Arrangements will also be made by the committee for a conference of all the insurance superintendents of the different prosuperintendents of the different provinces, with the idea of obtaining unirinces, with the idea of obtaining uniformity in the licensing of agents.

Edward A. Woods of Pittsburg, vicepresident of the National Association of Life Underwriters, gave an address on "Salesmanship." and George T. Wilson of New York spoke on "Efficiency." Brove breaking up, the members presented a club bag to T. B. Parkinson, transportation manager, in recognition of the service he had rendered the association during the past year.

were dropped twice on the railway station at Arnaville, causing a fire; they were also dropped on stations at Arnaville, Laon and Sterme. Mulheim on the right bank of the Rhine, was also visited by a French squadron of flyers, and the barracks and station there were made targets for high explosive shells. At Fleury on the Verdun front the French gained more ground in bombing attacks and took some prisoners.

As a result of recent actions the Russians have considerably improved their positions at many points of their front and they have taken in the their positions at many points of their front and they have taken in the past few days 30,000 prisoners and 40 guns. Becoming active in the north they captured German positions in the Riga sector, and they made an advance, unofficially reported as five miles. They also captured German first line positions a short distance from Smorgon, 50 miles east of Vilna, and they repulsed a German counter-attempt by the fire of their artillery. This fighting in the north may be designed as a feint to compe Von Hindenburg to keep a large body of troops on this front; or it may be the beginning of a serious offensive to drive the enemy out of Volhynia and back into eastern Prussia. On the Stokhod River front the Germani tried to break thru the Russian lines, but failed and retired. It is estimated that the losses of three army corps under General Von Linsingen that were defeated on the Lipa and Styr and forced to retreat, total 50,000 men. The Teuton ranks are leaking like a cracked tea-kettle.

The success won by the Russians on the Styr and Lipa Rivers is being pressed to the point of invading the northeastern corner of Galicia, where, it is reported, General Bochm-Ermolli and General Count Von Bothmer have been outflanked, both in the north and south. If this report is true the enemy is in grave danger of suffering a disaster unless he beats a rapid retreat. German and Austrian generals appear to be greatly nonplussed in the fighting unless they have a big superiority of troops, and this of course they no longer have. They committed the usual error of underestimating the quality of the new Russian armies. In the Carpathians the Russians have captured heights on the road from Delatyn to Maramoras-Sziget, in Hungary, and are within four miles of the summit of the mountains. Here the Austrians, after sending out roseate reports of repulsing the Russians on Saturday, were compelled to admit on Sunday that they had withdrawn towards the main ridge of the Carpathians, southwest of Tatarow, under the menace of a heavy Russian Continuing their pressure against the Austrian lines in the Trentino. the Italians have scored new advances along the Posina line and on the Sette Communi Plateau. They have progressed to the slopes of Monte Zebio, capturing trenches and making prisoners, and they have captured the strong positions of Monte Cavallazza and Monte Colbriccon, in the Dolomites, taking 142 prisoners, two guns, some trench-mortars and a large quantity of arms and ammunition. At other points on the front the artillery action continued heavy.

Cairo, Egypt, has received authentic word of the fighting of a desperate engagement between Arab revolutionists and a Turkish garrison near Medina, with a result favorable to the Arabs. The Turks, who are besieged, made-a sortie and lost 2500 men. The Arabs lost 500, and they are going on with the siege. The sortie indicates that the situation is becoming desperate for the Turks. Evidently the surrender of General Townsend at Kut-el-Amara had little political effect on the Arabs, for they decided to revolt anyway.

An official statement issued in London yesterday reported that the Turkish forces in Sinair Peninsula had made a new advance to within 30 miles of the Suez Canal and that they are entrenching at a point some five miles east of Katia. British cavalry have got in touch with them and measures are being taken by the British command in Egypt to meet this movement. As the day season is now too far advanced for an attempt against Egypt till the new year, the movement of the Turks is probably dictated by another motive. It has probably resulted from the fact that the revolt of the Arabs is of such great political importance to Turker that she has to drop everything else to deal with it, and before sending an expedition to Arabia it is necessary for her to protect her right flank in Egypt against the dangers of British interference with her communications with Arabia.

