MONTREAL LITERARY THEATRE

The Montreal Witness seems to be having had luck with its contributors of prize stories. Some time ago we called attention to the fact that one of the pieces which took a Witness prize...

Another case of misapprehension of another person's writings by a Witness prize winner has just been brought to our notice...

The Sun, speaking of the Globe, refers to the "retrograde" of our evening paper, which is being about to come out as a daily.

La Patrie of Montreal calls itself a Liberal journal, but will hardly be called so by those who are in danger of starvation.

From the Laurentides to Terra del Fuogo there is only Canada and the English Channel.

The story as it appears in the Fredericton papers is well told by the writer, Mr. Payne, with the exception of the last eight lines which have been added by another hand.

We doubt whether any good purpose is served by such literary competitions as the Witness has introduced.

A namesake of our great American temperance lecturer, John Gough, an Englishman by birth, became a Canadian by adoption.

What are the thoughts of the dying? In the Societe de Biologie, Pere affirmed that a dying person in his last moments thinks of the chief events of his life.

BAYREUTH OPERA HOUSE.

The old idea that Luna and Lunacy have an intimate relation appears to be not wholly without foundation.

The influence of the various seasons on the mind is a subject which has been treated in many a treatise.

The average number of lunatics during the years 1887-88 shows that there are two well marked periods—one in which the number rises considerably above the average, and the other in which it falls considerably below.
