Heavy-boned and heavy-legged poultry must be avoided. With regard to the breed of fowl to be made use of, the barred plymouth rock has fattened very satisfactorily at the Dominion government poultry fattening sta-tions. At the Bondville, Que., station, Mr. Hillhouse fattened a number of barred rock cockrels that, when dressed and ready to pack into the cases, weighed eight pounds each. Some of these chickens were xhibited at the fat stock show in Guelph Ont., last December, and were greatly ad-mired. Whi'st they all had bright yelmired. Whilst they all had bright yel-low legs, the skin of each chicken was perfectly white. The color of the skin is due to the feeding. Not one of the several thousand chickens shipped to England last year from the poultry fattening stations had a yellow-colored skin. Legs must not be dark or black in color. All other qual-ities being equal, a yellow-legged chicken-brings the same price in England as one
