

LOCAL BATTALION LOST THIRTY MEN

Yesterday's Casualty List Contained Names of Many Toronto Soldiers.

FIVE OFFICERS NAMED

Lieut. Sidney Burnham is Wounded and Lieut. A. MacDonald Killed.

Latest casualty lists contain the names of many Toronto men, and several others who went overseas with Toronto units but whose addresses are not given. One local unit lost five of its officers and thirty men.

Lieut. Sidney Smith Burnham, who has been in uniform since a month of the declaration of war and has been mentioned many times in despatches, has been reported wounded. He is an old Upper Canada College boy and lived with his mother at 47 Warren road. Lieut. Burnham went overseas with the 19th Battalion, second Canadian division.

Lance-Corporal Norman Stuppard is in Manchester Hospital suffering from wounds, according to word received by his mother at 666 Pape avenue. He enlisted with the 92nd Battalion and went overseas with a draft. During a charge, his officer, Lieut. Hibbert, fell wounded and was brought in from an exposed position by Corp. Stuppard.

Karl B. Fox, 12th Brigade, machine gun section, is reported wounded, according to word received by his parents at 27 Fernwood Park avenue. He was educated in Toronto and was with the Canadian General Electric Company previous to enlisting. He is only 17 years of age.

Buried on English Soil.
Mrs. Kate O'Hara of 42 Fairbank avenue received word from Ottawa announcing the sad news of the death of her son, Pte. Joe O'Hara, who died of wounds, and the only consolation the family has is that his body is to be buried on English soil. He was agent for the Dominion Express Company in West Farnham. His father fought in the Indian Mutiny.

Lieut. A. W. MacDonald, son of Dr. Albert MacDonald, 12 Bedford road is reported killed in action. He went overseas with the 19th Battalion, second contingent, in the spring of 1915. Lieut. MacDonald was educated in Toronto at Upper Canada College and the University of Toronto. He was in business for some time prior to enlisting and was very popular both at college and later as an all-round athlete.

Sgt. Albert William Lacey, who left Toronto with the 3rd Battalion, Q.O.R., has been wounded. He was in the trenches for over 13 months and won his stripes on the field.

Word has been received by the wife of Lance-Corporal Robert Lambert at 879 West King street that he has been wounded, but no particulars have been received. He was overseas with a draft from the 75th Battalion.

Wounded During Big Push.
Pte. Flint, whose wife resides at 111 Sumach street, was wounded during the big push, according to word that has been received. He is now in an East Leeds Hospital suffering from concussion. He went over with the 74th Battalion, going to the trenches with a draft.

Pte. Bert Lewis, whose wife lives at 132 Hope avenue, has been wounded a second time. He was an ironworker previous to enlisting and went overseas with a draft from the 92nd Battalion.

Corp. Brock L. Batten, second son of A. C. Batten of the British and Colonial Press Service of 5 Rathfriland avenue, has been unofficially reported wounded. He enlisted with the 34th Battalion and went to the front with the 3rd Trench Mortar Battery.

Wounded and Then Killed.
Pte. John George Newby, whose parents live at 27 Dupont street, has been reported killed in action. In June he was sent to a hospital suffering from shrapnel wounds and was there for seven weeks, being back in the trenches only two weeks before he was killed. He was born in Toronto 29 years ago and has a brother and brother-in-law with the forces.

Fred Sayman, according to word received by his mother at 50 Winnifred avenue, has been admitted to the 1st Eastern General Hospital suffering from a severe wound in the shoulder. He was an old Q.O.R. man and was serving at the front as a bomber.

Pte. Charles H. Cuyler, who previous to enlisting lived at 3 West Charles street, was killed in action on Sept. 7.

Corp. C. S. Malone of 806 Yonge street has been wounded for the second time. He is now in a hospital suffering from a gunshot wound. He went over with the first contingent and received promotion on the field.

FARMER REFUSES WIFE ADMITTANCE TO HOUSE
He Seeks to Commit Him for Disobeying Order of the Court.

Justice Sutherland has reserved judgment on an application by J. E. Jones, representing Mrs. Agnes Evans, for an order committing John H. Evans, farmer, of Simcoe, to jail for contempt of court. The couple have nine children.

