

P. E. ISLAND.—We see by late numbers of Hazard's Gazette, that a discussion is going on in reference to the Glalstone Bill, the opinions expressed being all adverse to it. One writer asks why the "accredited organ of the Church," has been so silent on the merits of the measure if it is a good one.

We presume the "Church Times" is meant by the said "Organ," as being the channel of communication between the Bishop and the Diocese. But at the same time we hold ourselves independent and free to express our sentiments on all subjects brought before us. In this capacity, we have been very far from "silent" in reference to the measure in question. We have spoken out freely our impression as to the necessity of some such legislation for the Colonial Church, and as to the unreasonableness of objecting to the proffered Bill, merely because of suspicions attached by some to its author.

We think the writer to whom we allude, can scarcely be a subscriber to our paper, or he would have seen the subject canvassed on our pages in various ways, during the last few months. Its agitation in P. E. Island, we should think not very likely to lead to any practical good. Our brethren there need not be alarmed. We are convinced that no attempts will be made to force any Church law upon us against our will. If a good one is matured by the wisdom of Parliament, and of our civil and ecclesiastical rulers, and presented for our acceptance, clothing the Colonial Church, i. e., Bishops, Clergy, and Laity, with a sound Constitution and the powers of self-government, in connexion with the Parent Church, we shall hail it as a boon, long desired, and much to be prized. Not until this is obtained, do we expect to see our ecclesiastical affairs in a satisfactory and wholesome condition. One objection strongly urged by the P. E. Island writers is, that the proposed Bill will increase the power of Bishops. To us its effect seems likely to be just the reverse. At present that power is undefined, and therefore liable to be arbitrarily abused. But we take it, that a properly regulated Convocation would supply wholesome and appropriate checks in this respect, especially by the large infusion of the lay element, which at present has no legalized influence.

We refer our readers in "the Island," to our last No. for further information on this important subject.
