

BETHUNE'S LOVE AFFAIRS.

RECALCITRANT APPEARS TO BE A WOMAN IN THE REE.

A Weekly New York City Publication.

An Alleged Mock Marriage in Toronto.

—Accused of Stealing $5000 From Her.

The San Francisco Chronicle of March 17th publishes a long story about the troubles of Harry Bethune, the Canadian apothecary, with a woman who claims to be his wife. He is charged by her with robbing her of $5000 in cash, all of her wardrobe and jewelry, and leaving her penniless among strangers. To say all, she says he claims he never married her, and that he deceived her into a mock marriage for the purpose of getting her money.

"Mrs. Bethune is described as a decidedly interesting looking woman, very pretty, with a shapely, petite figure and only 21 years old.

"My maiden name," she said, "is Ida Baird, and I am from New York City, where my parents lived until they died a few years ago.

I have lived since then mostly with an aunt, a wealthy lady, and my home was everything that could be desired. I was a real termite by my father and was independent circumstances. Last July I went to Toronto,

Canada, to visit relatives, and there I met Mr.

Bethune. He was introduced to me by John Phillips, who is a friend of my father's.

Mr. Bethune paid me a great deal of attention, and when I returned to New York City he visited me and visited me at my parents' home. She did not like his attentions to me, and at his suggestion I was induced to return to Toronto with the intention of getting married. He professed to love me deeply, and I was infatuated with him.

"I started for Toronto and he met me on the way, and we traveled there together.

We went to an hotel and had supper. He planned to me that we were to get married at once, and I was finally persuaded to have the ceremony performed. That evening Mr. Bethune said that he was to be married without a license it was necessary to go across the border into New York State, and with me or two of his friends we were to make the trip by carriage in the moonlight. At the supper he had a good deal of wine, and I was repeatedly teased him, and drank a good deal of it myself. We started in a carriage and drove quite a distance, and I remember stopping at a place along the road.

When we had reached the hotel, he said of which I took a glass. After that I had no recollection of anything that occurred until the morning. When I awoke, I found that I was in Mr. Bethune's arms, and he told me that he had married me. I was very much little while. We were married last night.

"Of course I loved him then, although I would not recollect anything about the ceremony. A few days after that I spoke to him about the ceremony, when he gave me an evasive answer, which I thought sufficient at the time. I was congratulated by my friends, and I was said that he had just thrown a race for $10,000 and had to skip, and for me to meet him in New York. He said that he threw the race I found the next day, when the newspapers printed the affair, showing him up and publishing him as a swindler.

etc. I joined him in New York, and together we came West, first stopping at Chicago, and when I was sent back to Toronto he was charged against my husband would be pushed, and if he might be pushed, he would be actions to do. I found it much too warm for him, however, and told him so, and together we went to England.

"During this time he was forever out of money, and I gave him mine at different times. He had $2000 in cash in his pocket when he married me, and he was always at an excuse to get money. He was always at an
