sne saw the charger stop. With a stifled groan his rider slid from the saddle and fell heavily on the side nearest the upland slope. In an instant Pipette was on the ground beside him, her arm passed through the bridle of her horse. Silver had moved on a few paces. Pipette knelt down and raised Marmaduke's head, moistening his brow with eau-de-Cologne. He was in a dead faint. Presently ne came to himself, and staggered to his feet.

"I never had a good head—shouldn't have risked playing the fool, but—er, I beg your pardon. I—ah, see I—ah, owe my recovery to a—a stranger." Here giddines again overcame him, and he would have fallen had not Pipette caught him, and let him down gently on to the bank. He was pale and trembling alt over. $3 per Year. Published Every Friday. $2 for 8 Mos.

A Canadian Journal of Politics, Literature, Science and Arts.

THE WEEK has been greatly enlarged and improved, rendering it still more worthy the cordial support of every one interested in the maintenance of a first-class literary journal. Recognizing with gratitude the generous support it has received since the publication of the first number, it hopes to win the approval of a wider constituency and reach a much larger circle of readers. a much larger circle of readers.

a much larger circle of readers.

The independence in politics and criticism which has characterized TBE WEEK ever since its first issue, more than eight years ago, will be rigidly maintained; and unceasing efforts will be made to improve its litterary character and increase its value and attractiveness as a phane for the cultured home. Many new and able writers are now, or have promised to become, contributed to the writers are now, or have promised to become, contributed TEE WEEK and the constant aim of any journals in Britain and the United States, ally equal to the best literary fournals in Britain and the United States, and Montreal Letters from accomplished correspondents will appear at regular intervals.

THE WEEK enlarged is the same sizeas "Harper's Weekly," and the largest paper of its class on the continent.

I regard THE WEEK as one of the most interesting and satisfying liter-pry publications in America; and certainly there has been no period in its history when its excellence was so marked as at present,—[T. W. Longley, Attorney-General of Nova Scotia, Halifax.
