MINING PROPERTIES GO UP

Values are Enhancing in the Kootenays.

BIG MONEY IN PROSPECTS

Another Transvaal Man With British Capital Goes West.

He Will Settle in British Columbia—Salmo is a New Town Where There Were No Places of Habitation a Few Months Ago—Ainsworth Camp Will be Brisk This Year—Where Wages are a Dollar an Hour—The Rich Yukon Country.

Mining properties in the Kootenays seem to be rapidly enhancing in value. A mere prospect in the Nelson district has just been bonded for $10,000. The claim referred to is the Imperial, between Rover and Bird Creeks, and no development except the mere assessment work has been done upon it, though the surface showing is good. The out-cropping shows an iron-capped ledge 50 feet across and 150 feet long. Mr. O. S. Labarre, who bonded this property, and is said to be acting for the London, England, syndicate organized by Sir Charles Tupper and Rufus H. Pope, M.P., has also secured options on the Myth and Capital and several other Hall Creek properties of lesser or greater value.

Another Sale.

According to The Spokane Chronicle a one-third interest in the Gold Bug and Hidden Treasure claims in Deadwood camp, Boundary district, has been purchased from Newton Rice and Tom Walsh by an English company for $1000 cash.

British Capital Coming.

Mr. C. Edgar Busch, A.R.S.M. of London, Eng., has just gone west to locate in the Kootenay. He is direct from Johannesburg via London, and says that both in South Africa and England British Columbia mines are much talked of. He is of the opinion that a great deal of English capital will find its way into the Kootenay during the next two years.

MUSHROOM TOWNS.

Centres of Population Springing Up in a Night in the Kootenays.

Salmo is a new town, located on the North Fork of the Salmon River, at a point where a few months ago there were no places of habitation. And, according to all accounts, notwithstanding the five feet of snow at present on the ground, Salmo is forging ahead. Building operations are booming, no less than 22 structures being now in course of erection, three of these being large business blocks. The population is fast increasing, and American capital is to establish a brewery there.

The Greenwood correspondent of The Spokane Review writes under date of the 25th ult.: It is reported that the Government townsite reservation at the mouth of Rock Creek is shortly to be opened for the sale of lots. Heretofore this place has been known chiefly for the large amount of gold that has been obtained from its placers, but from present indications it will soon become an important town. From this point the wagon road leads up to the famous Cariboo and other mines on Camp McKinney and points on Rock Creek. Then, only a half mile up the creek, are the deposits of coal, which may become an important factor in the future development of this district. Six miles above Rock Creek is the James Creek camp, already well-known on account of the strikes of high-grade silver-lead ores found only last summer and which will be extensively developed this year. Still further up on the west fork of Kettle River, and on the Main Kettle River, are many claims of known merit.

AINSWORTH CAMP.

Properties Changing Hands Freely—Over 200 Men Now Employed in the Mines.

The old Ainsworth camp looks as though it were going to be a busy one this year. Already over 200 men are employed in its mines and more are going in almost daily. During the last few weeks more properties have been sold than during the previous two years. Among the properties which have changed hands are the Duplex and Lotus, situated at the mouth of Woodbury Creek. J. W. Lions and L. A. Lemon of Kaslo bonded these two properties to an English syndicate. L. Weese bonded the Boots to a Minneapolis company. This property is also located on Woodbury Creek. D. F. Strobeck bonded the Twin to J. A. Yerex of Vancouver. The price is $7500. The Britannia Mining and Milling Company sold the Mamie to Mr. Gibson of the Black Diamond Co. R. McLeod sold the Truth to the Britannia Mining and Milling Company. This property is located near the old Number One. William English sold the North Star to the Bank of British North America at Kaslo. This property lies on the north end of the Sky Line. Alex. McLeod and W. H. Shanklin bonded the Glengae to R. S. Green of Kaslo. D. F. Strobeck bonded the Laura M. and Surprise to R. I. Green for $8500. Mr. Strobeck also sold Mr. Gun the Standard for $500 cash. Jake Fink sold the Silver Bill to L. J. McAtee of Spokane for $1500; this is also a cash deal. S. Weese sold the Harrison to Jake Fink for $500 cash. A. A. McKinnon sold the No. 4 to I. N. Knight of Trail. The price paid was $1500 cash.

