

- the multiplex system should be designed to permit ready expansion to 960 channels at least ; initial multiplex requirement is somewhat indefinite at this point.

- a reasonable complement of consumable spares and spare panels or units should be provided.