Mrs. Evans sued her husband for alimony, but her action was dismissed. After an order was handed down the husband should take his wife again into his home. Mrs. Evans, with her baby, went to the farm, but was refused admission. It was stated that if Mrs. Evans refused to enter the farm, she would be allowed to enter. The motion to commit followed. Mrs. Evans alleged that $800 of the $8000 belonged to her, and that the remainder was paid under an agreement for future separation, and is not binding.

RETURNING FROM TOUR.
Miss Catherine Welland Merritt, honorary secretary of the Queen Mary's Needlework Guild in Canada, is returning from a tour thru western Canada, where she has been successful in establishing a number of branches and disposing of nearly 12,000 gild badges to new members.

Hydro Report to December 31st, 1915 Published Last Week SHOWS DEFICIT OF $93,733.96

Hydro Rates to consumers were reduced 15% from January 1st, 1916.

Hydro gross income including street lighting was $1,620,187 for 1915.

Hydro Reduction in rates means $188,000 loss in revenue.

Telco service and rates have forced Hydro to abandon judgment and reduce rates below cost to meet competition.

Telco by its Niagara power, 4 transmission lines and steam reserve, has saved Toronto users of electricity about $7,000,000 in four years. About $3,500,000 on account of competitive rates from Hydro and about $3,500,000 on reduced rates to its own customers due to Niagara power.

WILLS PROBATED

The will and codicil of Lothar Reinhardt, who died at his home on Jarvis street, Nov. 3, 1915, was filed for probate yesterday. He left an estate of $22,773, and his sons Lothar Arthur and Ernest, are named as the executors.

The real property, inventoried at $14,879, includes 96 feet of land in lot 12, River street, valued at $24,795; 105-119 River street, $31,913; 50 feet of vacant land on Jarvis street, $7500; Nos. 1-11 Mark street, $9560; lots 19 and 20, plan D22, having a frontage of 59 feet on the Don Esplanade, with a depth of 180 feet, $3884; the southwest corner of Queen and Simcoe, and the deceased's home on Jarvis street, valued at $19,487. The latter is subject to a life interest of Anna Reinhardt.

Of the personal estate, 3445 shares in the Heintzsch-Salvador Brewery are valued at $46,000; 68 shares Broadview Hotel, $1360; two Muskoka Navigators, $200; life insurance $500; cash, $4184; household goods, horses, carriages, $2250; book debts and promissory notes, $46,050; and the leasehold of the Humber Beach Hotel, $8000. The deceased also owned 31 shares in the Gladstone Hotel Co., 150 shares Toronto Liederkreis, 2 Nipissing Wine and Spirit Co., 100 Wheat Sheaf Hotel Co., 50 Albany Club, all listed as of no market value.

Wanted Burial in Germany.

"I direct that I shall be buried beside my mother in Rollbach, Germany, and that my executors pay to the parish priest at Rollbach, $100 for masses for the repose of my soul," reads in part the will.

On account of the war it was impossible to grant this request, and his son stated that the remains had been buried in St. Michael's Cemetery. He would not say as to whether they might be removed to Germany after the war.

The executors made the usual declaration that no part of the estate would be given to an alien enemy during the war without the consent of the crown. Burens von Benteen has renounced her right to apply for probate, the named as a trustee.

Before his death the testator gave each of his children 110 shares of stock in Toronto hotels, and these are now listed as of no market value. The major portion going to his children, namely, leaving an estate of $12,478, shares his estate, according to his will which was filed for ancillary probate yesterday, among his three children.

It would take a very coarse sieve to strain safes thru.

Recruit Young Eligibles at All Fall Fairs in Ontario

Sgt.-Major C. S. Lewis, who is in charge of recruiting the Ontario company of the 242nd Forestry Battalion, has worked out a decidedly successful system of recruiting at outside points.

This is to send a recruiting staff to each of the fall fairs, with the permission of the management, and do what they can to pick up some of the young eligibles who come in from the country, and who could not be reached in any other manner. The idea was tried out with decided success at two week fairs last week, and this week Sgt.-Major Lewis and his staff are visiting Collingwood, Shelburne, Chesley, Orangeville and Acton. In addition to recruiting on the fair grounds, the officers will hold recruiting meetings of the street corners at night. At Owen Sound, for example, St. Catharines, and elsewhere, the work for the Foresters, three more days were sent from that city yesterday.

TORONTO WORLD SEEKS PERMISSION TO APPEAL

Makes Application to Have Controller Foster Appear for Examination.

