

of a dying fish. He holds his arms close to his side, a little inclined backward, and moves his hands just as an expiring fish would do.

PREY.—Bishop Auer at the Christian Conference delivered an appropriate ten minute address to the candidates for ordination, urging upon their attention, among other things, the necessity of deep personal piety.

INCREASE YOUR EFFICIENCY.—No matter what your public ability, you do not visit, preach, visit, however poorly you may be fitted for the work, and by and by you will be astonished at the improvement and growth in your congregation.

Obituary.

MRS. PERRY.—Miss PERRY, who was born in the town of Hillsboro, Va., on the 10th of May, 1810, was called to her heavenly home on the 10th of October, 1862.

The saying, "the aged must die," has been verified, "the young may die" is also true, for one just entering into life has been called from the same neighborhood.

A faithful and impressive sermon was delivered at the funeral by Rev. C. Lockhart, from St. John 5: 28, to a large congregation.

Provincial Wesleyan.

WEDNESDAY OCT. 9, 1862.

In consequence of the official relation which the paper assumes to the Conference of Eastern British America, we require that Originals, Reviews, and other communications, should be sent to the Editor, within the bounds of the Conference, and through the hands of the Superintendent.

The Movement in behalf of the Laneshire Operatives.

The scheme of contributing to the assistance of England's distressed operatives, is one which cannot fail to recommend itself to every loyal citizen subject in British North America.

Extracts from Correspondence.

Our Ministerial brethren, when writing upon business, might, without any great trouble, pen a few lines that would be of interest for publication.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

Our esteemed brother, so lately high up to death, has so far recovered as to be able to pen a few lines. It has done us good to see his handwriting.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

Our beloved young brother, who was taken into the arms of his Father, writes to us at some length respecting his Circuit and his encouragement in his work.

The demand expressed upon us by other correspondents, if we can discover in the present Protestation of England the cause direct or indirect, of her people's misery, we are not to forget that to the home of our fathers are we indebted for what we enjoy of Protestant liberty.

It cannot be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

Incidents of the War.

From correspondence of New York papers we glean the following:

DEPARTURE OF THE CONFEDERATES FROM MARYLAND.

They have gone. The grand campaign in Maryland is ended, and Virginia is again the battle-ground. They may have been short, bloody, and full of disaster and disappointment.

HOW DID IT HAPPEN.

Many will ask with disappointment how it was that the enemy was allowed to escape. In spite of the punishment inflicted on the rebels in every engagement, the frustration of their plans of plunder and devastation in Pennsylvania, and the disappointment, more disheartening than defeat, which the people of Maryland caused them.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

REV. C. LOCKHART'S ADDRESS.

It is not to be denied that in taking a decidedly neutral position in reference to a war which injures England materially, the government has acted judiciously and with strict regard to equity.

President Jefferson Davis.

Some months before the expiration of the presidential term of General Pierce, the legislature of Mississippi had again elected Mr. Davis to the United States Senate for a period of six years.

Notes and Gleanings.

The Provisional Government of the Confederate States was established for a period of one year. That permanent Constitution, accepted already by thirteen seceded States, came into complete effect on the 22d, the anniversary of the birth of General Washington.

Notes and Gleanings.

The election of President, Vice-President, and members of Congress, took place in November last, when President Davis had no opponent for his office; in fact, he received an unanimous and authoritative vote as did President Washington.

Notes and Gleanings.

No citizen was more loyal to the United States than he, until Mississippi ceased to be a State of the Union, and in exercise of her sovereign rights, demanded the allegiance of her own sons.

Notes and Gleanings.

It is beyond question that many of our most useful ministers and local preachers have been usefully injured, and some even lost their lives, by damp beds.

Notes and Gleanings.

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous of the reputation of their Master's house, should utterly condemn.

Notes and Gleanings.

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous of the reputation of their Master's house, should utterly condemn.

Notes and Gleanings.

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous of the reputation of their Master's house, should utterly condemn.

Notes and Gleanings.

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous of the reputation of their Master's house, should utterly condemn.

Notes and Gleanings.

There are practices tolerated in religious congregations which Christians, who are jealous of the reputation of their Master's house, should utterly condemn.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

The number of factory operatives employed during good times in the cotton districts was 300,000; of these, at last accounts, about 110,000 are out of work; 100,000 have two days work in the week; 100,000 four days; and only 40,000 are working full time.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

The number of factory operatives employed during good times in the cotton districts was 300,000; of these, at last accounts, about 110,000 are out of work; 100,000 have two days work in the week; 100,000 four days; and only 40,000 are working full time.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

The number of factory operatives employed during good times in the cotton districts was 300,000; of these, at last accounts, about 110,000 are out of work; 100,000 have two days work in the week; 100,000 four days; and only 40,000 are working full time.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.

Laneshire Operatives.

The following will show something of the calamity which has befallen the manufacturing districts of England in consequence of the war.