

But the British have remained British; the French are still French; Belgians are Belgians; and the Germans are still German.

Their identities and culture have been preserved and always will be.

Just as we will always be Canadians.

Thank you.