The Heather's a fire now, for sure.
Scottish History Volumes de Luxe, published at $12.36. On sale in this New Book Department at $4.45.

Breathes there a Scot with soul so dead, who never to himself has said, "I'll own a history of my native land?"
Here is the opportunity of a well, of a lifetime. We have received from a book jobbing firm in Glasgow 49 volumes of Scottish history and life, published by James Macpherson & Sons, to sell at $2 17s 6d. It was the end of a line and their agent cleared it to us at a price that would not have been permissible perhaps in their home market.

A large volume two inches thick, on heavy-coated paper, 477 illustrations, chiefly from the Scottish Historical Loan Collection in the International Glasgow Exhibition of 1901. Many full page plates, reproduced from the original in Hampton Court Palace and Holyrood Palace loaned to the Exhibition by King Edward.

The book includes the work of several writers, each being the authority of his subject or district. Beginning with prehistoric remains and sculptures, the volume treats of twenty-two different phases of Scottish history and life, ending with Scottish universities and monuments of Glasgow.

We have only 49 of these volumes. They will be on sale in the Book Department, first floor, new building, Monday morning, at $4.45.