The weakening of the Turkish forces in the Caucasus after it was probably thought by General Von Mackenzen that he had checked the Russian invasion has given the Russians their opportunity to push Russian invasion has given the Russians their opportunity to push rapidly forward. Their latest achievement is the occupation of Ardasa, 13 miles northwest of Gumuskhaneh. In this operation they captured 16 now unofficially prisoner of war at Duismen—110095, Pte. C. O. Clarke, London, Ont.

Turkish Regiment. They also took three machine guns.

The Russians have also made a considerable advance along the shore of the Black Sea, west of Trebizond, taking a great many prisoners. They captured the Town of Kialkit-Chevtlik, near the River Eshit-Trmaka, and after some fighting they also carried by storm the Town of Foll and advanced a considerable distance southward. They also crossed the engagements with large Turkish forces east of the Rivandouza district, in the direction of Mosul.

Gray hair, beard and moustache, a soft felt hat, green spectacles and fiddle manufactured out of a cigar box, a piece of wood and one string of catgut, comprised the stock-in-trade of Lawrence B. Horlock of Stop 25, Long Branch, when he was arrested Saturday afternoon at the corner of Queen and Bay streets on a charge of vagrancy. Horlock was to all appearances a man of eighty as he played his home-made fiddle and sought the generosity of the people. Taken in tow by Policeman 340 to Agnes Street Police Station. Horlock soon was revealed to view as a red-headed very angry young man of 32. A search showed that his disguise and music had been the means of extracting $9.14 from the pockets of the public.

A British cruiser patrolling off Virginia Beach fired a shell across the bow of some vessel Saturday morning. The incident caused much excitement among hundreds of summer colonists who saw the warship as she turned immediately after the report of her gun and dashed full speed out to sea. Some who witnessed today's inci-dent of Virginia Beach said she came to a halt and evidently investigated the status of the craft she had halted and that the ship was allowed to pro ceed. The crop was never known to be cured out so nicely as it was this year. From present indications the wheat crop will be a bumper one, and in all probability the reaper will break into some of the district fields this week. French Bombardment Produces Tragedy Among Germans.

ful Death to Teuton Garrison.

PARIS, July 23.-The destruction of a Ferman fortified work on the Somme front was marked by a tragic episode, says La Liberte. The order was given to destroy the fort at wnatever cost. In less than six hours more than 2500 great shells were fired at it, and the defences gave way one by one in a cloud of dust and smoke. The infantry then went forward and the German positions were conquered.

French artillery officers, examining the ruins, discovered amid a mass of debris a Bavarian officer with his chest crushed and at the point of death. At sight of the French officers the Bavarian seemed to collect himself, then began to speak softly, the Frenchmen kneeling about him.

softly, the Frenchmen kneeling about him.

The story told by the Bavarian, and later recounted by an artillery officer, was to the effect that 32 men had occupied the work. After the bombardment had continued for a time, half of the men were victims of an awful death. Two were decapitated, and, of three others, near whom a shell exploded, not a vestige remained. The survivors crouched at the bottom of the subterranean shelters and awaited their fate.

Officer Went Mad.

Another terrific explosion occurred, the men being thrown together in a confused heap. Almost immediately flames shot up from the underground cavern. There was a moment of indescribable terror, for now fire was ravaging the work. The lieutenant in command went mad and shouted wildly at imaginary effemies. Then, in the sinister glare of the flames, the officer set furiously upon his men, tilling one after another, and was himself burned to death.

The Bavarian determined not to die by the hand of his chief and scaled the ruins, clinging to a slope of the work, only to be buried under a block of stone. He died soon after the French officers found him in the hospital, to which they carried him.
