ARMOUR CLAD

PAGE FENCING

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST

When you buy a knife for instance, you consider the quality of the steel in the blade. The biggest and heaviest knife is not necessarily the best. Now there is just as much difference in the quality and strength of steel in fence wire as there is in a knife blade or razor. The Page Co. use a high carbon steel wire, which though it costs you but little more, is fifty per cent. (50%) stronger than wire in other fences. The lightest Page fence is as strong as the heaviest of other makes. Notice the lock in PAGE "EMPIRE" FENCE. You may have noticed also that others are imitating it. That is a good recommendation for it. Where we lead others follow. All PAGE wire is "COILED," not cramped.

THE LOCK IN PAGE

Besides the extra strength and superior workmanship, PAGE FENCES are dipped in a special white paint, which on top of the best galvanizing, will lengthen the life of wire for years. And also, this white coating makes wire much more sightly. Owing to the great strength and elasticity of PAGE fencing, one-third less posts are required, thus reducing the cost of the fencing. As you get in PAGE FENCES one-half more fence strength, greater protection against rust, better workmanship, better appearance, use less posts, can you afford to use other fences, even though you could buy them for one-half the price of the PAGE? But, really ours cost you little, if any more.

High Pressure Days

Men and women alike have to work incessantly with brain and hand to hold their own nowadays. Never were the demands of business, the wants of the family, the requirements of society, more numerous. The first effect of the praiseworthy effort to keep up with all these things is commonly seen in a weakened or debilitated condition of the nervous system, which results in dissipation, defective nutrition of both body and brain, and in extreme cases in complete nervous prostration. It is clearly seen that what is needed is what will sustain the system, give vigor and tone to the nerves, and keep the digestive and assimilative functions healthy and active. From personal knowledge, we can recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla for this purpose. It acts on all the vital organs, builds up the whole system, and fits women for these high pressure days.

SUGAR AND SYRUP

An interesting bulletin on the subject of the maple sugar and syrup industry has just been issued under the direction of the Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa. It deals at length with the best methods of manufacture, and a careful reading shows that the farmers of this country understand the business thoroughly. There is, however, another matter treated, one that the Reporter has frequently urged upon the attention of the farmers, namely, the proper protection of their products in the retail market. In respect to this, the bulletin says:

"There has been an increased demand during the last few years for the pure maple syrup and sugar, and there is at the present time every assurance that an enhanced price would be paid for the genuine article. 'Some time past the trade of pure maple sugar and syrup has been seriously interfered with by the sale of maple syrup and sugar with other sugars or other ingredients and by making and selling these mixtures as pure maple products. This is a clear case of adulteration even though the mixtures contain only harmless or less digestible ingredients. 'There is no doubt as to the superiority of the pure maple goods over these compounds, but the latter are sometimes so attractively put up, and the difference apparently so slight, both in the labelling and in the contents, that the ordinary consumer who purchases it, unless quite accustomed to the nice delicate maple flavour of the pure maple goods, cannot detect the presence of any artificial flavour.' The sale of these adulterated goods, if their character is not clearly indicated on cans or packages, hinders the trade in pure goods, discourages the producer of the latter, and at the same time defrauds the consumer by tempting him to purchase a misrepresented article. 'Until quite recently the only adulteration that could be detected in maple sugar and syrup was that of glucose or artificial flavours. The Department have now, however, discovered other processes by which the presence of cane or beet sugars can be detected. 'A good label placed on the packages of syrup or cake of sugar with the purity of the article distinctly declared on it, with the name and address of the packer or producer should give confidence to the purchaser, and is an assurance to the latter that what he is getting is genuine and above suspicion. The above purchaser cannot be blamed if he is suspicious of goods that are put up without such labels. 'A few farmers in the vicinity of Athens are labelling their syrup, but the practice is not sufficiently general to have any appreciable effect on the market, though individually they derive a benefit. What we have advocated is the formation of a county association, qualification of membership to be the production of a certain specified grade of goods, and the use of a registered trade mark to be placed on a label. The cost of organization and trade mark would be trifling and a suitable label could be obtained at $2 or $3 per thousand. Leeds county farmers make as good a grade of syrup as this continent produces, and if they can get their goods properly before the customers they will be sure to obtain a satisfactory return for their care and skill."

A Warning

To feel tired after exertion is one thing; to feel tired before is another. Don't say the latter is laziness—it isn't; but it's a sign that the system lacks vitality, is running down, and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It's a warning, too—and sufferers should begin taking Hood's at once. Buy a bottle to-day.

Getting Started as a Milliner

Given a knack and a little knowledge of millinery, nothing is easier to get started in than the bonnet business. The hat shop is a delightful place, one where artistic tastes have opportunity to show themselves and to earn a good income for their fortunate possessor. It is commonly thought that millinery is a matter requiring capital, and so it is if the milliner must begin on a large scale.

Granted, however, that she must not, cannot, but on the contrary must climb into the hat business without capital, she may become a visiting milliner, go from house to house, use "ladies' own material" and furnish up old hats until she has laid by a small sum of money.

The next step in this self-making process is the stage of taking orders. Doubtless many of the girls' customers—those she has worked for in their own homes—have now come to trust her judgment and admire her taste. So when she asks them to order their hats through her, letting her do the work at her own home, and looking for acceptance "on approval," her necessarily wearing journeys from house to house are at an end. She buys materials with her little capital, makes her hats and delivers them. Her profit now is considerably larger than when she worked with the "ladies' own material."

