

answer to every exercise is given. The hints to the solutions and to the new methods will be found very valuable. Price fifty cents.

AN EXAMINATION MANUAL.

Our Examination Manual is a very valuable book of 170 pages, containing examination questions and exercises in arithmetic, grammar, geography, composition, history, literature, algebra, euclid, mensuration, drawing, music, chemistry, Latin, French, German, book-keeping, mechanics, philosophy, trigonometry, science of education, etc., adapted to all grades of schools from the primary to the university. The price per copy is fifty cents. Teachers have found this book a great help in class teaching, and particularly in reviewing work. The pages are large (6 by 8), and the book is neatly printed and bound.

SOME CORRESPONDENCE.

We take the liberty of reproducing the following brief extracts from recent letters:—

Carlton College, Bonham, Texas, Aug. 12, 1885.

A copy of "The New Arithmetic" came to hand the other day. I regard it as superlative.—CHAS. CARLTON, President.

South Whitehall, Pa., July 22, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic," with "Hints and Answers," came to hand all right. Am delighted with them. Think it is the finest and best arithmetic I ever saw.—O. C. DORMY.

Cameron, O., July 14, 1885.

The name is reached at last. Your "New Arithmetic" far surpasses all other text-books on the subject.—SUPERINTENDENT A. J. WARD.

Bognor, Sussex, England, July 1, 1885.

I am delighted with "The New Arithmetic" received last week. It is a thoroughly practical book.—E. ETHEKIDGE.

Mt. St. Joseph's Sem., Hartford, Conn., July 23, 1885.

I have received "The New Arithmetic," and am more than pleased with it. Enclosed find fifty cents for "Hints."—SISTER M. J. PAULINE.

Business College, Akron, O., July 15, 1885.

As a book for use in public schools, high schools, academies and colleges, "The New Arithmetic" has no superior.—P. HAMMILL, Principal.

Patentville, N.Y., July 20, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" received. It is really refreshing to open a book on this subject and find something besides the old stereotyped exercises.—C. W. PRINCE.

Humboldt, Ia., July 20, 1885.

Your "New Arithmetic" just suits our work in this school. Am pleased with "Hints and Answers."—W. M. MARTIN.

Seven Mile, O., July 17, 1885.

You certainly have created a new era in educational matters, and your "New Arithmetic" is a decided success.—L. F. JACKS, B.S.

Lockport, N.Y., July 10, 1885.

I like "The New Arithmetic" very much, and look forward with pleasure to using it in my classes.—M. J. SQUIRES.

Santa Cruz, Cal., July 10, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" is worth the full price. In fact, it is simply excellent.—D. C. CLARK.

Villisca, Ia., July 10, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" is worth more than a dollar. I predict for it an immense sale.—PRINCIPAL A. B. HUGHES.

Business College, Oshkosh, Wis., July 13, 1885.

A copy of "The New Arithmetic" to hand. It is beyond doubt the best work in the market.—PRINCIPAL F. E. DAGGERT.

New Richmond, O., July 11, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" duly received. It will be eagerly sought and duly appreciated everywhere.—SUPERINTENDENT G. W. FALTER.

Van Meter, Ia., July 14, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" far exceeds my expectations.—PRINCIPAL C. H. BEAVER.

Business College, Owen Sound, Ont., July 11, 1885.

I like "The New Arithmetic" very much, and am satisfied that it has no equal in America.—PRINCIPAL C. A. FLEMING.

Kelly's Cross, P.E.I., July 10, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" received. It exceeds my expectations, and is certainly far ahead of the books now in use.—MARK A. SMITH.

Brooklyn, N.Y., 170 Quincy St., July 10, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" has arrived. I have carefully gone through it, and pronounce it unequalled by any other.—F. H. BREWER.

Business College, Brooklyn, N.Y., July 3, 1885.

I have been testing your "New Arithmetic" as far as possible in one class, and find it very satisfactory.—PRINCIPAL H. C. WRIGHT.

Collegiate Institute, Collingwood, Ont., July 1, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" is a credit to the publishers. The mechanical part of the book is very superior, and the arrangement sensible and practical.—JOHN TAIT.

Melissa, Ont., July 22, 1885.

You have placed many teachers under great obligations by publishing such a valuable work as your "Arithmetic."—J. F. CARMICHAEL.

Keene, Ont., June 24, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" far exceeds my expectations.—W. HAMMILL.

Newport, P.E.I., June 18, 1885.

I consider "The New Arithmetic," which has just been received, a most complete book on this subject.—J. W. McDONALD.

Keyport, N.J., June 23, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" is the best text-book on this subject that I have seen in an experience of thirty years.—G. W. HOLMES.

Mount Forest, Ont., July 16, 1885.

I prize your "Arithmetic" very highly. It is a model text-book constructed on the proper principle.—D. F. H. WILKINS, B.A., B.Sc.

Shediac, N.B., June 15, 1885.

Enclosed find fifty cents for "Answers." The "Arithmetic" received. The exercises on business are alone worth the price of the book.—M. J. STEVEN.

Aumdrée, Ont., July 6, 1885.

I consider "The New Arithmetic" one of my prices. I am truly delighted with it.—C. S. FRASER.

Normal School, Cassville, Pa., July 10, 1885.

"The New Arithmetic" has my unqualified endorsement. Shall adopt it next term.—PRINCIPAL J. W. ELLIOTT.

Ranelagh, Ont., June 10, 1885.

All other arithmetics will have to go. "The New Arithmetic" will take the lead.—CHARLES FORPAC.

New Glasgow, N.S., June 1, 1885.

Am delighted with "The New Arithmetic." The exercises are magnificent. Find $1.00 enclosed for "Answers" and "Examination Manual."—GEO. PATTERSON.