Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

AREN'T THEY JUST AS BAD?

RUTH CAMERON

Almost everyone hates a snob. I am sure even the persons who are toadied to by the snobs must secretly despise them. But aren't the people who are always suspecting other folks of being snobs, always resenting real or fancied slights, always saying things that are "so-and-so" thinks he's better than other people, I'd like to know what reason he has, etc., almost as worthy in their uneasy self-assertion, their self-conscious bluster, as the snobs themselves.

And Perhaps He Is.

Perhaps so-and-so does think he's better educated or better bred or more of a gentleman than many of the people with whom he comes into contact. And perhaps he is. Perhaps he does not care to associate with people who do not interest him. Can you blame him? Not if his manner is courteous and he pays due respect to the rights and feelings of others.

In our town there lived a woman who was criticized in this way. She was a middle-aged woman with a small income. She came to our town after the death of her husband, a distinguished statesman, and lived on a quiet little street occupied mostly by middle class families who had lived in the town all their lives—eminently respectable, thoroughly kindly and them. She did more than one neighborly act in time of trouble or illness. But she simply showed that she did not care to mingle with them in her daily life.

Then I Understood.

This woman died the other day and in the notice of her death, to which even the big city papers gave considerable space, was a reminder of her past glories. Something was said about the brilliant life she had led in her husband's prime, the names of some of her distinguished relatives were given, and I, who had so often heard her criticized and heard so little said about what she really was, realized for the first time what the background of her life had been and why it would have been difficult for her to find any real companionship with the people who blamed her for being "different" and "stuck up."

She was better bred and better educated than the rest of us. She was used to a more complex and finished society. Why should we blame her for being so any more than we blame ourselves for not being able to enjoy people just as far below us in the scale of education and experience?

Did You?

I never yet knew a person who talked about people being snobs who did not look down on the people he considered below him, just as much as he blamed people above him for looking down on him.

True pride, it seems to me, does not consist in claiming that all people (except those who are, not as good as you) are equal, and that anyone who does not seem to enjoy you is stuck up—but in having fine standards of true worth, in being quick to recognize, look up to, and if possible make your own, whatever is worthy of admiration and imitation in others.

GOVERNMENT.

WINT MASON

Wise government can do a lot to brighten up our days; wise government will hit the spot in fifty-seven ways. And still we'll have to buckle down and saw our share of oak, if we'd have credit in the town and not be always broke.

Good government will help us all, if we should help ourselves, and we'll have pictures on the wall, and pies upon the shelves; and we're secure in what we own of land or hay or gold, and when we earn a shining bone, it's ours to have and hold. And we're protected in our car, and in our bed, at rest; good government will go that far, when it is at its best. But it won't take the place of toil, by which the prudent thrive; it will not hoe the weedy soil, or keep the corn alive. I don't depend on man made laws to help me dodge life's ills; the smoothest law that ever was won't pay my monthly bills. The noblest statute in the book won't keep the wolf away, or buy a sack of spuds to cook, if I loaf round all day. I leave my shack at morning, bent on hours of useful toil; I don't depend on government to make the kettle boil.

Volcano as Lighthouse.

A volcano on the island of San Salvador serves the purpose of a lighthouse. This volcanic lighthouse is about eight miles inland from the port of Acapulco. It is a veritable pillar of cloud by day, and the flash of its light by night has been valuable to mariners for years.

It can be seen far out at sea, and a burst of flame has gone up every seven minutes without the variation of a second for many years. A lighthouse fee is collected from all vessels that put in at the harbor nearest the volcano, and no skipper objects. He knows that the volcano is more reliable than the lighthouses kept by human beings on other coasts, and the novelty of the light is worth the price charged by the Government.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

LITTLE RASCAL.
Into mischief all the time,
Little Rascal;
Every tree you want to climb,
Little Rascal;
Eyes just dancin' with delight
Like the stars, an' just as bright,
An' you're Oh, so tired at night,
Little Rascal.

All you're thinking of is fun,
Little Rascal;
You're forever on the run,
Little Rascal;
Mother says she doesn't know
What to do, you plague her so,
Keeping always on the go,
Little Rascal.

Lost the buttons off your shirt,
Little Rascal;
An' your knees are thick with dirt,
Little Rascal;
Now your cheeks which once were white
Are almost as black as night,
But your smiles shows through all right,
Little Rascal.

Keeps me busy squarmin' you,
Little Rascal;
Makin' up for all you do,
Little Rascal;
Tellin' Mother, day by day,
Not to mind your headless way,
But to let you romp in play,
Little Rascal.

Go the limit while you can,
Little Rascal;
Soon, too soon, you'll be a man,
Little Rascal;
Time will call you from your fun
To the tasks which must be done,
Then, I reckon, you won't run,
Little Rascal.

Just as dirty as can be,
Little Rascal;
But you mean a lot to me,
Little Rascal;
An' I'm prayin' through the night
That when life bids you to fight,
You'll come through the mill all right,
Little Rascal.

MINARD'S LINIMENT RELIEVES DISTEMPERS.

Important Announcement.

I have much pleasure in announcing that on and after Monday next, September the 6th, Mr. P. J. McCarthy, the well known vocalist, pianist and musician, will be at my shop every morning from 11 to 1.30, and every afternoon from 3 to 6, to try over new and standard music for intending purchasers.

As I import practically all the music that is published in the musical centres of the United States, the stock will contain all the most up-to-date publications in fox-trots, one-steps, waltzes, jazz music and popular songs. Added to this I will keep a full line of standard vocal and instrumental music, also the celebrated Century and McKinley editions, with teaching pieces a specialty.

Teachers and pupils will no longer have any trouble in selecting, as Mr. McCarthy will be there to recommend, illustrate and help them. Our outport customers will appreciate this service, as orders will be carefully selected and promptly attended to.
