Miss Myra French, who is the only vocalist in this magnificent musical combination, is blessed with a sweet soprano voice. Coming after the great band, a singer, no matter how strong, is at somewhat of a disadvantage, but Miss French furnished no unfavorable comparison. Her voice is rich, admirably trained and perfectly controlled. Her selection last night "Delight Valse," (Luckstone) was perhaps more suited to a higher range soprano, as the timbre of Miss French's voice would perhaps seem better suited to softer and more appealing music, but she sang in a finished and artistic manner and deserved the spontaneous encore accorded her. All fears for the safety of the two Italian fishermen, who lett here nineteen days will help the government as they exago on the sloop Philadelphia, were renoved by their arrival at four o'clock this morning. After passing Race Rocks on the way out, the little craft encountered extremely boisterous weather. Getting into one of those dangerous tide rips the boat became unmanageable. Two of the pl nks were broken and the sail and cars carried away. After drifting about helplessly for some time, the tide carried them into San Juan harbor, where they waited for the storm to subside. Provisions were secur-ed from the settlers, who also furnished them with oars and assisted in the repa'r of the boat. They say to the Catholic clergy: Be content with the mild unmeaning bill until we get back into office, and then if Manitoba refuses still to support your schools we will apply the screw of coercion. After the brave words uttered by the Ottawa ministers, how they would compel Manitoba to do their bidding at this session of parliament, their retreat from that position at the present time surely requires explanation. The true explanation is not difficult to find. 'The minority found it impossible to carry a coercion bill. They knew that many of their Conservative followers would not support them, and that the French Liberals could not be depended upon. This meant defeat. They saw, moreover, a chance of throwing the responsibility upon the shoulders of their Liberal opponents, a thing they have been unsuccessfuly trying to do for some time. They wish to make it appear in the eyes of the pubile that the Manitoba authorities and the Liberal party are not sincere in their wish to do justice to the minority. They propose to make it impossible for the Manitoba authorities to take any action in the premises, and by this means to injure the Liberal party. They propose by federal act of parliament to create separate schools in Manitoba and then to call on the provincial government to support them, knowing as we all do that at the recent elections Mr. Greenway was given a mandate from the people of the province to resist the establishment of separate schools. They ask Mr. Greenway to do an impossibility. The object of the government is plain. They hope to get rid of the question of coercion during the coming elections and making it appear that they have given Manitoba one more chance to remedy the grievances of the minority to throw the responsibility of the whole question upon the shoulders of the Liberal par-The whole scheme is too thin to