And then some day she is rich enough to rent a shop and make her hats in it instead of in her bedroom. HARRIET MARTIN in The New Idea Woman's Magazine for April.

Will not save a diseased tree. Whatever it is that threatens the life of the tree must be discovered and attacked directly.

Pruning the branches the ordinary remedy instead of going at the root of the disease simply prunes the branches. The trouble is in the bone or joint and must be got at there, must be driven out. This is where the pre-eminence of Tuck's Rheumatic Bone Oil comes in over all other remedies. It goes straight to the root of the trouble in the quickest and most direct way, penetrates to the bone and effects a sure, permanent and speedy cure. Here is what a sufferer says of it:

Dear Sirs—You ask me if Tuck's Bone Oil did me any good. I can tell you that it did. It cured me of rheumatism and nothing ever helped me for neuralgia until I got that. I suffered everything for years from rheumatism and at times I thought it was going to my heart and would kill me. All my neighbors know how I suffered and they all know that Tuck's Bone Oil cured me, because I tell everybody I see. I took small doses of it, about four drops in milk, and I had it thoroughly rubbed into my legs which were both affected. It seemed to penetrate right to where the pain was and even the first application gave me relief, but the grumbling pain came back in a few hours. I kept on using it and before I had used all of the fourth bottle I was completely free of rheumatism. During this time I had a terrible attack of neuralgia. I used Tuck's Bone Oil and got almost instant relief. I am willing for you to use this any way you like because I think your Bone Oil should be known of by everyone.

THE IDEAL HOME.

Man's Ideas Constantly Change as He Grows Older.

As the male member of the human species advances in years his ideas as to what constitutes an ideal dwelling change so absolutely that there is between the different places he would select almost no similarity.

At three years old his ideal is a tent formed from a table cover, a blanket, a spread, a piece of carpet, or any other material that can be so arranged that it will form a little place into which to crawl.

At six the best possible dwelling is a hut built of barrel staves, boards and planks, and unknown to persecuting adults, and especially to policemen.

A boy of ten would select a spacious cave, with a marvelous secret entrance, preferably with the entrance under water at flood tide, with the floors covered with heavy costly carpets, the walls decorated with deadly weapons inlaid with gold, silver and precious stones, and with enough food stowed away to enable the inhabitants of the place to live for a year if necessary.

At twenty the heart's desire is a room in a large hotel where the cost would be at least $3 a day and where there would be a dinner at 7 o'clock, with lots of pretty and rich women present, a big smoking room and plenty of stationery with a heavy gold monogram or crest stamped on it.

At twenty-five the best possible home is a neat, comfortable modern flat in some respectable neighborhood, not too far from the cars, theaters and shopping district, and with asphalted streets so there will not be too much noise.

At thirty-five the only proper dwelling is a town house, preferably situated near houses of men whose wealth is reckoned in the tens of millions of dollars and who really have considerable money, said house to have a mammoth ballroom, music room and art gallery, and in addition to this house another country house within easy distance of the city, and still again, in addition to these two houses, a modest but quaintly elegant cottage at some popular seashore resort.

At fifty a man's tastes have toned down, and he longs for a little cottage in the country, where all is quiet, where birds sing and there are chickens in the yard, a cow in the stable, a goodly plot of ground that continually yields an unfailing supply of fresh vegetables and where all is modesty, sweet content and freedom from the usual annoyances that make life a burden.

At sixty the cottage has grown smaller, and the man would be content with less ground, fewer chickens and vegetables and could get along quite nicely without the cow. At seventy any place will do so long as a man is not disturbed and has reasonable assurance that he will not be.—Exchange.

Victims of Old Jokes. A hospital surgeon says that there is more facial paralysis among bank paying tellers, photographers and elevator operators than in any other classes. He accounts for it with the words, "Old Jokes."

"Jokes! How so?" "Whenever a bank clerk hands out a fresh, crisp bill, the man on the other side of the window says: 'New money, eh? Made it yourself, I suppose?' It is up to the teller to force a laugh. The man on the chair says, 'Ain't you afraid I'll break the camera?' He would be mortally wounded if the operator did not laugh. One man out of every ten will enter an elevator and say to the boy at the rope, 'Lots of ups and downs in your life, ain't there?' The boy forces a smile.

"Year after year of this sort of business tells in the long run. The victims come here for treatment, and we can hold out no hope to them unless they get into another line of labor."

Medford and Its Ram. The American Geographer, published in 1910, has the following: "Medford, a pleasant, thriving compact town in Middlesex county, Massachusetts, four miles north of Boston, situated on the Myrtle River, three miles from the city. The river is navigable for small vessels to this place, where it meets the Middlesex canal. The town ship was incorporated in 1630 and contains 1114 inhabitants, who are noted for their industry. Here is a pottoffee. Also four distilleries, which have distilled in one year 252,450 gallons of rum."

Mamma's Baby. "Pretty? No, I won't say baby is pretty," declared a young mother, "for I can speak of him impartially even though he is my own, and that's more than most mothers can do. He has lovely blue-eyes, perfect in shape, hair like the morning sunshine, mouth—well, no roselip could be sweeter; complexion divinely fair, nose just too charming for anything—in fact, he's faultless, but I won't say he's pretty."

You Know Him. "Oh, yes, he's a very intellectual man." "What makes you think that?" "I judged so from his talk." "What does he talk about?" "He's always talking about how intellectual he is."

How He Won. How did you get along with that mining proposition that fellow wanted you to go into? "I made $5,000 out of it." "You did! How did you do that?" "By not going into it."

A fool is generally a person who detects your faults while you are in the act of calling attention to his own.
