NEW FREEMAN ON F. B.

CARVELL, K. C. M. P.

(New Freeman)

A great deal that is untrue as well as coarse and vulgar is being said and written these days about a man called F. B. Carvell because of his timely criticisms regarding war contracts, etc. The government has answered these specific charges with a general denial. This will not satisfy the people nor will it do justice to the government. We remember that when the Dugal charges were made at Fredericton a flat denial was given them by the Hon. Mr. Clarke on behalf of the premier. The public today knows which statement was correct. The charges at Ottawa must be met by something better than a general denial.
The distinguished and fearless representative for Carleton county (N. B.), need pay no heed to the criticisms that are being levelled against him by a certain element of the government party. The great services that he has rendered his native province and the Dominion generally in exposing political mountebanks and grafters within the last few years should not soon be forgotten.

Mr. Carvell has done more for the government than it has done for itself inasmuch as he has topped off some of the deceased branches of the government tree. Keep right on Mr. Carvell, with full steam ahead. You have deserved well of your fellow-Canadian citizens for what you have already done. We believe there is yet much for you to do in public life along the lines you have been working and every Canadian whose opinion counts for anything regardless of party affiliations will agree that there is dire need for just such a man as Frank Broad-street Carvell in our present-day public life.

The only return from a farm is the crop. The system that partly deprives the farmer of this return, even when it compensates him by the selling price of his land, which is really an attachment on the crops of the future, induces half-titled holding instead of promoting the best cultivation.

PATHETIC REMARKS
OF SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Reminded of the Ruins of Louvain.—A Faithful Servant Gone

Sir Wilfrid Laurier declared that he had been so long associated with the historic chamber that its loss was a personal one to him. "The people of Canada," he said, "have become attached to the historic structure, where the Union Jack was won't to fly throughout the days of the session.
But great was the loss of the building," said Sir Wilfrid, "it is not to be compared with the loss of human life. A nobler building will rise again from its ashes, but human life we cannot recall."

Sir Wilfrid paid a tribute to those who had died. "And," he said; with weeping voice, "what can we say of the loss of those two young happy wives and mothers who, bright as the lark in the morning sky, came here to visit old friends, and now they are no more? What can we say of them?"
"I agree with my right honorable friend," he declared with emphasis.
"We should go on with our business at once. We look upon the ashes of that noble building which was destroyed by accident, and they remind us of the ruins of Dinant, of the ashes of Louvain, whose destruction was not caused by accident, and we must proceed at once to the business before us, which has for its object the defeat of those who wrought their destruction."

Continuing, Sir Wilfrid said: "We had at the table an officer who had been for very nearly twenty years a faithful servant of the House of Commons, a man whom every member had learned to appreciate. How he disappeared we do not know, but unfortunately there is no hope that we will be able to see him again in life, and what have we to say of the loss of those two young ladies, young, happy mothers and wives, visiting old friends in their present high station, and now no more."

"I have nothing more to say than to endorse what has been said by the Prime Minister; that we should go on at once with the business of the country, and when we look at the mass of ruin there on the hill, and when we know that it is not the result of an accident, we are reminded of the ruins of Louvain and the ruins of Rheims, caused not by accident, but by the wickedness of a cruel foe. If there is anything which the present calamity should impress on us it is the desirability of going on with our work and doing everything to bring the murderers to justice."

There is more Catarrh in this section pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a requires constitutional treatment.

A FISH DAY.

February 29th.

(Canadian Fisherman.)

This is a leap year. One more day is added to the calendar, and one more working day means a lot in economic value. It means more wealth for distribution, more savings for the thrifty, more knowledge for the student, more ideas for the intellectual, more value all around added to the year. It is our duty to make the most of this extra day.

In our particular sphere of action, could not something be done to enhance and promote the interests of our industry? It strikes me that this particular day of this leap year, February 29th, should be a fitting occasion to inaugurate a day, which would be known in the years to come as the Fish day of the Dominion. It is said "Every dog has his day," and why should not the fish have its day? To that effect I propose most earnestly that after this year, our Association, at its general meeting, should decide the date of an annual Fish Day. I believe, however, that it should take place during the month of February.
Firstly, because in the abstract the month of February in the calendar year is under the sign of the Fishes —this appeals to the imagination.
Secondly, it is during this month that as a rule the Lenten season commences, and we all know the concrete influence of this season on the fish trade.

Thirdly, at this particular period of the year, stocks of all kinds of fish have accumulated in great variety and it affords a greater choice to select from. It is also the period of cold weather when fish can be conveniently and more safely carried and distributed.

The fish day that we wish to inaugurate should not be merely an occasion to make speeches, to read papers, or to comment on the operation of the Naval Service Department, and revise the statistics. It should be a day of action, and the slogan, "Eat Fish, more Fish, and plenty of it," should be more in evidence than ever.

It should be a festival of good cheer, bon viveur, after the style of the old mythological feasts, so that a fat salmon buried in crisp Boston lettuce adorned with thin slices of juicy lemon, cucumber and other tasty seasonings would become as significant, to us, of good things, as Bacchus crowned with vine leaves was to the ancients.
Or our Fish Day might be a repetition of those feasts of more modern epochs.
The part of the trade in this festival would be to make a great demonstration by the Fishermen, an exposition of the riches of our prolific waters, decorated with bunting, mottoes, inscriptions; even illuminating signs should be displayed at every market and business place.

There should be everywhere an atmosphere of bustle and activity, so that hesitation to participate for the good influence in this festival would be impossible. In the public demonstration new adherents to the cause would join by myriads. But to make the Fish Day a success and to implant the idea securely in the hearts and minds of our people, it is necessary to give it a wide publicity. From the Arctic Sea to the Great Lakes, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the press of our country should proclaim the advantages and merits of Fish as a food. Every member of our Associa-

JOHN MYLES WINS
IMPORTANT SUIT

Chandler Property Involved in Line Dispute.—Case is Settled

New Carlisle, February 3, 1916.— The case of Gabriel Myles of Chandler, vs. John Myles, which has been before the Courts for some time was finally disposed of last week.

