POLICE COURT HEARS OF SPIRITED SCENE IN STRAIT SHORE HOME

Mrs. Wellington Bacon Charged Husband With Assault and Strokes Do Not Agree

Two contradictory stories were told by Mr. and Mrs. Wellington Bacon, of Strait Shore, in the police court this morning when the former was charged by his wife with assaulting her in their home on Tuesday night last. Mrs. Bacon said that because she had no fire going when her husband came home, he became angry and struck her on the back of the head, although she told him that the reason why she had no fire was that he had not supplied her with wood.

Bacon denied striking her, but admitted having pushed her away from him. He was aggravated at her "ragging him" and when his mother-in-law joined forces with her, it was more than he could stand. To make the ceremony more impressive, he said his spouse showed her skill with a broom and belabored him unmercifully over the back and shoulders. Judge Ritchie remained Bacon, who was defended by A. A. Wilson, K. C., until "the mother-in-law could be heard from." Charles Smith, a stalwart Englishman, did not take very kindly to being placed under arrest yesterday afternoon in Prince William street, and struck and kicked at Policeman Clarke, who was taking him to the lock-up in Water street. So forcible was his resistance that the services of Sergt. Baxter and two other men were called into play in order to land him in his cell. He was remanded this morning in the police court, where he claimed he remembered nothing more than that he had been drinking. A Russian, was remanded on a charge of drunkenness and on the same charge Newton Wilber was fined $5.

ROAD FOLLY UNDER HAZEN GOVERNMENT

(St. Andrew's Beacon). There is but one verdict in connection with the out-of-town roads—they are simply awful. The folly of spending money in road-making in the fall is shown in connection with the road between Bayside and Waiveg bridge. In some parts of this road it is like driving through a ploughed field. Near St. Stephen, the stretch of road in front of the slaughter house is even worse. At this point there is a dangerous hole in the culvert. Complaints with respect to the road conditions are not confined to any particular class, every one who has to use the roads is complaining.—(St. Andrew's Beacon).

GERMAIN STREET IN PROTEST

Sewer Material Must Go and There's Talk of an Injunction to Speed the Departure—A Decided Protest

A very decided protest is being made against the action of the city in filling up the space between the houses and the sidewalk and the sidewalk and curb in Germain street with material dug from the sewers. From the mere standpoint of utility it is wrong, since Mr. Gould states that this material will not nourish grass and trees. From the more important standpoint of public health the action of the civic authorities is inexcusable. If there are any germs anywhere—they are likely to be found in the sewers. Little children play along this street and should be protected. The Germain street improvement Association has protested without effect. The board of health does not appear to be interested. Engineer Murdoch says he has no soil of the sort wanted by Mr. Gould. The matter is apathetic. As a result, there is talk of an injunction. Those who are interested in the grass and trees planting along the street, and that this sewer sand must be replaced by good earth before any growth can be secured. Everybody is against the ill-looking and ill-smelling mixture, along a newly paved street that should be a model.

ST. PETER'S Y.M.A.

Anniversary Celebration Last Evening Enjoyed By Gathering of 200

The rooms of the St. Peter's Y. M. A. in Douglas avenue, were last night the scene of a jolly gathering of more than 200 young men, on the occasion of the celebration of the twelfth anniversary of the north and association. Starting in life about twelve years ago, with a handful of enthusiastic and active young men, the Y. M. A. of St. Peter's has gradually increased in numbers, and prospered along various lines until about five or six years ago, it was found necessary to seek larger quarters, and with this end in view, the commodious and well furnished rooms in Douglas avenue were built. The rooms are considered the best used by young men's Catholic societies in the city, being equipped with a splendid library, a finely furnished gymnasium, bowling alleys, and other attractive features. From this it will be seen that during its twelve years' existence the society has flourished, has increased in numbers, and has taken a leading place among the Catholic societies of the city, particularly in the athletic field. Most of the speakers at the function last evening gave "credit to our credit system," namely, the president, Arthur P. Delaney, occupied the chair at last night's gathering, and made an interesting opening speech in which he dealt with the aims of the society, and welcomed the representatives from several other societies. Several musical selections were furnished by the Y. M. A. orchestra, which were very well received. The balance of the programme was given by the following:—M. T. Morris, Chip Olive, Harry McQuade, and Wm. P. Higgins, solos; L. A. Conlon, W. D. Ryan, and Stephen Hurley, readings; Joseph O'Brien, step dance; and selections by a quartette composed of Maurice Deighton, Colborne, Wm. Murphy, and John Howard.
