LONDON'S UNTIMELY DROP. After rising to the pinnacle of leadership in the Canadian League, and holding the same for 24 hours, London slumped into third place on Saturday by Hamilton winning from them, and St. Thomas defeating Chatham. It could not be expected that the home team would be so reckless as to take two games in succession from the determined-to-be-leaders. As usual, the position held by the home team was an ephemeral one, and will be regretted by the large crowd present at Saturday's miserable and wretched exhibition of the sport. A spectator would imagine from the first three innings that the Londons decided there and then that their blood, and they wished to retreat with the worst grace possible. If the defeat had been an honorable one, nothing could be said, but when the hisses and cat-calls were leveled repeatedly at the misplays of the home team, it is not unreasonable to suppose that with some exceptions, and those but few, the players did not seem to care whether they won or not. Those who were at the game again feel like denouncing the home club in the most determined manner. But some explanation should be made public to those who missed the

It commenced in the first inning, when Hamilton scored three runs on one solitary single. The misjudgment of a fly in right between Carey and Smink was the commencement.Laroque fielded a hit and threw badly to Lohman to head a runner coming in. Then Lohman threw to second with a runner on third, and the latter scored before the ball was returned. At was impossible to stop the Londons from their spell of bad playing, as in their half of the first, Meara opened with a two-bagger, Mohler was hit by a pitched ball and Smink had a pass. Owing to the stupid base-running of the first two players, they were caught by the aler

In Hamilton's third, with one out, they followed with two singles and a double, scoring two runs. Baker struck out, and Dean hit a fly to Meara, but he dropped it, a run coming in. Dean took second on the muff, and then made for third. Lohman threw beautifully to Keenan, but Jo-Jo's hands were like the back of a greasy pig, the ball going so far into left field that Dean easily scored. Five runs had already been given to the visitors. From then out the home team braced up and played a different game. Two singles, a base on balls and a steal and Nichols. gave Hamilton two runs in the fifth. Hagerman was hit harder in the sixth than at any time during the game. Buffalo...

London's drop was like the weather -a cold and chilly one.
Good-bye, Hamilton! You have played good ball here this year. Like the proverbial phrase, "the errors were numerous and costly." London's pitchers do not lost their games. Errors do the harm every time. Marr Phillips should star in the play. "A Lone Outcast," or "Sent Adrift in Old Age." London will likely play two games on Friday and two on Saturday at Hamilton. In Hamilton's second, Smink retired both Conwell and Hagerty on flies.

Bradford reached first on Keenan's two unfinished events, two heats in errors. Hagerty's fly looked safe, and each having been trotted Friday. Gratferred. Thus everything is going the Hams' way. Bradford went to second. In running to first Hagerty ran inside of the base line, interfering with Laroque fielding the ball, which would have doubled up Bradford. The latter was called out. Dean is like the stock market. He fluctuates. The first day's game was won on his errors, while in Saturday's game he played beautifully. Chub Collins batted and ran bases like his 1888 career. His fielding was quick and sure. Marr Phillips could not

The Sporting Life says of members of the London team that Charles Crowe ranks as one of the leading slab artists of the Canadian League; that Hagerman is a fair pitcher; that Laroque is a tower of strength on the initial bag: that Mohler is in every sense a jewel; that Keenan is undoubtedly the "king" third baseman of the league; that Ward has done Smink is put down as a cracking good hitter and otherwise somewhat slow. The batting averages are given as follows: Crowe, .214; Johnson, .080; Lohman, 290; Laroque, 333; Mohler, 333; In the big road race 187 came to the Keenan, 272; Ward, 267; Meara, 268. scratch.