The facts are as follows:— John Myles, of Chandler, owns a lot of land and his neighbor is Gabriel Myles. The latter wished to have the line determined between his property and that of John Myles, and as they could not come to a mutual understanding, Gabriel Myles retained the services of Messrs. Bugeaud & Cote, and they sued John Myles for a line.
John Myles, before the Superior Court at Percé, did not engage any Attorney to defend him, and the case went by default against him, and judgment was rendered deciding where the line should be, and condemning John Myles to pay all the costs of action, including the costs of survey.

As he had allowed the case to go by default, the first news he had after judgment was rendered, was when the sheriff appeared on the scene, and seized his property for the costs amounting to some $400.00. After his property was seized and was about to be sold, he then retained the services of the Honorable John Hall Kelly, and the latter after examining the record, came to the conclusion that the judgment was wrong, because, as he claimed, the Court could not condemn John Myles to pay the whole costs of survey and that only one-half of the costs could be charged up against him, and as a result, the whole judgment was wrong.

He advised his client to appeal from the judgment of the Superior Court at Percé, to the Court of Appeal, at Quebec, which his client decided to do. As the law obliges any one appealing from a judgment to give security for the costs, John Myles tried to obtain security, but could not do so. When his client was unable to obtain the security, Honorable Mr. Kelly made a cash deposit himself of $600.00 to meet the costs of appeal, and the case was then proceeded with in the ordinary course.

The Court of Appeal sat in Quebec last week and just before the Court sat, Messrs. Bugeaud & Cote, abandoned their judgment and Mr. Gabriel Myles signed a withdrawal of the judgment that had been obtained in his favor.

This practically decides the stand-taken by Mr. Kelly that even on an action at law, the costs of survey must be divided between the parties, and that one of the parties alone cannot be condemned to pay the whole costs thereon.

tion should do his share of advertising in this connection. It is also the duty of each one of the Executive not to share efforts but to co-operative fully with the press and give all attention to the movement.

I say also that our Provincial and Federal Governments, our Transportation and Public Utilities Commission, should throw all their influence to bear upon a subject which is interesting and concerns every citizen of Canada. After all the Fish Day will be a stimulant and a means to develop one of this country's best assets. It is also a patriotic effort in every sense of the word.

Our Fish industry is not less precious than our Mines, our Forests, or our Agricultural Lands, and really a good deal less has been done to develop the Fish industry.

For many reasons our fish industry should receive more encouragement than any of our other industries. All that is necessary is to exploit the fish —nature without any cost or effort to the exploiter.

In the case of our mines, after the ore is taken out, nothing of any value is left. It takes one hundred years to replace the growth of a forest that has been cut, and if farming could be done without tilling the soil, planting the seed and fertilizing it, it would then be on the same footing as our fisheries.

And as regards food products, crops will fail, disease will read and annihilate cattle, but no famine is possible with our fisheries, and the more we develop them the more valuable they will become. So a Fish Day every year is imperative. We must at all costs get the public interested in the development of our fisheries.

Let everyone be ready, then, for the next 29th February, the first Fish Day to be celebrated in this country.

GERMANS HAVE EQUIPPED

NINE-SEA RAIDERS

New York, February 5.—Nine sea-raiders of the type of the Moewe have been fitted out by the Germans, and one of them which escaped from the Kiel Canal on New Year's Day with the Moewe, has since been preying on British commerce with as much success as the Appam's captor, according to a story told here tonight by Mrs.
Francis Fuller, wife of the British Governor-General of Ashanti.

Mrs. Fuller was one of the 97 passengers of the Appam, who arrived here from Norfolk, Va., on board the Old Dominion steamer Jefferson. Forty officers and ninety-three members of the crews of the British vessels captured by the Moewe and later taken in charge by the German prize crew, which brought the Appam to American waters, also were on the Jefferson.
They were transferred to a tug and taken to the Seamen's Institute, where they will be cared for until arrangements can be made to send them back to England.

Mrs. Fuller declared one of the German officers who came aboard the Ap-pam was authority for the statement that the Germans had equipped the nine raiders at Kiel. She said he told her the Moewe, and the other which escaped the British patrol based at most within three hours of three British cruisers within a few hours after they left the Kiel Canal.

A LETTER FRAE HAME.

Be sure ye mind to write to me,
For aft I think o' hame;
When watchin' in the trench at night,
It a' comes back again.
I see ilk ane about the house,
The folk gaun out and in,
It's then I weary maist o' a'
For a wee bit screed frae hame.

Ye canna think what joy it gies To them that's far awa' When they see a letter come Wi' a line or twa.
It cheers them up, it helps them on,
It mak's them brave agin.
Ye widna credit what it does,
A wee bit screed frae hame.

There's maybe no sae much to say, But jist it lets me hear That ye're a' weel, and ilka ane Aye gaun about at hame, A sprig o' heather, or a leaf,
A photo o' the glen,
Jist anything that brings to mind
The wee auld hoose at hame.

I sometimes weary whaur I am,
'Mid a' the din o' war, I think I hear the auld bell ring.
I see the Hoose o' Prayer, Sae, tell me whiles about the Kirk, About the sermon tae,
My heart is hungry for a word:
Jist tell me what they say.

Sae mind and no forget to write,
For aft I think o' a', When watchin' 'neath the stars at night.

Oor in my "dug-out" brow, I see ye a' about the hoose,
The folk gaun out and in,
For a wee bit screed frae hame.
