A.—Four question is very indefinite. It is presumed that you are an American citizen. By the military act it is presumed that you mean the Canadian military service act. If such is the case, you need not return to the United States, but will await orders to report for service here. The recent draft treaty was passed to apprehend draft evaders in the United States and Canada, and so long as a man registers for service in one country, it is agreed that he will not be interfered with. However, if you have registered under the United States draft and are ordered to report there, you will be required to do so. While awaiting orders to report to the American authorities you could remain in Canada provided that you carried papers from the military authorities in the United States to show that you had registered there, and these would satisfy the Canadian police if you were ever accosted by them.

After the laughter provoked had subsided, Rev. G. M. Young rose to his feet and expressed his surprise that a member of the alliance could be found who would do, let alone countenance, these things. He personally regarded them as the work of the devil.

Doesn't Draw Line So Fine.

Rev. Mr. Hosie agreed that the earnest Christian couldn't condone promiscuous dancing, playing cards for stakes or promiscuous theatre going. The Christian was under obligation to consider his influence on others. At the same time there was such a thing as discriminating between good and evil, and he wouldn't characterize all dancing as morally infectious or draw the line at a friendly game of cards.

Toronto, September 16, 1918.

To the People of the Province of Ontario:

The appeal made to the patriotic people of this Province on behalf of the men of the Merchant Marine has been generously met, and Ontario has recorded her recognition of the sacrifices made by the SAILOR.

In the campaign just closed it was found impossible to cover all points in this Province, but as it is the intention that everyone shall be given an opportunity of supporting the cause of the SAILOR, the campaign will continue until the Province is thoroughly covered.

The dates set for campaigns in various places throughout the Province will be announced through the press from time to
