The College outdoor rink has been again put in shape for another season's sport. A good thickness of ice was made during the holidays, and now hockey is the order of the day. The Marshall-Harris Cup will be contested for in hockey as well as in Rugby, and from the number of players who are out practicing at the present, it appears as though the contest will be a very close one between the different year teams.

Locals.

"Doc", looking over old exam. papers previous to writing on "Surveying." How would you proceed to survey a stream? "H'm, that's easy. You would just take off-shoots from it."

Those who have charge of the chemicals report to us that there was a great demand for the 95 per cent. solution of alcohol the day before the referendum vote. Maybe the poor fellow who tried to get it thought it was his last chance.

Evans, as he sees Deachman getting a tomato can full of water—"What are you going to do with that water?"

"Going to water my plants," says Bob.

Evans—"Oh, have you got them growing in earth?"

Bob, in tones of thunder—"Well, you don't suppose I'd have them growing in heaven, do you?"

We do not know whether that was the place Bob mentioned or not.
