ALGOMA AND NORTHWEST MISSION.

George Buskin, of the Algoma and Northwest Colportage Mission, is making his 15th annual visit to London in the interest of the work in that district. It is largely directed to the well-being of laborers at lumbering, mining and public works, also to Indians and settlers. Bibles and Biblical literature in various forms, and in 18 languages, numbering 16,733 copies, have been supplied there by the agency of the mission, and many thousands of religious tracts and magazines have also been distributed among them. Prayer and gospel preaching services have also accompanied the work, in camps, school houses and in the open air; also 29 various editions of necessary Scriptural publications have been printed by the mission for its work, in five languages, incurring much cost for the limited resources of the mission. Its inducements are for profit to young and old, restraining the evil in character and stimulating the good. Its opportunities are extending from ocean to ocean and to the lands beyond, many additional thousands of its stock have been supplied in other parts of the land, and though not denominational, it is heartily commended by ministers and other persons of various denominations, both in the district and out of it. Its liabilities are many and difficult to discharge; the traveling also entails much expense. The missionary gratefully acknowledges $54 contributed in London last year by its support, and again respectfully presents the cause, in the Lord's name, for renewed support, so as to continue the work in a manner worthy of the Master's great name. The 10-acre homestead and dwelling colony for the poor, as proposed by the mission, has received, as yet, no financial aid, though many approve of the plan, and many poor families have applied for its aid.

"Looking for Trouble."

Some witty philosopher once said that the man who is looking for trouble will have no trouble in finding it. To paraphrase this, it may be said that those who witness "Looking for Trouble" at the Grand Opera House tomorrow evening will have no trouble in finding pleasure. Mr. Joe Ove, the leading comedian of the company, is a gentleman who enjoys a high reputation in the United States. This is his first visit to Canada, and he proposes hereafter to cross the line annually. For the purpose of introducing himself, he has decided on low prices on his first visit. They will range from 15 to 50 cents, and with such an attraction at such prices the house should be crowded.

LONDONER A VICTIM

Dr. Follows One of the Passengers on the ill-fated Mohagan.

The body of Dr. John Follows, a native of London, son of Mr. J. S. Follows, of the firm of F. A. Fitzgerald & Co., has been recovered and identified among the bodies of the victims of the ill-fated steamer Mohagan, which foundered on the Cornish coast, off the Lizard on Friday morning. He took passage on the steamship en route to this city for a holiday trip. Dr. Follows was about 33 years old, and for ten years was a practicing physician in old London. He had visited South Africa, and journeyed through the Transvaal, also Chili and other parts of South America.

HON. I. I. TARTE AT PT. STANLEY

Presented With an Address by the Board of Trade.

The Minister Inspects the Harbor Thoroughly.

And Orders That the Work Be Hastened—A Supplementary Grant Asked—Warm Welcome.

Hon. I. I. Tarte, minister of public works, visited Port Stanley Saturday to inspect the harbor, and, to representative citizens of London, St. Thomas and Port Stanley, by whom he was met, the minister intimated that the desired improvement would be made. He expressed surprise at the condition of the docks, and urged Foreman Heaborn to hurry forward the work of repairs, for which a grant was recently made by the government. With regard to the supplementing of this grant, Mr. Tarte promised to lay the matter before his colleagues, and seemed very favorably disposed to carry out the suggestion that a channel be made at the base of the hill on the east side of the pier, to change the outlet of Kettle Creek. Port Stanley will then be, unquestionably, the finest as well as the most important harbor on the north shore of Lake Erie.

The minister was at Port Burwell Friday and at Tilsonburg Saturday. At both places he was given a hearty reception. Recognizing that his visit was for the welfare, not of party, but of the country at large, representatives of both political parties united in making preparations for his reception, and the honorable gentleman was presented with numerous addresses, and entertained to banquets and lunches.

About 1 o'clock on Saturday the minister, Chief Engineer Coste, of the public works department, and Mr. Tarte's private secretary, Mr. Fred Gellinas, arrived at St. Thomas and were enthusiastically greeted by a large deputation of citizens. Several accompanied the visitors on the L. E. and D. R. R. to Port Stanley, where they were joined by a party of Londoners.

It was but a hurried visit, and had there been more time more elaborate preparations would have been made. However, the following address was presented to him on behalf of the Port Stanley Board of Trade, on his arrival at the station:
Hon. Israel Tarte, Minister of Public Works:
Dear Sir,—On behalf of the Port Stanley Board of Trade we take much pleasure in welcoming you in your official capacity as minister of public works to our village, with the intention, as we understand, of making a personal inspection of our harbor with a view to its permanent improvement. We esteem it a privilege and pleasure today to congratulate you on your appointment to so important a portfolio as minister of public works, and you will pardon us for intimating that in our opinion you are taking the proper and correct course in making a personal inspection of all harbors where public funds are likely to be expended. And we feel sure you will admit that unless something is done to this harbor, and at once, it will soon be in a dangerous state of decay. We are sure that it only requires that the matter be properly laid before you and the

PRESERVING BUTTER

Prof. Robertson's Instructions—Temperature Important.

All that can be expected in the case of butter is that Canadian creamery butter will be put on the market in such a condition that by its excellent qualities it will command the highest prices which is being paid at that time. The intrinsic quality of butter is changed by the processes of fermentation. The exclusion of air from the surface of butter is sufficient to preserve it. The germs which bring about changes and ultimate spoiling are in the butter, and become active whenever the temperature is favorable for their growth. In the making of butter in many cases, the butter-maker adds to the cream a fermentation starter for a somewhat similar purpose to that for which the housewife adds yeast to the batter in making bread. By the addition of a suitable fermentation starter, the butter may now be made in January as in June. If one could introduce a fermentation stopper as he does a fermentation starter, the butter might be expected to remain entirely unchanged. The stopping of fermentation may be accomplished by raising the temperature sufficiently high to destroy the ferments in the butter or other product. In the case of butter, that temperature (155 degrees Fahr.) would spoil the butter as a commercial commodity. On the other hand, if the temperature be reduced to freezing point, while the forms of life, which carry on fermentation, and bring about changes in the butter, will not be destroyed, their activity will be prevented so long as the butter is held at that temperature. Consequently, if butter is to be kept for a period longer than one month, it should be put into a refrigerator at a temperature of about 20 degrees Fahrenheit, and that becomes an effective fermentation stopper. Butter is a substance difficult to cool or to heat quickly. If a full package of butter is to be put in a room at a temperature of 38 to 44 Fahrenheit, several days may elapse before it is cooled to the same temperature in the middle of the package; whereas, if the package of butter be put into cold storage at a temperature of 20 degrees Fahrenheit, the whole of it within 24 hours will be cooled to a temperature of at least 38 or 34 degrees, at which the process of fermentation in the butter does not go on.—Prof. James W. Robertson.
