GITY WILL ASK POWER TO REGULATE STREETS If Legislation is Obtained There Will Be No Further Clashes

FRIDAY MORNING

There will be no possibility of any future Twelfth of July conflicts beween the city and the street railway, provided that the city council approves the proposal of the legislation com-mittee and if the legislature is willing to amend the statutes as requested. Ald. Church's motion, as passed uranimously by the committee, was as follows:

With Street Railway.

uranimously by the committee, the follows: "That application be made to the legislature giving the board of police commissioners power to regulate pro-cessions and the routes of vehicles and persons during the times of processions and to empower the police at all times to direct the traffic and keep order and prevent collision and obstruction of traffic at the intersections of frequent-ied portions of the streets."

ed portions of the streets." It will be noticed that the motion goes further in its application than to obstruction of traffic caused by proces-sions. The street railway at present controls traffic at the chief interseccontrols traffic at the chief intersec-tions, its employes giving signals to motormen and drivers of vehicles when to cross. It was pointed out by Con-troller Hocken that in every large city in the United States the city controls the intersections and the aldermen agreed that Toronto shouldn't be be-hind hand.

hind hand. Controller Ward's important motion regarding submitting questions involv-ing the granting or extension of pub-lic franchises to the popular vote was allowed to stand as the controller hadn't all his data in order. The pro-posal is that after the second reading of such a bylaw 60 days should be al-lowed to pass and if a petition signed by 5000 electors were then submitted asking for a vote by the people, a special vote should be taken, its re-sult to be mandatory. The reply of the police commission-ers to Ald. Bengough's suggestion that cab-drivers should be compelled to place tartiff cards in a conspicuous place in the vehicles wasn't satisfac-tory. The commissioners said the style of the vehicles varied so much that it wouldn't be always possible to style of the vehicles varied so much that it wouldn't be always possible to exhibit cards where they could be seen. The aldermen were mystified and will ask an explanation. Controllers by Wards. A proposal may be sprung in coun-cil soon to change the system of elect-ing controllers so that instead of hav-ing four elected by citizens at large, there could be one elected in each ward, making six in all. An argument in favor is that the whole city would be more fairly represented. It is a curious fact that the con-trollers elected since the elective sys-tem was instituted have never included a resident of the first or second ward,
