SEAS SWEEPED OVER THE BATTLESHIP

Starboard Life Boat of the Dominion Carried Away on Trip from Halifax to Portland.

(Halifax Chronicle)
Private advices received here yesterday from the battleship Dominion which left Halifax on Saturday the 27th ult., under scaled orders, state that she arrived at Portland E. at 9 a. m., on the 31st ult. Her destination was made known to the ship's company an hour after she sailed from here—"that wind and weather permitting the ship would arrive at Portland on Monday the 5th February."

The Dominion experienced rough weather after getting clear of Halifax, it being very bad on the first Sunday night out, a big sea swept over her deck and the starboard lifeboat was washed away. Beyond this no other harm was done. The bad weather continued up to the following Wednesday when it became fiercer and remained so until Friday when it came bad again, and the gale continued for two days. The whole of the Atlantic equator was at Portland, when the Dominion steamed in and anchored. She was to remain there until Saturday the 10th, and then sail with the rest of the fleet, cruising and calling at Lagos, and expected to arrive at Gibraltar on March 2nd. It is understood the admiralty are highly pleased with the voyage of the Dominion, and the captain and engine-room staff were highly complimented on the cruise.

WENT DOWN INTO A COAL MINE

the tiny lamps. The slate above the "coal bench" had been cleared away and the roof, composed of boards and logs saved in half, had been placed in position over the coal and the seam was already for the "shots" to be put in and fired, that would loosen the mass and permit of its being sent above to be loaded on the waiting cars. The coal or slate, whichever it happens to be, that has to be removed at the time, is loaded into small cars that roll about two barrels, and is wheeled to the cage, where it is sent to the surface. It is and it is dumped down a scroon, whence the "black" falls into one or the lumps go into another, if it is slate it is simply taken along a track and dumped down onto the retuse heap, as it is good for nothing. The newspaper man asked one of the miners if it was not very hard and confining work, but he answered that he preferred it to an outside job. The miners are paid 2 to 3 dollars a day at the work, being paid so much a ton for the coal they put out. The return to the mine shaft appeared to take much less time than the trip in had occupied, and the scene was glad to get where he could straighten out once more. The cage was mounted on the ropes. There were many such, and the cage being given the visitors were whirled to the surface. The power house and blacksmith shop were then visited.

From here the engine took the visitors to the mines of Wheldon Bros. Leary Bros. These mines, situated close together, the Wheldon mines having two shafts and Leary's one. Other mines in the near vicinity are Lindsay Bros., McDonald Bros., Evans Bros., Edward Kelly and J. S. Gibson & Co. In all, these mines employ about 200 men.

The King mines are operated by Leary and in the others horses are the motive power.

The horses are stationed on the second floor of the building and by travelling in a circle the horses wind a cable that runs down the shaft. There are two cages in each shaft house, arranged so that one comes up while the other goes down. The work is done almost as quickly with the horses as by the steam process.

At the present time the output from all the mines is about 3,000 tons a month, but this could be greatly increased if more miners could be secured. However, the coal industry is growing in importance and the consumers are becoming acquainted with the fine product that is being mined here in New Brunswick.

The development of the mines is a big factor in the business of the New Brunswick Coal and Railway and every day large shipments are made over the line.

Regarding the railway itself, it is only necessary to state that it has had a surplus during the six months ending December 31st, 1905, of $2,189, to show that the coal industry and the improvement of the road have made it a valuable asset of the provincial government. The N. B. C. and R. is now one of the best branch lines in the province and when the remains now under way are completed, it will no doubt be as good as the best.

The contractors, Brown Bros., have at ready completed a lot of the work necessary to the road in and around a great deal of ditching has been done, bridges have been and are being renewed, a lot of filling in where there were formerly trees has been completed and the road is in much better shape than ever before.

Work is being done to complete later work about September next, when the road will be ballasted from Norton to Mecklenburg street, for a few days.

Hard pine will have been erected and other work done to put the road in good condition.

Lumbering operations are reported as being very satisfactory this winter in this section of the province. There has been just sufficient snow for good hauling and it is expected the cut will be about the average.

A gang of men, under the direction of Whitman Brewer, are erecting a new bridge for the road over Coal Creek, Queen's county. Good progress is being made in the work and the new structure will no doubt be completed shortly.

The funeral of Mrs. P. Trainer took place this afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the residence of 201 Westmorland street, to the Cathedral, Father Lockery officiating. The deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. Trainer, and was a devoted wife and mother. Interment was made in the new Catholic cemetery.

Among the floral tributes was a handsome wreath from the firm of H. Horton & Sons, Ltd.

ASPIRATIONS OF HUMAN SOUL

Cannot be Satisfied by Earthly Pleasure or gain—Rev. Mr. Waring's Sermon.

In the Tabernacle church last evening, Rev. Mr. Waring spoke of the soul's aspiration after God and the inability to find peace anywhere else.

To those not satisfied with themselves, to those in trouble, who find the world too hard for them, to those who in their best moments, from the depths of their souls yearn for something more than the material and the human, to those who are restless because away from God, comes the invitation of Him who lived in the presence of the Father: "Come unto me and I will give you rest."

The great quest of the human soul is God, without whom it will never be satisfied. The place of refuge may be the place of doom. Those who seek it in money or other things may not obtain them or, if obtained, they will find that their short-lived pleasures do not satisfy. God is all that is accessible. His presence is eternal and satisfies the soul in its highest. The joy of this companionship, while transcending all else, nevertheless enhances the joy of human fellowship.

The heart is a broken cistern to pleasures from without. Through the individual life of God it is a well of living water.

Before returning to Halifax, Mr. Waring will give tonight, as his last message, "Man's Awful Power."

In view of the deepening interest in the service, it has been decided to continue them another week. Rev. F. E. Bishop of the Fairville Baptist church, will probably assist the pastor.
