THROUGH HEARS PROCLAMATION

George V. Proclaimed King at St. James' Palace--Brilliant Ceremony Witnessed by Thousands.

ROYAL SALUTE.

LONDON, May 9.—With the time-honored ceremony of a most brilliant and impressive character, George V. this morning was publicly proclaimed King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the seas, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India.

Sharply at the stroke of nine, four heralds arrayed in medieval uniforms of asclret, heavily braided with gold, mounted the balcony of Priars Court at St. James Palace, where Queen Victoria presented herself to the people upon the opening of her memorable reign and blew a fanfare through their long silver trumpets.

The precincts of the palace were crowded with people, many of whom could secure but the briefest glimpse of the proceedings. The balconies and roofs of the ancient palace which had been draped with red cloth, were reserved for the nobles, all of whom were in the deepest mourning. Members of the royal household, the ministers and their wives and high officers of State, all in brilliant uniforms were gathered around the court. General Sir John French, with the headquarters staff in full dress uniform, stood surrounded by a troop of horse guards in their red tunics and breast plates of polished steel.

From the windows of Marlborough House immediately opposite, the Duke of Cornwall, the young heir to the throne, the younger princes and princesses witnessed the ceremony. The heralds having concluded their duties, the officers of arms, chief of whom is the Duke of Norfolk, the hereditary Earl Marshal, and Chief Butler of England, took their places on the balcony, facing the great heraldic company. None were mourning, this having been removed for the occasion, Sir Alfred Scott-Gatty, Garter Principal King of Arms, with the Duke of Norfolk and two officers bearing the staffs of office, stepped to the front of the balcony and in a won the spinning two-year-old stake which could be heard across the court and in the streets adjoining. The proclamation, while great throngs stood with heads uncovered in a driving rain. The Duke and Sir Alfred then called for three cheers for the King, and the people responded with deafening hurrahs, which were silenced only by the re-announcement of the heralds who sounded another fanfare.

The last note hardly had died away when the band of the Coldstream Guards which had taken up a position in the square struck up "God Save the King." The young princes, from their point of vantage in the windows of Marlborough House, stood with their hands a salute and the officers and troops stood at attention. As the National Anthem was concluded the first gun of the battery in St. James' Park belched forth a royal salute and the people in the square and streets at the same moment took up the refrain "God Save the King." This was probably the most impressive part of the ceremony, the fervent singing of the crowds which had reached those in the balcony as a hum growing in volume as more and more singers joined in, while at minute intervals the gun half drowned the chorus. Meanwhile the Royal Standard had been hoisted over Marlborough House, indicating that the King was his royal residence and flag upon the public offices throughout the city were raised to the mast heads.

If your Stomach, Heart or Kidneys are weak, try at least a few doses only of Dr. Shoop's Restorative. In five or ten days only, the result will surprise you. Few cures can be so quick. And here is why help comes so quickly. Dr. Shoop doesn't drug the stomach, nor stimulate the Heart. Dr. Shoop's Restorative gives directly to the weak and failing organs. Each organ has its own controlling nerve. When these nerves fail, the depending organs must of necessity fail. This plain, yet vital truth, clearly tells why Dr. Shoop's Restorative is so universally successful. Its success is leading doctors everywhere to give it universal preference. A test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

"Dadworth (as he sees Rigby feasting on mushrooms)—Aren't you afraid to eat those things? How do you know but that they are food-poison?" "Rigby—Oh, I know all right. I sent part of the mess to some of my friends yesterday, and this morning I looked for their names, but didn't find them among the other notes."

Minard's Liniment Lumberman's Friend.

CURES CATARRH

Stomach dosing was found ineffective, and the principle of inhalation was finally perfected. Even the Romans and Ancient Greeks used it, but not in the scientific manner that the physician prescribes to-day. The most wonderful results have been secured with a new treatment known as "Catarrhose," which sends germ-destroying vapors directly into the air passages of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, and lungs.

Rich, Pure Essences are Breathed Right to the Spots that are Sick. Cure follows.

Catarrh proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucus drops down the throat, sickens the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are stuffed only a few breaths of the Catarrhose vapors clear the passages, and where there is coughing add some bronchial tubes, the exciting, healing properties of Catarrhose act as magic.

Once you stop the Catarrhose medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhose at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, weak lungs, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

BRUCE,
Your Clothier.

Beware of imitations. Three sizes, 25c, 50c, and $1. The latter being guaranteed. Sold by all dealers in medicine, or by mail from the Catarrhose Company, Kingston, Ont.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY FRIDAY EVENING AT 8.45.

News Came as a Great Shock to Nation and Whole Civilized World. Empire in Mourning.

NEW KING GEORGE V.

LONDON, May 6.—King Edward VII, who returned to England from a vacation ten days ago in the best of health, died at 11.45 o'clock tonight in the presence of his family, of illness less than a week, which was serious hardly more than three days. The Prince of Wales succeeded to the throne, according to the laws of the Kingdom. His first official act was to despatch to the Lord Mayor the announcement of his father's death, in pursuance of custom. His telegram read: "I am grieved to inform you that my father, the King, passed away at 11.45 (Signed) George."

The physicians afterwards issued their official bulletin, which was as follows: "11.45 p. m. 'His Majesty, the King, breathed his last at 11.45, in the presence of Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Princess Royal, the Duchess of Fife, Princess Victoria and Princess Louise, the Duchess of Argyll."

