COAL $12

An Increase of $1.75 a Ton Here This Morning

American hard coal went up $1.75 in the local market this morning as it is now quoted at $12 a ton. The American market is reported to be very strong and the fuel bill this fall and winter promises to be a very serious problem for people of small income.

Discussed in Court

Who is responsible for the increase in the price of coal? On Saturday hard coal was selling for $10.25 a ton, today it has jumped to $12 in the police court this morning this was the subject of discussion between F. Paterson Starr and Commissioner McLellan. Mr. Starr was present in court because of a case wherein it was alleged that coal had been stolen from the sheds of R. F. W. F. Starr Company, Limited.

Commissioner McLellan took occasion before Mr. Starr left the witness stand to ask him a few questions in the way of explanation. To the question of "Is it true that the middlemen, that is the men between the producer and the consumer, are responsible for the present increased prices in coal?" Mr. Starr replied that it was due to them. He related a circumstance of last week. On Thursday last he got a quotation on coal from a New York concern and was informed that he could get a steamer chartered to come to St. John for $8 a ton, the next day he received a wire from the same concern saying that the price had jumped to $9 a ton. The transportation charge today was from $8 to $8.50 a ton, two years ago the freight was from $10 to $11 a ton. Mr. Starr said that the wholesale and retailers of this city today were not enjoying the profits of the coal trade. He also said statistics today showed there was an increase in the output of coal.

Commissioner McLellan said that he asked the question so that the public would know that it was not only a question of who were to blame. He took this occasion to wipe away certain criticisms touching the coal situation. In respect to soft coal, the question of enlisting of miners was put forth as the cause.

CATHEDRAL WEDDINGS

Harry McCarthy, brother of the groom, gave her away. She was unattended. After the ceremony the party enjoyed a dainty wedding breakfast at the home of the bride in King street east. Mr. and Mrs. McCleskey left on the morning train for Boston and other American cities on a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will reside in Main street. The bride was formerly on the staff of Francis & Vaughan in King street, by which firm she was nicely remembered. Richardson-Brown

Claude Richardson, formerly of England, but now of this city. The ceremony took place in the presence of near relatives and friends. Among the out-of-town guests was Mr. and Mrs. John McKay of Quebec. The bride is a niece of Mrs. M. J. Barry, King street east, with whom she has made her home. The groom is the proprietor of the Glen confectionery store in Waterloo street. They were made the recipients of many presents. IN MEMORY OF HERO DEAD OF FAIRVILLE

Service in Church of Good Shepherd in Memory of Samuel Small and J. H. Willis

In the Church of the Good Shepherd, Fairville, a memorial service was held last evening in honor of two members of the congregation, Samuel Small and John H. Willis, who recently made the supreme sacrifice for home and right.

Rev. Walter F. Dunham, the rector, preached an appropriate and impressive sermon from the text: "God will provide," emphasizing trust in the Almighty as one of the greatest of all truths to be followed. The preacher made reference to the three warriors of David who looked through the lines of his enemies to get water for the king, at the risk of their lives. When David received the gift he offered it unto the Lord.

Might it be said of the men who had fallen in this great conflict they had given their lives for us and we would not persist in following the things that mean most good to ourselves. The gift of our freedom secured on the battlefields of Europe was a precious thing and our lives in thankfulness should render becoming service. We could not do too much for the men taking our place on the firing line and our lives should manifest more usefulness in recognition of their sacrifices.

Mr. Dunham said that Samuel Small was for some time in an English hospital. Later he was offered the privilege of coming home on furlough, but taking up captaincy in the army. He chose to go back to the trenches and "do his bit" with the famous 28th. He died the death of a hero.

John H. Willis had enlisted in the 11th and was one of the 100 men of a company drafted for service in France. He was in the trenches only a few days when his end came, but it found him facing the Huns and glad to be able to do his part.

The hymns and scripture were in harmony with the service. Four men now from this church have died in the service of the king.

FOR ILL-TREATING HORSE

Yesterday morning county policeman Saunders was notified by telephone that three men were ill-treating a horse at or near Lakewood on the Loch Lomond road. He had been on duty all night and was in bed at the time, but he started out on his motor cycle and was soon at the place and put the three men under arrest and brought them to the city jail. The names are: James Verner, Wm. Kearns and Edward Brown, all of the city. The policeman then notified S. M. Wetmore, secretary of the S. P. C., who examined the horse, which showed signs of being pretty harshly beaten. It was cut and bleeding, and the lash of the whip showed marks of blood.

The three men spent the night in jail and were brought before Magistrate Conlon of Fairville this morning. Verner, the owner of the horse, was charged with the beating, and pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. The other two men were fined $2 and costs for being drunk. Praise is due to Policeman Saunders for his prompt action.

Chesley, in a timely and appropriate words, congratulated the youthful soldier on his courage and patriotism in offering himself to the service of the empire and on behalf of the staff presented him a beautiful wrist watch suitably inscribed.
