

weary sufferers. Each Sunday volunteers have conducted services in the hospital for those of the patients who were able to attend. The Board wishes to thank all those who have assisted in either of these good works.

The Women's Auxiliary has been active during the year. Its members aided Prof. S. H. Clark in the sale of tickets for an entertainment given by his pupils; for which aid he gave to the Hospital half the proceeds of the tickets sold by them. This sum amounted to nearly $160, which the Women's Auxiliary handed to the Board of Management for the building fund of the hospital. The Women's Auxiliary, as will be seen by their report, meet and sew for the hospital, and much assistance has been given the Lady Superintendent in attending to the comforts of the public ward patients.

The Homœopathic Hospital has lost through death, during the past year, two staunch friends, in one, our late lamented President, Sir Adam Wilson. To him, as much as to any one individual, the Homœopathic Hospital owes its existence. He was one of the promoters of the Homœopathic Free Dispensary, and one of the earliest agitators for a hospital. Upon the successful inauguration of the latter, he was made president of the Board of Management, the onerous duties of which position he fulfilled till his death. Holding this office during the struggling days of the hospital, he contributed largely to its successful development, not only by his wise administration of affairs, but also by the wide spread interest which his personal influence and efforts aroused in its welfare. He was always one of the most generous contributors to the funds of the Hospital. Appended to this report will be found a statement, written by Sir Adam Wilson not many months before his death, of the work done by the Hospital, and an appeal for generous aid to those who favor the good work. The other loss the Hospital has sustained is through the death of Dr. W. H. Oliphant. He was closely connected with the Homœopathic Free Dispensary and the Homœopathic Hospital. To both he rendered professional services of great value, and spared no pains by which he might promote the cause of homœopathy. His death, at so early an age, has been deeply and widely deplored.

Amongst the handsome subscriptions to the funds of the new building has been the sum of $500 from Mr. J. D. Nasmith, a member of the Board of Management and a warm friend of this institution.

In November last Miss Gurney gave a concert in Association Hall for the benefit of the hospital. This concert realized $358.90. The Board desire to offer their sincere thanks to Miss Gurney for her kindness.

The Board of Management also wish to thank Miss O'Brien, who, when leaving for a trip abroad, resigned the Secretaryship, for her faithful performance of her heavy duties. They hope that, on her return, she will continue her interest in the welfare of the Hospital.
