THREE GO FREE AFTER TELLING TALE OF DEATH

Two Men and Women Relate Strange Story of Shooting.

DROVE DEAD MAN IN CAR

Terrified Trio Place Body of Detective in Vacant
Lot.

Special to The Advertiser.

New York, Nov. 17.—A story of how they drove through Brooklyn streets in the early hours of the morning, with a dead man sitting upright in the front seat of their car, obtained freedom today for three persons suspected of implication in the death of William J. McNally, private detective.

McNally's body was found, covered with his overcoat, lying in a vacant lot. There was a single bullet hole in the temple and a revolver was clutched in his hand. First impressions of the detective had been that he had been shot at the spot where he was found. When agents from police headquarters arrived at the scene, they found the body in the vacant lot and the manner in which the fingers had been closed about the revolver pointed to murder.

The private detective's pockets were searched, and a card pointed to the home of Charles Valenti, his wife and William J. McCormick, a friend, were arrested and told a remarkable story in clearing themselves.

They said they had gone to a dance Thursday night, the three of them, and McNally, afterwards all had gone to Valenti's house for something to eat and drink. McNally, who carried a revolver by virtue of his connection with a private detective agency, was fooling with this weapon, in which he made it a practice to carry an exploded cartridge.

The detective, they declared, put the revolver to his head and pulled the trigger. A bullet pierced his head, and he fell unconscious. Thinking to rush him to a hospital Valenti got out the family flyover.

When they lifted McNally he was dead. Then they became terrified. The three, according to the story, lifted the dead man to the front seat of their car and propped him up beside the driver, Valenti, and drove off to find a place to dispose of the body.

They drove slowly past policemen, for fear of being stopped, they said. But nothing happened, and finally they reached the vacant lot and arranged the body. Afterwards, as a second thought, they went back to Valenti's house, got McNally's revolver and put it in the corpse's hand.

The police released them after hearing the story.

WORLD HONORED CHEESE MAKER LIVES IN LONDON

James Ireland Made Huge Cheese, Cut Into 5,000
Pieces, at Queen Victoria's Jubilee—Won
Many Medals in World Competition.

WAS PIONEER OF INDUSTRY IN OXFORD

Oxford County has the distinction of being the first county in Ontario in which the manufacture of cheese was begun. Since the year 1863, when the first cheese factory was built there, Oxford has been the foremost dairymaking county in Canada.

With the growth of Oxford County as a cheese-making district, grew the name and fame of James Ireland, now of 19 Redan street, this city, who was a pioneer in the industry, and who gave a lifetime to the placing and keeping of Canadian cheese, and particularly Oxford County cheese, in a foremost and favorable position on the world's markets.

To have made the monster cheese for the jubilee of the late Queen Victoria—a cheese weighing seven tons, and which was cut into 5,000 pieces, was an honor which rested upon his shoulders. As an achievement, it was heralded far and wide. Gold, silver and bronze medals had won. To him they were a source of pride only in that he had done his work well, and that someone appreciated the efforts and the result of his work, which he loved so well.

Born in Ireland.
Mr. Ireland was born in County Antrim, Ireland, in the year 1849. In 1866, when about 17 years old, he came to Canada, settling near Ingersoll, in Oxford County. General farming did not appeal to him. The country around was an excellent dairy country, and one year later found him at work at the then new cheese factory owned by James Harris.

For 52 years from that time, Mr. Ireland made cheese without a break. He has won all sorts of prizes at numerous exhibitions and world's fairs. In 1876, Mr. Ireland was awarded the Certificate of Merit for cheese of his making at the International Exhibition in Philadelphia by the United States Centennial Commission.

The coveted Gold Medal and Certificate of Merit at Jamaica in 1891 was also awarded to him, and Mr. Ireland today has this certificate framed and hung along with others, among which is the award of the World's Columbian Exhibition, Chicago, in 1893, in his home.

Made Butter Also.
Among the notable honors paid him, two others stand out. He was awarded the Certificate of Merit at the Pan-American Exhibition in Buffalo, 1901. In 1911, he was awarded the certificate as chief butter-maker in Ontario at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

Mr. Ireland, told graphically of the huge seven-ton cheese for Queen Victoria's jubilee.

"I made it with my own hands and with the help of my boys. I had to make my own presses and attend to them myself. It wouldn't be much of a job now, but in those days we didn't have the machinery we have now."