A DOLLAR AN HOUR.

Good Wages Paid to Miners in the Canadian Yukon Country.

Writing from Forty-Mile in the Yukon Country, N.W.T., Mr. Byron E. Canes says of the mines of that region:

This winter there are about 1200 men in the country, distributed as follows: About 700 at Circle City and the tributary diggings, possibly 25 on Seventy-Mile and American Creeks between here and there, about 125 at Forty-Mile and the diggings on the head of Forty-Mile and Sixty-Mile Rivers, and at least 350 in the new Bonanza and Hunker districts.

A fair idea of the general location of these places can be had from a U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey map. Bonanza and Hunker Creeks are tributaries of the Klondiek itiver near its mouth. It is about fifty miles above here and three miles above old Fort Reliance, on the east branch of the Yukon. The town started at the mouth of the Klondiek River has been named Dawson, and already boasts a saw mill, three saloons and about fifty cabins. Bonanza Creek was discovered in the latter part of August, and in one month the discoverer took out $1000. Since the cold weather began, so that holes could be sunk by thawing the gravel, commonly called "burning," the creek proves to be as rich as any yet found in the Yukon country. One of the richest claims has a pay streak thirty feet wide of three feet of bedrock and four feet of gravel, which will average, it is claimed, $1 to the pan, but I think 50 cents is nearer it. For two miles each way from this claim good pay-ore has been located at close intervals.

About half a mile above the Discovery claim is a tributary of Bonanza called El Dorado, which has very good pay for a mile and a half from its mouth, though it is not equal to that on the first claim mentioned.

Hunker Creek has not been prospected much yet, but will doubtless have some good claims. Bonanza Creek is about 25 miles long, and on it and its tributaries are located probably 400 claims of 500 feet each and half that many in Hunker district. Of that number some will never pay, many will pay wages and maybe a little more and a goodly number will give their owners snug little sums.

The prevailing wages of the country are $1 per hour, depending on the distance from the supply point. From five to eight hours is a winter day's work.

The diggings at the head of Forty-Mile and Sixty-Mile Rivers are from one to ten years old, and, while none of them are so extensive as Bonanza's, they have had diggings as rich as any but the very best on Bonanza.

Now, as to the methods used: The diggings are of two classes—summer and winter. Most of the creeks have a slight fall and wide bottoms, the gravel being covered by 1 to 10 feet of muck or soil (not glacial drift). The bedrock is often 20 feet deep, and since the ground never thaws more than 2 or 3 feet from the surface, drains and ditches are expensive; so each winter more "burning" is done, which consists in thawing the gravel by fire, removing it and repeating. The muck thaws but little, and makes a good roof for drifting. The dumps are sluiced with the first water in the spring. Sometimes the creeks do not freeze up solid and the water gives trouble—that being the case this year in places where the average temperature for the past five weeks was ten degrees below zero. There is promise of a cold spell—the coldest, 45 degrees below zero, being recorded to-day. Last year at this time the daily mean was 55 degrees to 65 degrees.

Summer diggings are expensive to open for work, but the net returns are often more than if "burning" had been the method. In most cases lumber must be whipsawed, the average cost being $150 per thousand feet. Other things being in proportion, considerable expense is incurred before the ground is ready to shovel into the sluice boxes.

In all probability there will be work for all who come in the spring. Bonanza is in an unprospected part of the country, though there may not be many new creeks found. No one should think of coming unless he can land with $500, if he purchases his outfit at Juneau, and twice that if he purchases after arrival here.

