AM OF SECOND BIG MUSICAL CYCLE

The second musical cycle to be held on Tuesday night in the Masonic Temple under the auspices of the Lord Kitchener Nursing Division, will be one of great interest. The program given by the prima donna, Madame Zorichetta Onelli will include the following numbers: "Nymphs and Shepherds" (Purcell); "April Weather" (Rogers); "The Groves of Shiraz" (Cadmian); "The Lamp of Love" (Salter); "Mattioli" (Toati); "Snowflakes" (Cowan); "Open Thine Eyes So Blue" (Massenet); "Down in the Forest" (Landon-Ronald); "The Little Dutch Garden" (Mawson-Marks); "The Song of the Shepherd Lark" (Rimsky-Korsakow); "One Golden Day" (Fay Foster). She will also sing an Aria (Selected).

Signor Philip Savasta, harpist, also presents an excellent program. He will play "Al Mare-Improvvisi" (Oberthur); "An Old Song" (Moore); "Caprice" (Schubert-Godfroid); "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell); "Contemplation" in F (Godfroid); and "Romance" (Bovis). The numbers of Malcolm Maynier, pianist, are also most attractive. Chopin's "Prelude in B Minor," "Nocturne" in F Minor, and "Waltz in A Flat," as well as "Rhapsodie in C" by Dohnanyi, are among them.

DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

Suggestive Questions on the Uniform Lesson for Sunday, June 9, 1918.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION.

By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.

Jesus' Faces Betrayed and Denied. Mark, xiv, 10-12.

1. Verses 10-11—DID JUDAS DISLIKE JESUS, AND, IF NOT, WHAT WAS IT THAT INDUCED HIM TO SEEK OPPORTUNITY TO BETRAY HIS MASTER? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

2. Verse 12—Under what circumstances was the Passover instituted and what did it stand for?

3. Verses 13-15—If we were to follow the example of Jesus, and plan to have meetings in private houses, what would be the probable effect upon the progress of Christ's kingdom?

4. Verse 16—Why is it absolutely safe to fully depend on what God states concerning our temporal supplies?

Golden Text: Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation.—Matthew, xiv, 38.

NONE ARE FREE FROM TEMPTATION.

When Jesus gave the warning contained in our text he was facing betrayal and denial. He knew the danger, therefore, which his disciples were facing, and warned them to watch and pray. We are all in a similar condition as these disciples were at that time. We are in the pathway of danger. Enemies lurk all along the road; we are none of us free from temptation, nor shall we ever be exempt from its dangers so long as we are in the flesh. We need, therefore, to constantly look to Jesus, and to watch out for the evil solicitations which beset our pathway. Watch and praying are our only safeguards, and if we never fail in these two duties we shall not be caught unawares, but, by the grace of God, shall be enabled to conquer the foe.

A pretty wedding took place on Wednesday last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, when their youngest daughter, Anna Bertha, was united in marriage to D. Ellis Tennent, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Tennent. The young couple, who were unattended, were married under an arch of lilies, ferns and bridal wreath. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked pretty in a taupe and corsage bouquet of sweet peas and ferns. After a wedding trip, the young couple will reside on the groom's farm near Hyde Park.

In the annual report of the Lord Roberts' Mothers' Club it was stated through an error, that Mrs. Buchner was elected president. This should have read Mrs. Eberhard.

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday, when Miss Mary McKean was united in marriage to Sgt. Valentine Hogan, returned war veteran, and a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Hogan will reside in this city.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday at 4 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Hoffman, Craig street, when their youngest daughter, Lorna, became the bride of Harold Rowntree, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Rowntree, Stanley street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Dougal, beneath an arch of palms and ferns. The bride entered the drawing-room on the arm of her father to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus, played by Miss Georgina Hoffman. The bride was daintily gowned in pink crepe de chene, wearing the conventional bridal veil caught with orange blossoms and carrying a shower bouquet of roses, with lilies of the valley, and was assisted by Doris Rowntree, sister of the groom. The groom was supported by Allister Hoffman, brother of the bride, while little Gertrude Hodder made a charming flower girl. After the ceremony the guests adjourned to the dining-room, where a dainty luncheon was served. The bride and groom were the recipients of many handsome presents, including several checks. Out-of-town guests were present from Wexley, Tavistock, Stratford, Dorchester and Detroit.

JIMMY COON STORIES

By Dr. Warren G. Partridge.
Copyright 1917 by George Matthew Adams.

