The Man In The Street

Welcome, to the Plumbers!

They're more welcome, even, than in January, when they come to thaw the pipes.

Too bad, of course, it rained during their stay, but what would plumbers ever do without water?

Speaking of rain, we'd like to ask with apologies to Lowell, "What is so rare as a fine day in June?"

And the salubrious soul on a neighboring desk replies without a moment's hesitation: "A watering cart in King street."

But then what would be the use of such a vehicle when Providence provides?

If he'd only added "on a hot and dusty day," then we might have told him to "go to the head of the class," but he didn't.

And it's plain he doesn't use the street cars much, or he'd have said at once: "A seat in a street car in the working hour crush."

Good—Said Ours.

The artist on the staff of a Montreal paper who announced in bold headlines yesterday "Germans rushing to completion 71 inch gun shells" cannot have seen that new water wagon that they've bought in the railway centre.

Another drop in flour—Bakers—have a heart.

How much further will it come to drop before that extra cent comes off?

There will be a little more excuse than usual for wishing the Prince of Wales "many happy returns" of today. The heir to the throne is taking his chances in the field with the rest of them.

Where are those East St. John jitneys? Another saw-off?

The latest murder case in this province furnished the temperance people with one more argument against the "Demon Rum."

Lucky Find.

Mayor solves city's financial problems by striking a "streak of oil" in civic finances. Now watch the rush to file claims for mining rights all over the city.

It is not the first time a "gunner" has been located at City Hall, but the first time that the product has had a commercial value.

Perhaps a Few More Censors.

Looks as if the Tories will have to organize a new department to find jobs for all the disappointed patriots whose ambition to serve their country, at a reasonable remuneration, has been thwarted in recent appointments.

With four conventions in one month, and two of them representative of all Canada, St. John will be developing some reputation as a convention city.

A TRUE BILL AGAINST BROWN

His Trial Likely on Friday—Judge Armstrong's First Sentencing of Prisoner to Penitentiary

In the case of the King vs. Stanley Brown, charged with criminally attacking a deaf mute woman in a house in Shepley street, the grand jury this morning found a true bill on all counts. The trial will likely commence on Friday morning.

The trial of the case of the King vs. Russell Keirstead on a charge of stealing $200 from Joseph Walsh, was commenced before Mr. Justice Crockett and the following jury: John McDermott, Chas. W. Wananaker, Geo. W. Williams, Harry King, Harold I. Sells, Robert H. Murray, M. J. McCarthy, Chipman Olive, William Crabbe, Isaac D. Sparks, Geo. Mallin, and William H. Pyne.

Joseph Walsh, his sister, Miss Walsh, Thomas Gary and Mr. Miller were examined for the crown. This hearing will be resumed this afternoon. Attorney General Baxter, K. C., is prosecuting and R. G. Murray is appearing for the prisoner.

County Court.

Judge Armstrong has sentenced Gilbert Lanchner, Jr., to two years in Dorchester Penitentiary, on a charge of assaulting Emma Dwyer.

Thomas McHugh pleaded guilty to assaulting Dora Trosky and was sentenced to six months in jail. U. J. Sweeney appeared for McHugh and C. H. Ferguson prosecuted.

SPECTACULAR BAYONET CHARGE BY CANADIANS

Private William J. Robinson of the Imperial Army Service Corps, in a letter to his aunt, Mrs. R. P. Allen of Fredericton, states that he took part in the fighting at Neuve Chapelle, Hill 60, and St. Eloi and the second battle for Calais. He was privileged to witness a bayonet charge made by Canadian troops and he adds: "I'll never forget it." He tells of being out in an armoured car which ran into two regiments of Prussian cavalry. A gun which fired six hundred shots a minute was turned on the enemy and literally mowed them down.

Private Robinson tells of a very narrow escape he had from being asphyxiated by poisonous gas. He had driven an officer down to the firing line and turned the car around. The officers told him to get into a dugout and wait for him. When he entered the dugout he found a colonel and a major there. A few minutes later the gas fumes struck him. The major shouted to Robinson to hold his breath and run and he did so. Blindness and choking from the poisonous fumes he made a break for it and luckily found his cap. He says: "I just put on goggles and went lickety split across a ploughed field. I got out of the gas belt O. K. but stuck my car in the mud so deep that it took eight of the fellows to push her out. About half an hour later my officer turned up and told me about it to him and he said that I was very lucky as the colonel and major were both dead."

CORPORAL WILSON THROUGH DANGEROUS EXPERIENCES

Tells of Seeing Ambulances Blown To Pieces By German Shells and Comrades Near Him Shot Down

Thomas L. Wilson of Chelvey street, yesterday received a letter from his brother, Corporal Walter Wilson, who is a dispatch rider with the Canadian troops fighting in France. He said he had up to the time of writing escaped injury although he had many close calls when shells burst only a short distance away from him.

He dwelt for some length on a description of trenches recently captured from the Germans. He said they were wonderfully well constructed with good protection to the troops, besides being capable of serving for many purposes. There were large holes in them where the Canadian artillery had got in some of their fine marksmanship.

The writer also told of several scenes on the battlefield. He told of seeing ambulances and transport wagons blown to pieces, and also men directly in front of him shot down. He said his occupation is a hazardous one as he is frequently forced to face artillery fire, and high explosive shells.

HIS ADVICE IS JOIN THE 55TH

The advice of George R. Manning, to young men is to join that unit and go to France. Private Manning was in the Ammunition Column of the First Contingent, but was compelled to return to Canada because of a complete loss of his voice. Though still quite hoarse, he is recovering in his condition and so has joined the 55th. He speaks in the highest terms of the conditions at Camp Sussex, and of the officers, from the commander down. "It is just like home to the boys," he said to The Times, and returned with satisfaction to the fine tribute paid to the 55th by the Duke of Connaught. The officers are a splendid lot, the men keen at their work, and the camp arrangements for cleanliness and comfort of the very best.

THEY WANT TOBACCO

Cigarettes and tobacco are at a premium among members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in Flanders, France, according to the letter received from Gunner Allan C. Boone of Fredericton. Gunner Boone says that gifts of tobacco and cigarettes will be much appreciated by the soldiers. He says the Canadians are well supplied with comforts except the articles mentioned.

B. Connell, K. C., and Felix Michaud and Secretary F. P. Robinson were present. Only routine matters were dealt with.