But little attention has been paid to quartz particularly, as the hills and valleys are covered by a heavy growth of moss. So far nothing but small stringers have been found in the bed rock. Nuggets are often found which are more than half quartz.

The Bannockburn Mine

In his report of last week, Supt. McNaughton of the Bannockburn Mine says: "I am glad to say the vein still improves in size and value, and I feel confident the mine will prove to be a good one, as the sulphurets are increasing in quantity and value. I would rather have a vein of that kind than any other."

E. L. Sawyer & Co. (Limited) are very much pleased with the turn that affairs have taken in this mine and report heavy sales of its shares.

Strike on the Hiawatha.

A telegram from James Hammond states that five veins have been uncovered on the Hiawatha gold mine and all looking fine, and that he is working three gangs of men. The Hiawatha mine is part of the Folger-Hammond property in the Baw Bill Lake district. A syndicate of Toronto and Oakville parties acquired a large interest in it and work has been going on for the last two or three months, with the most gratifying results to the owners. Supplies and the necessary machinery have been put in for the rapid development of the property.

TO WORK UP OUR TRADE.

Captain Yates Will Ask the Co-operation of the Toronto Board of Trade in a New Steamship Line.

Capt. Yates, representing F. C. Davidge & Co. of the Oregon & Asiatic Steamship Company, is at the Queen's. This afternoon he will appear before the president and council of the Toronto Board of Trade, and put before them a plan to open up new channels of trade for the Dominion of Canada, by placing a line of boats between British Columbia ports and the ports of Mexico and Central America, on the Pacific coast. These, the captain will show, will open up extensive new markets for Canada.

The countries that would be reached have a population of over 16,000,000, and an export and import trade with the United States, Great Britain, France and Germany, which amounts to over $100,000,000, of which the United States have in exports nearly one and one-half as much as the combined exports of Great Britain, France and Germany. This trade is, to a large extent, in products which Canada should be able to compete in successfully, provided they had a cheap and direct means of transportation.

Capt. Yates is desirous of securing the co-operation of the Toronto Board of Trade and other Boards of Trade of the Dominion in obtaining a subsidy from the Dominion Government. He estimates that $100,000 a year for four years would be a fair sum to ask, in order that two boats, calling at some 13 or 14 ports, could be put on. Many of the ports in Mexico and Central America are controlled by the Southern Pacific Company's boats, of the Pacific Mail service, and it would cost a lot of money to secure rights of entrance to these ports, probably as much as the first year's subsidy.

The matter has for some time been discussed in British Columbia and looked upon favorably, and Capt. Yates is of the opinion that an agent of the Dominion Government was sent to report on this trade. Canada would be principally interested in shipments of agricultural implements and cotton.

Capt. Yates is a kindly-looking man, an old sailor and knows all the ports on the Pacific coast. He is perfectly satisfied that Canada's trade could be largely increased. He himself is a Canadian, having been born in the Maritime Provinces.

A Manual of Mining

Messrs. J. H. Chewett and C. M. Canniff, two young Torontonians who are hustling mining and civil engineers, have just issued a pocket manual of mining, for the use of mining men, lawyers, business men, prospectors and those interested in the mineral resources of Canada, which just about fills the bill. "Multum in parvo" was evidently the motto of the compilers, as the book contains a brilliant article on geology, not only so far as it relates to rocks and minerals in general, but in it particular attention is paid to geological formations as found in Canada. This little work is of special value to the man who thinks he has a "find" on his property. Therein he is told how to make tests and how to judge results. The general principles of mining are also treated, giving an idea in the briefest form how mining up to date is carried on. The book is all that its compilers claim it to be, and it is of unusual value to the people of Canada just at the present time.

They Blame the Cigarets.

Boys smoking cigarets are supposed to have caused a $100 fire yesterday in a stable in the rear of Smith Bros., Duke and Parliament-streets.
