The police report that the catch basin at the corner of Princess and Water streets is stopped up and that yesterday afternoon a pool of water about sixteen inches deep formed there. During the afternoon Sgt. Baxter, who is on duty there, saw six women and several men stoop into the hole. The water and sewerage department were notified early in the day but did nothing to relieve the situation.

RAMBLERS BREAK

SEASON'S RECORD

Make Thirteen Goals in Game With Windsor at Amherst

AMHERST, N. S., Feb. 11.—The Ramblers tonight broke the season's record for scoring in the Nova Scotia league by making thirteen goals to Windsor's one. The game was a very tame affair and was witnessed by the smallest crowd that has been seen since the league game in Amherst in some years.

Windsor introduced two men to the league hockey, Ellis and Cochrane. The latter played as well as any of the visitors. Windsor arrived here with six men, so Morse, a local boy who played goal for Windsor in 1927, was pressed into service and played point.

Another familiar face was that of Darie Mosher, who played on the local Victoria in 1927 and 1928. Fred McDonald, a local man, refereed and his work was impartial in the extreme.

The game was clean, but the penalties of Curran and White all the locals were penalized. Murray got his for playfully throwing the puck from centre ice into the net. White and Curran gained another distinction in being the only locals failing to score.

The Ramblers goals, Murray scored three; Black, three; Twaddle, three; Chisholm, three, and Simpson, one. The teams were:

HAD TO CAMP IN THE WOODS

Terrible Experience of Georgia's Crew

Captain Smith, of the schooner Georgia, which ran ashore on the way to St. John on Wednesday, wired the Sun last night as follows:—

ROCKLAND, Maine, Feb. 11.—We reached the mainland today. Fortunately the Georgia struck Monroe Island shortly before low tide, so that we were able to slide off the bowsprit and reach shore dry. But a fifty foot cliff had to be climbed and this so sapped our strength after our long fight with the storm that we made no effort to seek habitations and camped in the woods last night. At dawn today we found a fisherman's house, and later were rowed across the channel to the mainland. The Georgia is probably a total loss.

MAKES A DIRIGIBLE FLY BY WIRELESS

Mark D. Anthony Demonstrates His Remarkable Invention

Shows Thorough Mastery of Twenty-Two Foot Airship During Exhibition in Hoboken St. de

Demonstration of one of the greatest achievements thus far reached in aerial locomotion was given Wednesday when Mark D. Anthony, a New Brunswick electrical engineer, sent a small dirigible balloon soaring about through the air by means of wireless electrical power, making it perform all sorts of evolutions and having the air craft at all times under perfect control.

First announcement of Mr. Anthony's remarkable invention was given in December but since then many mechanical details in respect of propelling airships by wireless electricity has been discovered.

Sitting at a small electrical keyboard such as is used in sending wireless messages, the inventor ticked off various combinations of dots and dashes, each combination causing the balloon to perform some particular movement.

Sometimes the operator placed his instrument directly on the balloon, and then again would remove it 200 feet away. Distance had no effect upon the control and the response of the mechanism which operated the propellers was prompt and effective.

"With this small apparatus," he said, "I could control the balloon at a distance of 12 or 15 miles and with a more powerful apparatus the control could be extended to almost any distance."

"HAS DONE WHAT HE PROMISED." Those who heard the inventor's statement were not inclined to doubt it, for thus far he has done all that he has said he would do and considerably more.

Wednesday's exhibition was given in Leo Stevens' balloon house, in Hoboken, a structure six or seven hundred feet long and with a very large room to allow a satisfactory test of the "wireless dirigible."

Mr. Stevens is an experienced aeronaut and balloon manufacturer, has had charge of the construction of the balloon part of the invention and Mr. Anthony worked out the electrical features. They are now so well satisfied with the success of their undertaking that they are planning to build a large air ship, which they believe will satisfy the scientific world.

The model now being used consists of an ordinary cigar shaped gas bag 22 feet in length and inflated with hydrogen gas. Beneath this is suspended the control type of frame which is in all dirigibles, except that all of the mechanism is operated by wireless electricity instead of by a gasoline motor controlled by an operator sitting behind it.

The ordinary dirigible balloon control it is a propeller which sends it forward, the rudder which steers its course. In Mr. Anthony's invention other devices are added. Besides the propeller and rudder, he has a control directly beneath the centre of the frame, which operates vertically and lifts or lowers the airship at the will of the operator. He also has added a mechanical device which at the call of a few dots and dashes, releases a clutch, whirling a small weight representing a charge of dynamite to be in warfare.

"READY FOR SAILING ORDERS." During a two hours' trial Wednesday the inventor sat at his keyboard and by means of his wireless control the balloon to do everything that any one asked. After being inflated it was placed in an attitude of about 15 feet from the floor, at one end of the long shed, and Mr. Anthony announced that he was ready for "sailing orders."

"Send it ahead," said one of the visitors. Mr. Anthony grasped the key and ticked out a dot-dot-dot-dot.

The sound of the instrument was instantly like that of a sending instrument to one side and the airship, wobbling a little, was a slight whirling sound in the mechanism of the little airship, the propeller began to buzz, the balloon gave a little quiver and started forward. It moved forward precisely as if some tiny aeronaut were seated in the framework, manipulating a motor. On it sped toward the opposite end of the shed, when the order was given, "Turn her around."