JIMMY COON'S TALK STIRRED UP THE HUSBANDS.

Now, these three ladies lay in a fainting spell on the floor of the bedroom of their neighbor house. And Jimmy Coon got very anxious about the safety of his mother, Mrs. Coon, and her two friends, Mrs. Pussam and Mrs. Skunk. Jimmy and Teddy Possum did not dare to enter that house, for Jimmy Coon said the house was haunted.

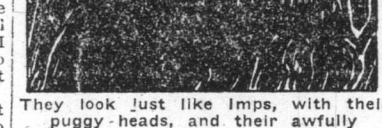

So Jimmy got brave Mr. Coon, his father, and Mr. Possum and Mr. Skunk to go. Jimmy Coon, Mr. Skunk led the way, for he had dreamed, and Mr. Coon and Mr. Possum felt safe with him. Skunk was going ahead. And when the three gentlemen reached the bedroom they were horrified to see the three ladies, Mrs. Coon, Mrs. Pussam and Mrs. Skunk, all lying on the bedroom floor still in a fainting spell. And as soon as they revived, they helped their husbands to bring the parents and the six little children to life. Jimmy Coon pinched them, and rubbed their hands and gave them "First Aid to the Injured," but they couldn't make them move any more.

"They're as dead as doornails," spoke up the wise Mr. Coon. "Now, let's go home and have something to eat. I am very faint from lack of food. Oh, wonder, in the excitement, we forgot to eat our breakfast."

And all scurried downstairs to get their forgotten breakfast. And what do you suppose they found when they got home? Why, Jimmy Coon and Teddy Possum had eaten up everything in the three houses, and hadn't left a crumb, and they had gone off to hunt, still being hungry.

And at winter those eight bodies of their new neighbors hung up on the wall of their bedroom, with their heads hanging down toward the floor, and their feet fastened up near the ceiling. But no one dared to touch them. And Jimmy Coon had started the story that the house was haunted.

But all winter long neighbors would climb up the fire escape and look into the windows of the bedroom, and when they saw the eight bodies still hanging

They look just likeimps, with their puggy heads, and their awfully big ears.

And Teddy Possum said one night to his mother when she was undressing him for bed: "Mother, you stay with me until I go to sleep, for I'm afraid those Hobbogoblins will come and get me, who are hanging up by their feet against the ceiling, while their heads still hang down all winter long. I can now see their little snapping eyes looking at me, as they peer at me from under those woolly eyebrows!"

And poor little Teddy Possum shuddered, from the longest whisker on his little nose, to the last hair on his rope-like tail.

The "Hello" Girl In France

It seems a simple thing to say "hello!" But the time and the place sometimes combine to make even that simple thing rather difficult. To say "hello!" and all that implies in either French or English and as a member of the signal corps in France, something of which to be proud. It was Gen. Pershing who asked for a force of women telephone operators in France, and they had gone off to hunt, still being hungry.

And at winter those eight bodies of their new neighbors hung up on the wall of their bedroom, with their heads hanging down toward the floor, and their feet fastened up near the ceiling. But no one dared to touch them. And Jimmy Coon had started the story that the house was haunted.

fainting—something which cannot be said of soldiers, as a rule.

No matter how earnest a woman's intentions may be as to work, she is always interested in her uniform. The telephone girls wear coat and skirt of navy blue, with navy blue shirtwaist of the signal corps. The left sleeve bears a brassard of white whipcord or do-skin, with a telephone mouthpiece in blue and small devices indicating the rank of chief operator, supervisor or operator; crossed flags are embroidered on the collar.

These girls will assist in such vital things as giving commands for artillery direction and calling up reserves. The officer who recruited the unit which is already in France says it would be impossible to brigade an American troop without the girls. He predicts the greatest efficiency. In Paris from 40 to 60 seconds are needed to complete one telephone call. The American unit handles 300 calls in one hour. Not one of the girls went over without knowing and facing willingly the danger. All are there because they wish to see.

Just what it means to be able to fill a position of this kind before acquiring the technical skill may be gathered from the recommendations sent by former employees. Of one girl it was said: "She is very exact; a close observer of details. She is intelligent, courteous and has a strong character, has the average level-headedness and judgment in emergency. She speaks French and English fluently, also German, Dutch and Spanish. She has a good education, telephone ability and teaching experience."

A prominent businessman recommends his private secretary as follows: "She has been my private secretary for ten years. She is well educated, speaks
