DENIED THE THEFT

Court Sends Louzier in on Remand for Sentence—Today's Police Court

Hearing in the case of George Louzier, alias Bird, charged by Mrs. M. Batty with stealing a coat from her room in a boarding house in Union street, was begun in the police court this morning. The evidence of Mrs. Batty, Miss Harriet Newell, Edward Curran and Policeman Gossline was taken, and the prisoner was remanded. Miss Newell said that she saw the prisoner coming out of the window in Mrs. Batty's room where the coat was. She told of summoning the police.

Curran swore that he saw something falling to the ground from the direction of Mrs. Batty's window, and on going out into the yard found the coat. Both witnesses identified the coat. Policeman Gossline told of making the arrest.

The prisoner took the stand and denied the theft. He swore that he never saw the coat, nor was he near Mrs. Batty's room. He pleaded that he had a wife and family in Richibucto and wanted to get back home.

In summing up the evidence, the court said that the weight of evidence was against the prisoner, and that he would be remanded for sentence. When arrested he said his name was Bird, and he explained to the court this morning that his name was French, and was the same as Bird in English.

Gordon Livingstone, a young lad who was arrested for throwing stones in the street, was brought into court and was severely reprimanded. He was also fined $8 or thirty days in jail.

James Hunter was fined $4 or ten days on the charge of drunkenness, and Cornelius O'Leary and Thomas Moore $8 or thirty days in jail on a like charge. William Shannon was remanded on the charge of being drunk and profane.

PARTRIDGE CAUGHT IN A CITY STREET

When partridge can be captured right in the heart of the city, then it is time to think that they are quite plentiful. One citizen did not make to go far for his game this morning, for he captured one in the doorway of a Church street business-house.

Probably flying into the city during last night, and being confined in its unusual surroundings, it was a very much disturbed bird when seen in Church street. A passer by shot a stone at it and it ran about seeking a place of safety. Finally it went into the doorway of the McGowan Printing Company's business place, and there its pursuer caught it. He took it away.

GEORGE QUIGLEY DEAD IN AMHERST

MR. BERTON'S REPLY TO CENSUS CRITICISMS

Refers to Matter of Increase in Voters' Lists and to Other Phases of the Population Question

George K. Berton, census commissioner, challenges the suggestion that the increase of 1,350 names in the polls on the assessor's lists should indicate any substantial increase in the population generally. His argument is that this increase is secured by the addition of the young men who have come of age in the last ten years, but who, as children, were included in the last census. His explanation of the fact that the number of polls is so much greater in proportion to the total population than it was ten years ago is that the assessors are more careful now than they were then.

When asked for his explanation of the increase in the number of names given in the city directory, Mr. Berton suggested that the increase may have occurred in those districts outside of the city limits which were included in the directory. He also thought that more of the younger people were included in the directory than formerly, and that this would account for part of the increase in size of the directory.

Mr. Berton said that it was possible that some of the names submitted to him after the census had been taken had been overlooked by the enumerators, but maintained that in most cases they already had the names on the directory.

He defended both the system used in taking the census and the men who did the work, saying that the system made it almost impossible to overlook any one and that the men employed as enumerators did their work carefully and conscientiously.

He said the population of certain wards had been decreased by the encroachment of business houses, and asserted that in other parts of the city the population was not nearly as well crowded together as it was ten years ago. From his observation of the city's progress, Mr. Berton said he held little hope of any increase in the exodus of people as the explanation of why the census returns did not show a larger population.

THE FREIGHT HANDLERS

Statement of Men's Position Relative to the Winter Work

The Times' story with reference to the organization of the truckers or freight handlers and their demand for better pay and more frequent pay days, is confirmed by statement of officials of the Longshoremen's Association and the Freight Handlers' Organization with some changes in matters of detail.

Both Secretary Allen F. C. Worden of the freight handlers and Business Agent Donovan of the longshoremen, say that the unions are separate. Secretary Worden also says that the demand is for an increase of twenty-five cents an hour from the seventeen cents of last year, not twenty. They ask that pay day be weekly with double time on Christmas, New Year's, Good Friday, and on Sundays.

The freight handlers are members of the International Railway Freight Handlers' Association, and their local union is 174 with Thomas Larkin as president and Allen F. C. Worden as secretary.

An official of the longshoremen's association said today that they were affiliated with the International Longshoremen's Association, and their local union was 273. He also said that they had two years yet to run on a five year agreement with the C. P. R. and Donalson line to load their stamers for thirty cents an hour in winter and thirty-five cents in summer. Under these conditions he said it would not be possible for them to act in concert with the freight handlers. It was presumed by this official that both unions, freight handlers and longshoremen, were affiliated with the International Transportation Federation, which controls the work of handling the cargo of steamers, though Great Britain and other countries.
