

library, in search with lens or spectrum, in enquiry into man's The scholar's passion for truth, showing itself in laboratory or seeks truth with intensity of purpose and desire and unselfishness. thinking, our last prob of society would exemplify. The University institutions of modern society. Here they are held to dishonest must rest on our universities. They are the most honest of the For cultivating such thought, the chief responsibility mortal."

others springing up in other minds are able to make this seed im-
"are not unfruitful, but contain seed within themselves, from whence to meet a changed world, - and without ideas that, in Plato's words, condition without thought, - thought reorganized and readjusted We cannot hope for recovery from our present protracted human conduct. Hence they are under human control. the shattered economic machine. Our discontents to-day flow from who will soon be coming to take their part in righting and mending vision and firmer courage and a steadier morale on the part of those ments for rapid material gains. Our hope to-day is in clearer involved in existing defects, swept away as we were by the prevalent and to take an active concern in bettering conditions. We are all to see the moral defects of existing social and economic arrangements one of the functions of education is to equip individuals three or four years ago prudence and caution which were so recklessly flung to the winds its head under clearing financial skies, and observe those rules of upturn in industry and commerce, - whether our country can keep its They are asking, too, another question, - What is the sign of an

13

14

W. L. ...