Truck Breaks Down.
He related how the truck, drawn by four horses, in moving the great mowse through the streets of New York for re-shipment across the Atlantic, broke down, and the cheese, intended to be cut into 5,000 pieces, was laboriously re-loaded again, after having held up traffic for some time. Many other large cheeses Mr. Ireland made. During the eighties, when he was in charge of the Galloway dairy, near Ingersoll, he made 35 large cheeses, of which eleven weighed 5,500 pounds in weight. The others ranged from 600 to 1,000 pounds each. Some of these were made at the express wish of Sir Thomas Lipton, and for three years Sir Thomas' table was supplied by Mr. Ireland.

Mr. Ireland explained the difference between cream separators and various dairy machines made in present-day cheese and butter making. In the old days, he said, the milk had to be cooled, and the methods were laborious.

As an instance of the regard in which he is nationally held, Mrs. Ireland said she was proud to have a husband who had a certificate from the government giving him permission to buy, build or conduct a creamery or cheese factory without inspection.

Mr. Ireland claims to be the oldest living cheese and butter maker in Canada. He taught Prof. J. A. Robertson and Prof. G. L. McKay the secrets of his lifetime of experience. He has a fine collection of butter, cheese and other products. From Lloyd James of this city, and Robert, now a prominent butter-maker in Portland, Ore.

Canada is not making as much cheese now as she was before the war," said Mr. Ireland. New Zealand and Switzerland offer great competition, and I don't think Canada will ever take the cheese market away from these two competitors, because it has been found that butter is a more profitable product here."

As for the butter trade, he was sure that Canada could conquer any market that in the future was to be made to make enough of it, he said.

REPORT STRIKE IN COAL FIELDS OF EDMONTON

Alberta Union Officials Said

OPERATORS DOUBT ACTION

Claim They Have Not Been Informed of Any Dispute.

Special to The Advertiser.

Edmonton, Alta., Nov. 18.—Following the visit of an organizer for the United Mine Workers of America to the miners in Edmonton district, an organization meeting, held on Sunday last by President Sherman and Vice-President Ryan, it is now reported that orders have been sent from the Calgary headquarters of the U. M. W. A., calling upon local miners, who fell into line with the recent organization, to declare a strike in the Edmonton field on Monday next.

Vice-President Ryan, who met miners at Cardiff, Beverly, Penn., Bush, and other local mines, returned to Calgary after stating that it was his intention to endeavor to arrange a meeting with operators in the field before taking any action to call a strike.

Diligent inquiry among operators yesterday morning failed to reveal any inducement as to a strike Monday.

One large operator, when asked for information, replied: "So far as I know, local operators have not met any representatives of the miners' organization, nor have we been asked to buy, build or conduct a creamery or cheese factory without inspection."

Mr. Ireland claims to be the oldest living cheese and butter maker in Canada. He taught Prof. J. A. Robertson and Prof. G. L. McKay the secrets of his lifetime of experience.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18.—The giant hog-killing plant, and retail market of Armour & Co., packers, was destroyed by fire today.

The blaze enveloped the three-story brick building, which has been a show place for visitors for many years, with spectacular fury. Two thousand dressed hogs in the building fed the fire, tongues of flame shooting into the air, lighting the entire section of the city.

A Canadian Press despatch, however, says that an hour and a half after the fire broke out, the building was under control. It was confined to the one building. The blaze was said to have started in the basement of the building from spontaneous combustion.

FIRE INSPECTOR CLAIMS BLAZE CAUSED BY 'BUG'

Marshal Ponton Declares Fire Over Peters Store Was Incendiary.

INVESTIGATES CONDITION

Deputy Provincial Fire Marshal Ponton, who was a visitor in London Friday, after a careful survey of the local situation, agrees with Fire Chief John Aitken that the several fires in London during the past few months have been the agency of a "firebug."

This includes the last fire a night or two ago on Dundas street, above Peters Tearoom.

Chief Aitken explained Saturday morning that he submitted all the facts of the case before the visiting inspector, with his opinion upon the question. The latter's views, he said, coincided with his own.

In each of the following cases, the fire chief explains, certain material was found that causes him to believe that deliberate attempts were made to set the neighborhood on fire: The East End Town Hall, the Loyal Temple, the Trinity Hotel, the King Street Presbyterian Church, and others, including the last fire on Dundas street.

GET JAILED FOR ROWDY CONDUCT

Louis McCoy, Wife and Friend
Draw Ten Days' Sentence.

Louis McCoy, colored, his wife, Cora, Indian, and a friend, Marion Nichols, Indian, were sent to jail for ten days, after they had been convicted of disorderly conduct at the Markin House, when they appeared in police court today.

