

HULL, P. Q.

Those who follow the current news of the day will remember how last February the City of Hull was disturbed by a Catholic mob who attempted to, and succeeded in breaking up a Gospel meeting held by Miss Wright, assisted by the young men of the Y.M.C.A., Ottawa. Two thousand, or more, gathered outside the building, stones were hurled in all directions, shots were fired, while shouts of "tue! tue!" "kill! kill! now is the time to stop these meetings before they go any further!" Ten or twelve were more or less wounded, and some of the blows proved nearly fatal. The authorities, however, finally quieted the disturbance. Being called upon to work there for the summer months, some thought similar scenes might occur. But even here, where so much enmity exists against the preaching of the Gospel, no further serious disturbance has resulted, and something has been done for the Master.

After some effort, a building was obtained, and for four months services were held in French every Sunday evening. The first evening, besides the French Protestant families that attended, some French Catholics were there, we never held a meeting without some Catholic present, and the number increased to six. During the last month the services were becoming more and more interesting, and two successive Sundays a large crowd gathered outside the building, while some even ventured to come in, and all seemed eager to obtain one of our French tracts as they were being distributed. Our meetings have not been without results. During my labors I met with a Catholic young man who had been somewhat among Protestants, partly from the fact that his mother had recently married one. He attended our services regularly, began to read the Bible, and was brought to see his lost state by reading about the Saviour's crucifixion. On hearing of salvation as a gift from God he gladly believed unto salvation. The Pastor and Deacons of the 1st Baptist Church, Ottawa, being fully satisfied with his experience, he was baptized and united with that Church. He is now at the Feller Institute, determined to have an education. We trust a true soldier of the cross will be found in him. This young man's mother, although not having made a profession of faith, is now very anxious that all her children may read the Bible and see the truth for themselves. It would gladden many a mother's
