TWENTY-SEVENTH YEAR

GOT MONEY FOR THEIR VOTES TWO LONDONERS SWEAR ONE MAN LOST HIS

Sensational Evidence Confirming Collins' Story of Illegal Handling of Ballots to Check Performance of Voters Purchased.

Evidence substantiating the story of Jerry Collins as to the bribery of voters in the London by-election was given in the police court yesterday by Edward Clark and Kenneth Clark, each of whom swore they had received $10 each for voting for Hyman. They implored Wiley and Mulloy. John Cox had also received an envelope from Mulloy, while Alex Milne, a deputy returning officer, swore that he had been instructed by Collins as to how to illegally fold the ballots.

So fine was the system of keeping tab on the purchased voters that when one of them, who had been promised $10 for his vote, cast his ballot for Gray, the money was not waiting for him when he called.

Yesterday Premier Whitney, discussing the situation, said:
"Whoever may be playing fast and loose in the matter, this government is not. The case was reported to the attorney-general's department, and the first I heard of it was when the attorney-general, Hon. Mr. Foy, told me it had been placed in the hands of the prosecuting authorities."

"An immediate and full investigation was ordered—the only proper and consistent course to pursue, and the course I trust this government will always pursue without any considerations of personal or political effect. Whatever the result, and no matter who is hurt or helped, it is the department's intention to probe it to the bottom. As public servants, it is simply a plain duty."
"I trust that methods have changed since the times when scandal cases of this character were made known to the public in an unofficial manner, and when persons concerned had been given ample time to square things or depart from the country the trials were brought on with usually abortive results. The department, on this occasion, acted as soon as the information was given to it with them. In future let it be clearly understood that there is no intention to wink at allegations of election fraud, and that they will be taken to indicate payments to voters by Collins, Service, Mulloy and Borden."

The first witness, John Cox, proprietor of the Dominion House, London, said that Mulloy, whom he knew, had given him an envelope for one of the trudels. He didn't know what it was for, but Mulloy came and got it back some time after the election. Trudell had come and asked for it.

Mr. DuVermet: "What did he tell you?" Mr. Robinson: "He told me that he was in a conspiracy case."

While Mr. Robinson ventured: "Yes, in jailing charges."

A D.R.O. Testifies.
Alex Milne, a plumber, who acted as deputy returning officer, said Collins had asked him to fold the ballots, and that the "X" could be seen. He had received his appointment thru Ardy, who had asked him to officiate. That was two weeks before election. He was a stranger and did not know the voters, and did not see anyone beforehand about how to fold the ballots," asked Mr. DuVermet.

"They saw me, I guess,"
"You saw me, what were there for?"
"Yes," witness admitted, but hastily added: "I don't mean that."

"Remember you, swore to tell the whole truth," and Mr. DuVermet asked: "Who saw you about the ballots?"
"Jerry Collins,"

Mr. Robinson: "He told me that Collins was not charged with conspiracy, but that he was charged with evidence concerning him could be received."

Witness: "We must get this election. He showed me how to fold the ballots."

He said he had refused to do as Collins suggested, and had told Ardy so.
He said he had seen how about fifty times, but couldn't help it.

Witness knew Sifton, who had not been an active worker except as a s-rtuner on polling day, when he had a book in which he marked off names.

There was only one objection during the day," said Milne. "Mr. Gray came in and saw that the ballot had been given a voter. He asked that the ballot be given another. I said he could have another if he would not do it."

"That's right," said Ardy, "neither of them told me that the election was for that day."

Mr. DuVermet: "You knew Collins was deputy returning officer?"

MOVEMENT OF WHEAT.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 1.—(Special.)—Inspection returns for the first month of the present shipping year were issued today.
During the month a total of 7141 cars of wheat, 8,151,150 bushels, were inspected, compared with 6108 cars and 6,413,400 bushels in the corresponding month a year ago.

Had the shortage of cars not been so acute throughout the west, the month's figures would undoubtedly have shown a much larger movement east to the lake front.

A feature of the returns is the excellent quality of grain arriving from the west. No less than 1076 cars graded No. 1 hard wheat compared with 631 in the whole of the preceding crop year.
No. 1 northern totaled 2206 cars and No. 2 northern, 1104.

The three grades aggregated no less than 83 per cent. of the whole receipts.

There are still great complaints about the shortage of cars and farmers at present are actually putting wheat on the ground.

"We are also of the opinion that railway authorities to give their employees sufficient rest before going on duty."

"We are also of the opinion that important stations, such as Galt, Ireson and Hespeler, should be kept open on GOURONK COLLISION."

Guelph, Oct. 1.—(Special.)—This was the verdict of the coroner's jury, called to investigate the death of Engineer Thomas Farley in the head-on collision between a mixed regular and a fruit special on the Grand Trunk near Gour-onk.

The principal witness to-night was Engineer M. B. Reed of the fruit special.
He made the rather startling statement that No. 44, the regular, slipped his memory, and that was the reason he passed Hespeler, tho it was the intention to take a siding there.

The first intimation he had of his mistake was when he saw the headlight of No. 44 about two car lengths in front of him.

Reed stated emphatically that he was not trying to avoid the collision, and that he was not aware of the fact that No. 44, the conductor could have advised him by signal or air if anything was wrong.

Conductor Thompson, recalled, stated that the engineer had told him after the wreck that his watch must have been out, and that he thought he would make Guelph Junction. It was the duty of the brakeman to arouse him (conductor) if he was sleeping.

In answer to the question of the jurymen, A. J. Nixon stated that the accident could not have been averted had there been an operator at Hespeler. The safety of the train rested with the crew of the fruit special. They should have taken the siding out about an hour.

The jury was out about an hour.