"Pneumonia, following bronchitis, is believed to have been the cause of death, but the doctors thus far have refused to make a statement. Some of the King's friends are convinced that worry over the critical political situation, which confronted him, with sleepless nights, aggravated, if it did not cause the fatal illness. Just 24 hours after the first news of his broken to the public as from a clear sky that the King was suffering from bronchitis with the physicians' statement that his condition 'causes some anxiety' came the official announcement that 'His Majesty's condition is now critical.' The public immediately interpreted these significant words to mean that the King's case was very hopeless. That conviction prevailed London and the entire Kingdom. The bulletin was transmitted to all the royal relatives before it was made public and the rapid succession of arrivals of royalties at the palace within the next hour confirmed so far as confirmation was needed the most alarming view. 'The Prince and Princess of Wales and the Duchess of Argyll' had left the palace shortly before the issuance of the bulletin, both ladies showing marked signs of grief. Princess Victoria and the Duke of Fife followed. The Duke and Duchess of Cornwall, who today arrived at Southampton from an African shooting expedition, were notified and Queen Maude telegraphed from Christiana that she would start for London tomorrow. Sir Wm. Robson, the Attorney General, hurried to the palace, he explained, on urgent official business and remained half an hour. Archbishop of Canterbury, who visited the Queen in the morning, paid a second call before dinner. He talked with the Prince of Wales and hurried away with signs of great emotion, to preside at a meeting. He returned to the palace at half past nine o'clock in the evening.

All religious bodies issued calls for special prayers and special services had been arranged for tomorrow for intercessions for the King. The Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, Abbot, after Bourne, said the King's critical stream of callers passed through the diplomatic entrance to sign the visitors' book and make inquiries. The more intimate friends of the royal family were received at the entrance to the wing of the palace, where the King's apartments are situated. The crowd outside was an ever changing one, the early ones being artisans who stopped on their way from work. Later, all classes commenced to flock through Green and St. James Park toward the palace. When the morning bulletin, which long before had been given to the press and circulated in special additions was posted on the fence, the square was crowded so that police reserves had to be called to make a traffic for the morning. Showers which were accompanied by a sharp wind, only drove a few away and it looked as though Palace Square would be filled the night long until the police moved those who had been informed that no further business was forthcoming. Only groups of reporters remained.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—President Taft on learning of the death of King Edward wrote the following message of condolence to Her Majesty, Queen Alexandra, which was called to Buckingham Palace tonight: "On the sad occasion of the death of King Edward, I offer to your Majesty and to your son, his illustrious successor, the most profound sympathy of the president of the people and the government of the United States. Whose hearts go out to you in your great loss. To this I add the expression to your Majesty and the new King and of my appreciation of those high qualities which made the life of the late King so potent an influence toward peace and justice among the nations."

LONDON, May 7.—Only the nearest relatives and doctors were with the King at the end. The cause of death is understood, was pneumonia, following bronchitis.

Portland, Me., May 6.—Every Reptaher will be shocked and grieved at the loss of His Majesty's exclamation, British Vice-Consul John B. Easton tonight, when informed of the death of the King. The shock is more keen because it was not realized in condition was so serious. In camp in barracks, on the march, in the field or elsewhere in the known world wherever two or more Britishers met the last of the day or night was "The King, God bless him," words not uttered in form or meaningless custom but everyone gave this loyal toast and repeated these words of love and fealty with a fervor and a full heart's measure of affection and veneration for one whom we all loved and respected.

Edward VII, who ascended the throne upon the death of his mother Queen Victoria, January 22nd, 1901, was born in Buckingham Palace, November 9, 1841. He was christened Albert Edward, Prince of Wales, receiving the name Albert after his father and Edward after the Duke of Kent, his grandfather. The title Duke of Cornwall fell upon him at birth, he being the oldest son of the

NATIONAL ANTHEM

A special memorial session of the Town Council was held last evening for the purpose of introducing resolutions relative to the death of our beloved sovereign King Edward VII and the accession to the throne of his successor King George V, and on motion of the Council, these resolutions were made the sole order of the day at that meeting. The first resolution referred feelingly to the death of the late King, with expressions of sympathy in common with the rest of the British Empire, and contained also special references to the beneficial effect of the late King's personal influence in the settlement of international difficulties and the promotion of universal peace. The second resolution was one of congratulations to the new King, George V, and assuring him of our devotion and loyalty. Both these resolutions were carried unanimously by a standing vote of the Council, accompanied by the singing of the national anthem. It was also ordered that copies of these resolutions, duly signed and forwarded to His Excellency the Governor General for transmission, on motion of the Council, the Mayor appointed a memorial committee, consisting of Councillors White, McDonald and Moores, to carry into effect the wishes of our citizens to provide a special memorial service on the day of the late King's funeral. ### BEAUTIFUL TRIBUTE BY SALVATION ARMY

Queen Mother Allows Its Band to Enter Palace Grounds.

HOLDS A SERVICE

LONDON, May 9.—An impressive incident in Sunday illustrated Queen Alexandra's desire to show consideration for the British subjects of every class. General Booth sent a message that the Salvation Army wished to show honor to King Edward VII. by holding a special service before the palace and Queen Alexandra gave permission. At four o'clock a large band, wearing red jerseys and carrying silver instruments and banners, with scarves of crepe, pushed their way through the crowd to the palace. The big iron gates were opened and the band formed a circle under the windows. First they knelt while the leader prayed, and then they sang, "Near My God to Thee, Abide With Me, and Angels Ever Bright and Fair. They finally marched out singing "Onward Christian Soldiers. The blinds were closed, but the attendance, Queen Alexandra left her apartments with Princess Mary and her ladies in waiting and listened to the singing from behind them.
