

BEARS '75 - CIAU Finalists

The defence - Headed by Ross Barros, a unanimous first-team all-star, defence has been a strong point all year. Brian Middleton, along with Barros, was a Student National team selection and a four year vet, while John Simkin, a dazzling puck-handler, Abby Hebert, Bears swiftest blueliner, and Howard Crosley, a rookie with a blistering shot, are all excellent two-way players.

The goalies - Dale Henwood, Bears' grey-haired old man, has been a tower of strength in the post season, and posted a league-leading 2.24 goals-against average over the regular season. Craig Gunther, Bears' able back-up netminder played in 10 games, finishing the season with a 2.70 average, good for second in the league.

Utility forwards - Craig Styles is Bears' all-purpose forward, who scored well despite infrequent use this year. Plays both center and wing. Randy Lemay, a rookie, has seen more work in the past season, and has two playoff goals to his credit. Steve Lockwood, a late season addition from U of Wisconsin, and Dale Hutchinson, who plays forward and defence, have seen sporadic duty

The coaches - Clare Drake, who has guided the club for seventeen seasons, this year won his eleventh conference championship, while assistant Dick Wintermute, is back with the Bears after two seasons as head coach of the JV squad.

INTRAMURALS

by Stew Duncan
Intramural activities for this session are nearing their conclusion and many results are currently incoming.

During early February, Doug Nelson and Hugh Lockhart conducted an exciting curling bonspiel. Art Chulka and his crew from Lower Res conquered the keen ice of the SUB sheets and won the "A" event. In the "B" event, Dave Hill's foursome claimed the victor's laurels.

In late January, Rabbit Hill was the scene of action as the Intramural downhill skiing race occurred. Ken Flowers and Tom Mankowski are to be congratulated for their efforts of organizing the event during frigid conditions. R. Blackmore of Engineering managed to swoosh down the hill in record time, to claim the championship. B. Mallett of Arts and Science and I. Kacerik of A.A.A., placed second and third respectively.

Recently, the Chinese Students' Association put on a one-unit demonstration of table tennis expertise. On Sunday, March 9, Steve Ignatavicius conducted the Intramural ping pong tournament, and the Chinese Students' Association claimed the first three positions. Perry "The Hammer" Chan demolished his opponents to win the tournament. Perry was followed by A. Liv in second place, J. Gunraj in third place and Jackson Koo in fourth.

On Wednesday, March 5th, the last co-recreational event of the year was contested. The last inner tube water polo tournament of the term concluded, as the Titty Titty Bang Bang's destroyed the fine efforts of the Phishee's Crew. Jim Flett led the TTBB's with four goals, to produce a 5-2 victory over the Phishees. As a final note, Paul Eagan and Cec Bedford, the Intramural Co-Rec Directors, would like to extend their appreciation to the many students who volunteered their time for the promotion of Co-rec activities.