Apparently Louis forgot that he was in Ontario, and not Utah, for police stepped in in answer to a complaint that the prisoner had one more "go" for him.

Constable George Tomblin told of a second man, a white man, being "in the party" but he gave no name. McCoy asked the police thought the time was ripe to take a hand in the proceedings.

Only a few days ago McCoy had been ordered to leave town and had bought a ticket for Woodstock. On second thought, he decided London was good enough for him, and promptly obtained a job and disposed of his ticket. He asked Miss Nichols to keep his wife company while he was at work, he explained, in answer to a question as to why he had two women with him.

Before he was away to the cells, McCoy asked that he be deported to the United States when his term expired. His request may be granted.

DENIES INVESTIGATION IN $50,000 BRIBE EXPOSURE

Hon. R. W. Craig Says Only Necessary
Provisional Committee
Correctly Reported.

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—No investigation will be made of the alleged attempt to bribe him with $50,000 to refrain from enforcing the Manitoba temperance act, Hon. R. W. Craig, attorney-general for Manitoba, stated last night before leaving for Winnipeg. He stated that he was hurrying back to Winnipeg, where he would take up the matter of the statement made by Rev. Dr. C. W. Gordon to that effect.

The only thing to investigate is whether Dr. Gordon was correctly reported or not. If Rev. Dr. Gordon has been correctly reported, I can only say that he must have misinterpreted some statement of mine in a confidential conversation," Mr. Craig said.

ARREST MAN ON ROBBERY CHARGE

PLAN TO SOLVE FISCAL TANGLE OF EUROPEANS

International Trade Commission Outlines Program to Save Stricken Nations.

PRESENTED IN CONGRESS

Chairman Claims Nations of World On Verge of War.

Special to The Advertiser.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 18.—(By Lincoln Quaburg, for the United Press.)—The proposal that a world economic conference be called by the United States, suggested by Dr. Joseph Wirth, former German chancellor, will be presented in detail in Congress by the international trade commission.

Clarence J. Owens, chairman, in an exclusive interview with the United Press today, outlined the plans for the conference as drawn up by members of the commission.

"Dr. Wirth's suggestion for a world conference, as reported in an interview with Karl A. Bickel, general manager of the United Press, coincides with the views arrived at by the committee, after a three-months' survey of economic, financial and commercial conditions in Europe, Owens said.

An outline of the commission's report, which will be submitted to the southern commercial congress, which meets here Monday, was presented in detail for the first time by Owens in his interview. It includes the following recommendations:

1. An international conference of bankers and governmental representatives to discuss means for a moratorium of payment of inter-allied and German debts, and plan of amortization for the payment of their obligations.

2. An international tariff conference for the non-partisan revision of tariff schedules to remove barriers to foreign commerce, and reduce the tariff of payment of inter-allied and German debts, and plan of amortization for the payment of their obligations.

3. Amendments of laws in the United States to co-ordinate the agencies of the American government at home and abroad as they relate to the foreign service of the country. To avoid economic loss of the present system.

4. A conference of diplomatic, consular and other foreign representatives of the United States in European countries to be held periodically for adoption of concerted action as to a pan-European policy.

5. A change of diplomatic policy of the United States so that foreign representatives might submit constructive criticism on economic subjects without partisan bias or without fear of reprisal.

"Europe is more nearly on the verge of armed conflict today than at any time since immediate preceding the world war," Owens stated. "The economic depression, and some solution of her economic problems is reached soon. The fundamental problem is that of settlement of debts and reparations. Foreign settlement must include all nations who are parties to international obligations."

"America as the creditor nation, must see that its interests are protected in the contract of settlement and the world economic conference is the logical solution."

BRITISH PAPER DISCUSSES PROGRESSIVES IN CANADA

Sees Resignation of Cramer Sign
That Federal Party Has Split.

London, Nov. 18.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—The Saturday Review speaks of the new parties in Canada and Australia—the Progressives and the Country Party—a standing more and more for class legislation and dominance.

This became so increasingly marked in Canada, says the Review, that Cramer has resigned the leadership. "In his letter of resignation, Cramer scathingly denounced this sectionalism, maintaining that members of parliament must not represent a class, but be prepared to act always for the benefit of the whole Dominion. As a considerable number of the Progressives side with Cramer, the party is split and will be less powerful, which perhaps is just as well."