Justice Sutherland yesterday reserved judgment on an application on behalf of W. F. Maclean and The World Publishing Co. for permission to appeal to the appellate division from the decision of Justice Britton, reversing the decision of the master-in-chambers, who directed Controller Foster to resign for examination.

The application concerns a libel regarding alleged pre-election articles, had been returned as having an income of only $45.50 above his salary as controller, whereas it has been up for Mr. Foster, stated that this was not part of the alleged original libel and had been entered as an attempt to further the case.

Belgian Relief Committee Acknowledges Contributions

The Belgian Relief Committee, 94 Bay street, report for the week contributed of $459.87.

Included in this is the sum of $115 from the Woodstock Patriotic and Red Cross League; $100 from the Women's Patriotic Society of Fergus; $6.50 from a S. S. class, Knox Church, Ganarong; $2.50, proceeds of evening, per Miss A. Farmer, Ancaster; $4.87, from the sale of 8 mile boxes for Belgian Baby Fund; and $3.00, the monthly contribution of the Oakville Patriotic League. Men's clothing and boots are needed for the October shipment. They must be clean and in good repair, and will be gratefully acknowledged. Total subscriptions to date, $32,324.87.

TWO WHOLESALE VENDORS NAMED

Will Act in Toronto Under Provisions of New Temperance Act.

TEST CASE ARISES

Hotel Applies to City for Sale Drink License—Officials in Doubt.

T. Ambrose Woods, 325 Dundas street, and James S. Giles, of the Victoria Distillery, 110 Church street, have been appointed by the board as wholesale vendors under the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act. The announcement was made by J. D. Flavelle, chairman, yesterday.

Asked if there was any foundation for the accusation that politics had played a part in the failure of R. H. Howard to secure a vendor's license, Mr. Flavelle replied: "Absolutely none. We had good and sufficient information supplied to us entirely outside politics to make us refuse a license to him."

George J. Roy, Limited, 32 Front street west, with some twenty other wholesale liquor dealers throughout the province, has been given permission to carry on export business in liquor with points outside the province. The act gives the board discretionary powers with regard to building and equipment in such cases.

The Widmer Hotel on Bay street may possibly be made the subject of a test case as to the legality of such a license serving on drinks for refreshments. The Widmer is stated to have no such license but to claim that it is applying for such from the city and to have been given permission to conduct such a business in the interim. This, however, is questioned by city officials, who doubt their ability to grant such a license lest it conflict with the provisions of the Ontario Temperance Act, which states that no one without a standard license shall be entitled to carry on such a business. No action has been taken by the officials so far.

English Language of German Origin

Teutonic Invasion of British Plant-Seed of Present Tongue.

The English language is not native to England—strange to say. It was carried there by the fierce German warriors who conquered that island in the fifth and sixth centuries. Its roots are today to be found in the rude dialects of the islands along the German coast.

When our Anglo-Saxon ancestors first came to plunder and ravage Britain they found a people more advanced in the arts and sciences than themselves. For the Celts of England had inherited the Roman civilization of an earlier day. It is curious to think that if the old Teutons had never invaded England we would now be speaking a language similar to French, Spanish or Italian—of Latin derivation. The Anglo-Saxon or old English language belongs to the Teutonic speech.

The latter has several principal branches, such as the Scandinavian, from which come the Danish and Swedish tongues; the high German, or language of German literature; and the low German, which is divided into Frisian, Dutch and Flemish. Our own English is the nearest related to this last group. But all the Teutonic languages are only one branch of a large racial family, known as the Aryan or Indo-European. This reaches from India to Ireland—and connects Patrick with the Parag.

Sanakrit, Persian, Greek, Latin, Celtic and Teutonic are thus all related tongues. Languages can best be studied through a good dictionary. One should always have a dictionary. The New Universities Dictionary, within reach whenever you hear or read a word you don't understand, look it up. Fill Catfish Pond with Sand from Lake

Commissioner Chambers Puts New Scheme Before Parks Committee.

Commissioner Chambers informed the parks committee yesterday of his new scheme to fill in Catfish Pond. He said he had communicated with the harbor board, who have a contract with the Canadian Stewart Co. for pumping a certain amount of sand each year. His plan is to have that company pump sufficient sand from the lake to the beach near the pond and then transfer the sand to the pond after the water is drained off. He is going to get more information from the harbor board.

The committee turned down an offer from the same company to fill the pond at a cost of 42 cents per cubic yard. The company wanted the city to make all arrangements for taking off the water.
