ALLEGES INJUSTICE IN GAS SITUATION

Windsor Official Says Border Cities Not Getting Fair

WINDSOR, Jan. 21 .- "The border cities have had the most unsatisfactory supply of gas in their history this winter because of the jelly-fish policy of the Provincial Government in dealing with the natural gas situation in Western Ontario," sald T. P. Pinckard, president of the Windsor Gas Company, when asked about the supply being received here.

"We are absolutely disgusted with the way the situation has been handled," Mr. Pinckard continued. "There is not the slightest doubt this company and its customers are being discriminated against. Anyone who has followed recent developments can see that the people of the border cities situated 45 miles from the source of supply are being dealt with most

DRAYTON TO TAX PULP INDUSTRY

Press.)-Speaking at the annual banquet tonight of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, Sir Henry Drayton, minister of finance, made special references to "big business," its duties, and its obligations. He pointed out that the term and the slur that goes with it is frequently heard, but that there was nothing inherently wrong with size. On the contrary, no business could become great that does not do things in a big way. "You gentlemen," he said, "fittingly represent big business, not on account of your investments or dividends, but because while in 1881 your employees numbered but 1,592; 1919 they cities situated 45 miles from the source of supply are being dealt with most unjustly by a government which listens to the claims of municipalities more aggressive than the Windsor Council in placing their case before the powers that be."

Mr. Pinckard believes the council could have done more to bring the gas situation here to the attention of the claims of the support whole villages and render possible thousands of happy homes lived in by contented Canadians."

As to unemployment, Sir Henry drew attention to the great fear that from time to time oppresses labor, the fear of the worker losing his job. In the case of the pulp mills it was worse than with others, since the workers mostly owned. others, since the workers mostly owner ct the puip milis it was worse than with others, since the workers mostly owned their own homes, and those represented the savings of a lifetime. If the mili closed down the worker's house would perforce be deserted while he went afield in search of employment.

Extravagance Stops.

Sir Henry said that Canadian extravagance, so prevalent last year, had now been definitely arrested, yet at the same time and notwithstanding the fact that prices have fallen, our exports to the end of December were $33,000,000 higher than they were for the like period of 1919. For the year 1921 he stated that revenue must be maintained and the pulp and paper industry would have to be taxed. They were interested, therefore, in seeing that no form of taxation was adopted which would unduly hamper and restrict production and business in any one of its many activities.

He strongly urged the point that men with academic knowledge were of much more use in getting full value from forestry resources than men less scientifically equipped.

Mr. Osler experienced some difficulty when arguing for the establishment of of a measured rates system, because the members of the board, more particularly Commissioner A. G.
