Dineen's Fifty Thousand Sale.
One fact is discovered—there is still lots of money in this country, and all that is wanted is some inducement to bring it out. Since Dineen announced through these columns the great reductions that he is making on all his fur stock, there have been sold some of the most valuable and expensive ladies' seal garments that have been made this season. The reduction, of course, is very considerable, ladies' mink lined silk garments sold freely, and so did squirrell, but the great demand is for beaver, otter, 'seal, capes and muffs.