"Dash, dot-dot, dash, dot," spluttered the instrument under Anthony's fingers. The propeller quickly stopped and as quickly began revolving in the opposite direction. The rudder swung to one side and the airship, wobbling for a few seconds, regained its stability, turned gracefully about and was soon gliding.

"Now send her up into the rafters," came the order. Again there was a whirling and glinting of flashes at the end of the frame stood still, while the one in the centre began to vibrate. For two seconds the gas bag seemed to quiver and sulk, then it yielded to the force of the blades and rose slowly upward.

"Bully for you, old man," shouted an enthusiastic spectator, "now bring her down again." Another brief chattering of dots and dashes, the vertical propeller flew like a bird in the other direction, and the gas bag came whirling downward like a big bird.

"WOULD WORK OUT OF DOORS." So the performance went on until the novelty of the thing had passed.

"Well, it works inside this shed," said one of the present, "but how about it out of doors?"

"I give you my word," replied the inventor very promptly, "that this model would make a very sorry showing in a 50 mile race. It is not built for that, it hasn't the power, but in still

SIX ACCIDENTS HERE YESTERDAY

Boy Run Over by Team

Four Coasting Accidents—Old Man Falls on Icy Pavement

Six rather serious accidents occurred in the city yesterday. One of these was due to the almost impassable condition of the streets, two to coasting and one a driving accident.

The first occurred on Main street, near Portland street, yesterday afternoon, when an aged man whose name could not be ascertained, fell to the icy sidewalk and sustained a severe cut on the back of the head. He was carried into Travers' drug store on Main street, where the cut was dressed, and after resting a short time he was able to proceed to his home. A heavy fur cap worn by the old gentleman probably saved him from receiving very serious injuries.

The first victim of the coasting accident was Mrs. Garrick, of Sydney street, who was run down by a small boy coasting on Camarthen street hill. Mrs. Garrick, who received a bad shaking up in addition to several bruises, was assisted to her home.

The other victim was a young lad named Thomas Wilson, of Sheriff street, who received slight injuries to his leg while coasting on the street on which he lived.

What was at first thought to be the most serious accident of the four, occurred on Adelaide street shortly after 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the 8-year-old son of Frank T. Murphy was knocked down and run over by a team owned by Dr. McIntyre. Young Murphy was playing in the street in front of his home. He ran in front of the approaching team and before he was noticed by the driver was under the horse's feet. The team was immediately stopped and the young lad removed from his dangerous position. He was carried to his home where examination showed that beyond a severe shaking up he was uninjured.

Last evening a Miss Scott and a Miss Anderson, who were coasting on Queen street, collided with a telephone pole with the result that Miss Anderson sustained severe injuries to her face. Dr. Bentley was called, and it was found necessary to put two stitches in Miss Anderson's face.

Beyond several minor bruises Miss Scott was not injured.

Many had falls are reported as a result of the icy condition of the sidewalks, and it is singular that more serious accidents have not occurred, as some of the streets were not visited by the sand man at all.

WELCOME SERVICES The welcome service to Captains Andrews and Teas, the new officers at No. 1 Company, St. John Artillery, was conducted in the Citadel last evening.

A goodly number attended and the services were most interesting. They were conducted by Major McGillivray, assisted by Adjutant Corneil and local officers. Splendid speeches were made by the leading officers.

FAST BOWLING THIS

A most interesting contest, seen on Black's alleys, in the Commercial League, was rolled last evening, when the Clerks and Electricists, each making the large score of 1237.

At the end of the play it was decided to bowl one box each. Kelly soon settled matters in favour of the Electricians, who he made two strikes in succession and three on his third ball. The teams split the points, evenly, each taking two.

Lunney of the Clerks broke the record for the league, when he ran up a score of 122 in one string.

The result was as follows:

SPLENDID EXHIBITS OF LOCAL PAINTERS

Members of St. John Art Club View Creditable Paintings

FOR PUBLIC TODAY

The monthly meeting of the St. John Art Club, held last evening, was one of the most interesting since the formation of the club some time ago. There was a large number in attendance.

A special feature of the evening was the placing on exhibition of several handsome paintings. These included splendid exhibits by Miss Annie Woodburn, Miss Marion Jack and Miss McGivern. The paintings on the whole were highly creditable and were greatly admired by those in attendance.

Miss Woodburn's paintings included a large number of landscape sketches in water colors. There was also a study of clover. All of her sketches in the book of a hand, finished in crayon was especially well done. The outdoor sketches were perhaps of the best of Miss Woodburn's exhibits.

Four scenes of Grand Munn were shown, in addition to eight paintings of Jamaica views. There were also scenes of Woodstock and a cape view at Jones' Creek, Glenwood.

A familiar scene was the painting of Market Hill. Miss Jack's paintings, as well as Miss McGivern's, were excellent. The former showed a number of large landscape views done in oil. An interesting feature in connection with the work of Miss Jack is that her model was also the original model of Millie's picture "The Angels."

It has been arranged that the paintings shown to the members last evening will be placed on public exhibition at the studio this afternoon, and all are cordially invited to attend.

At last evening's meeting Mrs. E. S. Fisher spoke interestingly on Modern English Art. Refreshments were served by the ladies' committee under the management of Mrs. C. B. Allan and Mrs. A. H. Merrill.

Every Woman is interested and should know of this new and wonderful MARVEL Whirling Spray. It is the only one of its kind. It gives full protection and is guaranteed to last.
