

While we are here, living, growing, and
The sun may have a blight on us all,
And you were here so early, a long time ago,
While blessings are waiting for us now.

Strange indeed would it be, of a land like our own,
Where our trees, though tallest, are stunted, when Though our winters are long, and a winter's severe,
But lead us to summers delightful years,
Should be less attractive, because of its cold,
Then lands full of vines—though training with glee.

But prosperous as Canada always hath been,
This year is the best that she ever hath seen,
And now she is wreathing a laurel to wear,
That nations may one day be anxious to share.

Her prosperous condition will appear very plain,
Where her farmers get a dollar and a quarter for grain,
While all their productions so easily sell,
At prices which now pay them equally well.

To many, it doubtless may seem very queer,
Why Dry Goods are cheap and Provisions so dear,
It is true, notwithstanding, which our patrons may see,

By calling on Young Street One Hundred and Three.

While it may not know, an advance very great,
Has been made in the value of wares of late,
Yet our flannels and blankets will quickly appear,
Quite as low as the prices we offered last year.

Our Bonnets and Cloaks have been tastefully made,
With a prospect of greatly increasing our trade,
And our Shawls and our Furs will at once please the eye

And induce even the most fastidious to buy.

Our manner of business is extensively known,
The lowest price asked, with the article shown,
And such, we determine, shall continue to be,
The unceasing practice at ONE HUNDRED AND THREE.
