarity, for basking sharks are not seen every day, and ichthyologists find few opportunities to study them. The basking shark is an object of popular as well as scientific interest. It is the largest fish that swims the sea. It isn't as big as a bow-head whale, but the whale is not a fish but a by public auction on the premises, on Tuesday.

Jan. 23. 1894. at 12:30 o'clock, noon, the following property, viz.: All and sincular the northwest quarter of lot No. 25, on the south side of east South street, in the city of London, having a frontage of 50 feet on south side of South street, with 99 feet on William street. This property is situate on the southeast corner of William and South streets, and has erected thereon a frame cottage in good repair, containing six rooms and outbuildings. There will also be sold at the same time and place the furniture and all other household effects of the said late Jane Anderson. Terms made known on day of sale, or may be had on application to Neil Cooper, auctioneer, etc., London, Ont., or to John D. O'Neil vendor's solicitor, London, Ont. Dated London, Jan. 72k yvyv bw mammal. The specimen captured some-they sometimes grow several feet longer. A reported sea serpent, fifty feet long, stranded at Stronsa in 1808, is supposed to have been a basking shark. This greatest of fishes is also the least ferocious of sharks. It sticks pretty well to the bottom of the ocean, is sluggish in movement, and feeds on crustacea, seaweed, etc., instead of other fishes. It belongs to the northern seas, but in summer descends to middle latitudes.

"I do not know what Prof. Gilbert will try to do with the specimen," said President Jordan, "but it is worth going after even to photograph, if nothing else. They are rarely caught, and I have been able to see but one on this coast. That was in 1880 at Monterey. We chopped out a piece of one of its gills, and it was all one man wanted to carry. Pictures of the basking shark are not reliable representations, for there have been few chances to draw them. There are probably but a few hundred in the ocean. The British Museum has a standing offer of $1,000 for the skin of one, | the private and public schools. but a man would earn his money getting it. for it would take two months to skin the fish and care properly for the hide. Prof. Gilbert may try to take the skin and he may only take the head. At any rate, it is a valuable opportunity for study." There are about three hogsheads of oil
