

INSTRUCTS GIRL GUIDE LEADERS

Miss Dorothy McGregor Here to Begin Training Course

Says Movement Has Enjoyed Very Gratifying Advance in Canada

Miss Dorothy McGregor, blue cord diploma holder of the Girl Guides from headquarters office in Toronto, is being warmly welcomed on her second visit to New Brunswick. She arrived in Rothesay on Saturday and was the week-end guest of Miss Dorothy Purdy, district commissioner. Today Miss McGregor will begin courses of instruction for patrol leaders and for Girl Guide officers, similar to the courses which she conducted last year and which were so highly successful. The courses will be held in the Y. W. C. A. recreation centre in Saint John and will continue throughout the week during which time Miss McGregor will be the guest of Miss Ruth Star in the city.

MOVEMENT GROWING.
Speaking of the growth of the Girl Guide movement in Canada, Miss McGregor said yesterday that both in the number enrolled and in the interest and enthusiasm of the members, there had been very gratifying advance. Training for leadership had been carried on to a greater extent throughout the Dominion and during the summer time there were very many Girl Guide camps conducted, especially large camps being held at Vancouver and in Ontario. Two additional companies of Sea Guides were formed during the year and there were now six of these companies in Canada, she said.

Registration for the courses to be conducted by Miss McGregor in Saint John is not quite complete. Registrations received up to last night were as follows:

A smart young miss was noted on the avenue, wearing this chic suit which further accentuated her wearer's youthfulness.

The material is kasha, in a lovely soft green. The skirt is a short, plain affair, while the coat is made with a long waist and a box-pleated skirt.

Brown dyed squirrel adorns the collar and cuffs, and the hat worn with it is a soft, mannish felt, matching the fur in color.

IGNORES GIRL WIFE IN WILL

J. H. Hart, 94, Leaves Estate Estate to His Daughters

Had Figured in Suit For Annulment Soon After Marrying Manicure Girl

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—The will of James H. Hart, 94, died last week, and on Jan. 28, at the age of 94, provides for the disposal of his large estate and disclosed that he has given no share in it to his second wife, Katie Wolf Hart, who was 18 years old, and he 86, at the time of their marriage in May, 1918. Four daughters of Mr. Hart get the bulk of the estate, Adelaide P. Hart, executrix; Ellen M. Hart, Clara H. Bow and Lauribel Hart. Another daughter, Emily H. Foster, receives a life interest in a one-sixth part of the estate. Hart's secretary and business manager, William C. Wright, receives $1,000, and two of his janitors get legacies. They are George Butler, who gets $1,000, and Henry Spahn, $250. Hart figured in a sensational suit he brought to annul his marriage to Katie Wolf Hart, who had been a manicure girl, and from whom he had separated less than a month after their wedding. He lost this action, and she then got a legal separation from him, with the right to occupy one of his houses at 887 Monroe street, with an allowance of $175 weekly.

At that time a referee reported to the court that Hart's estate amounted to $800,000 and his income to $80,000 a year.

Bird Battles Man And Nearly Wins

Hazardous adventures are not usually associated with birds, but according to Harrison F. Lewis, Federal warden for the protection of migratory birds in the Province of Ontario and Quebec, Canada, some species are far from easy to handle. He tells of how Mr. Young of Ottawa was nearly killed by a cliff when he came to grips with a gannet on Bonaventure island. Mr. Young had seized the bird close to the edge of the cliff, the gannet, exerting the utmost of its great strength, tried to jump into the sea many feet below and take its captor with it. However, after a struggle that taxed his whole strength, the man won the fight with the bird.

He told also of a McGill University student who went to Labrador on an ornithological expedition and put his hand out to stop the flight of a mer. Going inside, the mer put its beak through the student's hand.

RED CROSS BOXES.
The Provincial Red Cross has 9,000 collecting boxes which are being sent out in lots of 80 and 50 to various communities throughout New Brunswick to collect pennies for the society's work for sick and disabled soldiers.
