NOTES OF THE MONTH.

Decline of the "Model Republic," and substitution of a Monarchy, the sovereign rising in the estimation of the Americans.

"Home for the holidays." Pea shooters and impertinence abolished, by 40 miles an hour.

The depressed state of the juvenile nervous system on the return from school is effectually removed by that good-natured soul, "Mother Hubbard," or a visit to the "House that Jack built," whose address may be had of Read & Co. 10, Johnson's Court, Fleet Street. This enlivened by the cheerful notes of "Cock Robin," will be found a real blessing to Mothers.

The most appropriate Sunday in the year for a good joke.
W(h)it Sunday.