1,223 FAMILIES DRAW ON CANADA PATRIOTIC FUND

Ottawa, Nov. 18.—(By The Canadian Press.)—A report received from Philip H. Morris, the executive secretary of the Canadian patriotic fund, shows that there are now less than 1,223 families in receipt of regular monthly allowances from that fund. Of these, no less than 434 are deserted wives, whose husbands, in a great majority of cases, remained in Europe at the cessation of hostilities, and refused to contribute to the support of their legal dependents in Canada. In the main, these were deserters, and their children, the fund is spending approximately $250,000 per annum.

DECISION MADE DESPITE THREAT TO STOP PARLEY

Kemalists Claim Sultan Surrendered Right to Throne
by Flight on British Warship and His Landing on Christian Soil.

FLED BY THE BACK DOOR OF PALACE

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
Paris, Nov. 18.—Joint allied action against the Turk in the Near East, in case Mustafa Kemal's envoys refuse the allied terms at Lausanne, was planned today at a luncheon by Lord Curzon, Premier Poincare and the Marquis Avezzano.

Despite the Turkish threat to disrupt the Lausanne peace conference, at which a settlement of the Near East impasse is to be attempted, if the allies arrange terms in advance, Curzon, Avezzano and Poincare, representing Britain, Italy and France, respectively, went ahead with plans for a ultimatum.

Close accord among general lines was reached, it was stated. Constantinople, Nov. 18.—The Turkish Nationalists consider that Sultan Mohammed VI by his flight has surrendered the Caliphate, according to the Turkish Nationalist press. "According to the Moslem law," he told The Associated Press, when the sultan leaves Turkish soil and enters Christian territory he places himself under the Caliphate, ceasing to retain any authority over the Muslims.

Mohammed's departure on the British dreadnought, Malaya, in face of threatened trial for treason by the Angora government, was compared by Rafet Pasha to the flight of Damad Ferid Pasha, former grand vizier and other members of the opposition who by their acts were compromised in the eyes of the whole Turkish nation.

Great Britain's connivance in the sultan's flight, it was charged, was interference in Turkey's internal affairs. Rafet was much agitated. He spent several hours following the escape in fruitfully telephoning Angora for instructions and taking precautions against the flight of the members of the sultan's cabinet and other high personages wanted by the Nationalists.

The sultan left his palace by the back door, known as the Malta gate, which heretofore has always been sealed. The British for some time had been aware of his anxiety and fear for his personal safety and were prepared to remove him when he said the word. They explained, however, that the request for safe conduct must come from him as they could not be placed in the false position of having kidnapped him.

They also pointed out that he must go a reasonable distance from the palace as it was expedient to introduce British guards into the grounds because of the danger of conflict with the Kemalists soldiers there. The sultan agreed to all of these conditions. Only three persons in the palace knew of the intended flight, namely, the court chamberlain, the sultan's personal physician and his handmaid. These were the only palace officials he trusted toward the end, and he even kept his wives in the dark as to his plans.

Kept in the Dark.
The flight was so carefully arranged that not a single soldier and soldier stationed in the palace grounds did not learn of it until shortly before the sultan, or prayer ceremony at noon, in which the sultan was to have participated.

All pedestrian and vehicular traffic in the neighborhood of the palace was then stopped, and the place was surrounded by Nationalist military and gendarmes. Within the palace consternation reigned among the sultan's wives and eunuchs.

When correspondents visited the palace on Thursday, the sultan, through some of his courtiers, declared his intention of remaining on the throne. He said the action of the Angora government in abolishing the Caliphate was invalid and was supported by his 300,000,000 Moslem subjects in India and elsewhere.

OPENS SUIT FOR $10,000 DAMAGES FOR ARREST

McGill Professor Sues Colleague For Making Charges of Poisoning.

Special to The Advertiser.
Quebec, Nov. 18.—Pleas were heard before Justice Beliveau here in the $10,000 damages action for false arrest, entered by Prof. Eleuthere Morin against Prof. Hermann Walter, both of McGill University.

Messrs. Cutton of Montreal and Berube & Berube of the petitioner referred to the criminal case, which was heard by the late Justice King, when Prof. Morin was honorably acquitted of the charge of attempting to poison the waters of a well used by the sultan's cabinet and other high personages wanted by the Nationalists.

Prof. Morin had been arrested on the complaint of his former friend and colleague, and after some time the trial was heard in Montreal. According to the petitioner, evidence heard in the criminal court in Montreal showed that there was no poison in the water, and the case was dismissed.

Now the plaintiff claims $10,000 damages for false arrest.