DOWN WITH U.S. CONTROL LIVE CUBAN REPUBLIC CRY ACADEMY BOYS

First Anti-American Demonstration in Havana Streets Fails to Rouse Enthusiasm—Moderates Issue Manifesto, Blaming Taft.

Havana, Oct. 1.—The first anti-American demonstration occurred in Havana this evening at 7 o'clock, when 150 academy students and other youths straggled thru some of the down-town streets shouting "Viva the Cuban Republic." "Down with American control."

"This demonstration was not treated seriously. The crowd received few arrests."

The executive committee of the Moderate party has issued a manifesto strongly inferring that the American commission is to blame for the intervention. It summarizes the attitude of the party, eulogizes ex-President Palma, his actions and his resignation, reiterates the legality of the last elections and denies all responsibility for the revolution and the results thereof.

The manifesto asserts that the basis presented by President Roosevelt's commissioners were practically the same as those submitted by the Liberals.

Gen. Machado of Santa Clara has issued a circular urging all patriotic Cubans in the field to lay their arms down, return to their homes, protect life and property from the wandering marauders infesting Santa Clara Province, and to molest no one who has served the government.

Gov. Taft has sent a letter to Gen.
Machado, asking him to resign, and saying his assistance in this crisis is needed, especially in the matter of discharging the militia.

Gov. Taft's actions to-day have gone far to win him a warm place in the hearts of the people, whose desires temporarily have been placed in his hands.

Presiding this morning at the opening exercises of the new famous R. L. Borden and others, including Messrs. Letourgy, Fowler, Pope and Bennett, members of parliament, were touring Canada, the possibilities of speculation in western lands were impressed upon some of them at least.

Mr. Fowler became the leading spirit in the enterprise and in a letter to Letourgy he joyously announced that they had "succeeded beyond wildest hopes," having secured from Donald Mann inside information as to the route of the Canadian Northern. This was to be "of course under cover of the strictest secrecy," and Letourgy was enjoined to "keep it mum, except to Borden, Bennett and yourself."

Fowler also said that an interview had been had with Sir Thomas Shaughnessy and there was every reason to expect most generous treatment as to terms and price for the 200,000 acres wanted. Sir Thomas had promised "the best that was going," and a meeting was to be arranged at Montreal.

"Tell Messrs. Borden and Bennett about the meeting," wrote Fowler. "It is to be held at the hotel where we are to go to this fall and locate, as it could not be done in the spring, and that is one of the things that must be arranged at the meeting."

In the afternoon, when adjournment was made at 4 o'clock, Hon. George E.
Foster entered a protest. He said he had been unfairly attacked and was being delayed in his opportunity to go on the stand and reply. He did not want the cruelty continued.

Judge MacTavish said that justice would be done.

Peter Ryan also has written to Mr.
Shepley, K.C., demanding that he be put in the witness box to explain his connection in the Fowler matter before the insurance commission. He maintains that his request should be complied with immediately and that the public would be perfectly satisfied with his statement. Mr. Ryan said he had been around the city hall trying to get a hearing and he expected it in the morning.

ORWELL BONIFACE ON STAND TELLS OF NIGHT CAROUSE OF LIBERAL CANDIDATE

W. F. Hepburn Denies Story of Immoral Company and Charges That Hotelman Attempted to Blackmail—Why He Retired.

Aylmer, Oct. 1.—(Special.)—Evidence, flatly contradictory, was given before Magistrate Hunt to-day in the charge against D. Butler, proprietor of the Orwell Hotel.

Butler, who returned voluntarily from Detroit, swore positively that on the night in question Hepburn, the late Liberal candidate in East Elgin, had associated with the two women now missing.

Hepburn took the stand and swore just as positively that he had not and that it was all an attempt at blackmail on Butler's part. He did not, however, claim that Marshall, his political opponent, and the Conservative party were mixed up in it by having offered Butler money to lay the charges, and Butler, too, positively denied that there was any understanding with Marshall in the matter.

Hepburn was put thru a two and a half hour grilling by W. K. Cameron, crown counsel, who asked him if the charges preferred by Butler were responsible for his retirement from the election contest. Hepburn refused to answer until the magistrate ordered him to. Then he said it was not because of the charges that he was leaving the scandalous stories circulated.

Pressed if that was the only reason, he again declined to answer.

Boughner's Story.

The first witness was Mahlon Boughner of Orwell, who lived about 40 rods north of Orwell for 40 years. He said Butler, on Aug. 30, had told him that Hepburn had stopped with a woman (Mrs. Gilroy) about the 22nd of August.
Mr. Cameron handed witness a piece of paper containing a statement that he had seen Butler write, which said that on Aug. 30, Butler had told him that Hepburn had come to his house at 6:30 p.m. and put up.

Afterwards two women came to the house and went upstairs without his knowledge. Hepburn went to a room with one of them and remained until about 1 a.m. Hepburn drove away with the other woman, and stayed with the other. Butler told witness that Hepburn called for a drink between 12 and 1 a.m. Butler said he went to the room to take the drinks to Hepburn and found him with a woman.
He ordered him out.

In cross-examination by Andrew Grant, witness said that Hepburn and Butler subsequently called at his house after midnight and asked him to have this held back until after the election.
No money was offered him.

Butler repeated practically the same statement made by Boughner. He testified that Hepburn had ordered a bottle of whiskey at 9:15, and at midnight called for more. After the election if the matter was kept quiet, he would give Hepburn $500.

Butler testified that Hepburn had ordered a bottle of whiskey at 9:15, and at midnight called for more. After the
election if the matter was kept quiet,
he would give Hepburn $500.

Hebrew took the stand at his own request. He said he reached the hotel about 7:45. He went to the room at 10 o'clock. Butler showing him to his room. He got up the next morning about 8 o'clock. He saw no one but Butler.
