Construction to Begin in the Spring

After several years of investigation, financing and delays, the Student Centre of the University of New Brunswick is fast becoming a reality. The University Senate approved the plans for the building last week, and construction is expected to begin early in the Spring. The money for the new centre has been raised by the efforts of the Associated Alumni during the past years, and plans include most of the facilities now lacking on our campus.

Last term, the students were given a chance to make suggestions and recommendations regarding their needs in a new building, and the results have been gratifying to most societies and organizations, as well as the individual students.

Plans include a cafeteria, common room, offices for the Year Book, Brunswickan and S.R.C., ladies' and men's lounges, and (at last) a darkroom for the Camera Club.

The centre has long been one of the fondest dreams of those going Up the Hill, and those who will be on hand to enjoy it when completed are looking forward to new recreational and employment facilities.

INVESTORS BUY - SELL

The University Investment Syndicate sold its ten shares of industrial stock Brazilian Traction at the 17th meeting of the syndicate. However, the syndicate dipped its fingers back into the pie again by purchasing 100 shares of Coldstream Copper Mine.

Amendments were also made to its constitution. For example, the clause stating, "New members must be voted upon and obtain a 2-3 vote" was deleted from the constitution. It was moved and seconded that Mr. Bill Reddin refrain from making jokes to our guest speakers, especially about Cadillac.

Mr. R. S. Lambert of R. S. Lambert Company was made the fourth honorary member of our growing Syndicate, while Jack Foote was added to the executive as Statistical Secretary.

This was the last meeting of the U.I.S. for the '52 session. It will resume business after the Christmas holidays. Shortly after its recess, it will have as guest speaker, R. S. FitzRandolph, Comptroller General for New Brunswick, who will speak on "How to read a financial report". Mr. FitzRandolph will be one of the many investment councillors, stock brokers and bank managers the U.I.S. plans on having as guests in the '53 session.

Frosh On Committee Craze

The Frosh are still at it. On Monday they had their second meeting in Mem. Hall and after the usual formalities of minutes of the last meeting the Social committee gave its report. It had decided that a social would be the most sure-fire way of making money as that had the least cost of preparation. Dates have not yet been fixed, but it will be early next term, in all events.

A motion was carried that the Social Committee be given power to carry on with the final arrangements, and was also decided to put two co-eds on the Committee. Two of the small band of Freshettes eventually volunteered for the job.

Jim Bruce, still disgusted with the lack of campus entertainment, put forth the possibility of having a sleigh-ride as a highly pleasurable way to raise money. This had the effect of getting another committee formed to investigate the possibilities and find out where the necessary horses, etc. could be procured. Again, it was decided to have a girl on the committee.

A Red 'n Black representative, who was supposed to attend to harangue the Frosh into volunteering their talents(?) failed to appear. However, Cheeseman, a section D recruiter, attempted to give an outline of what was wanted.

FACULTY CLUB PROGRESS

Prof. Frank Mulligan, secretary of the Faculty Club has published the following progress report of the club.

The Faculty Club is making some headway in its efforts to progress from mere existence to constructive activity. As you may know, the Council undertook early in October to sponsor a reception for the Chancellor, but in reply to our invitation Lord Beaverbrook replied regretfully that it would not be possible this fall. He added, however, that "on another occasion if you will renew your invitation I shall be glad to go". It is reasonable to assume that the invitation will be renewed.

For the immediate future, other plans are maturing. At the instigation and under the direction of Dr. Warren, the Club is organizing a Christmas party for the children of the faculty, administrative and maintenance staffs, and students, both grads and undergrads. This promises to be a major undertaking, complete with Christmas tree, Santa Claus, entertainment, refreshments, and favours for the children, but Dr. Warren and her troop of assistants have matters well in hand. The party has been planned for Saturday afternoon, December 20th, between the hours of three and five o'clock.

It was felt by the Council that financial should be subordinated in this instance. Thus far the Club has been operating comfortably (but not spectacularly) in the black, and it seems worthwhile to take a chance in order to discover just what we can do.

Appropos of finances, much may depend on our total revenue from membership dues. To date there are 54 paid-up members (including 3 associate members) who have paid a total of $207.00. (The budget estimate was $200.00). There are indications that a number of others will join now that the Membership Committee under Professor McLaughlin have settled certain questions of statute and dues for the library and administrative staffs. As always the Treasurer (Mr. Mahan) and Secretary are willing at any time to receive dues from faculty members who

Harrowing Resigns as NFCUS Chairman

At last week's meeting of the Students Representative Council the chair of the local committee of the National Federation of Canadian University Students was vacated as Colin Harrowing who has held that position since the elections last spring, resigned on the grounds that he cannot agree with the present N.F.C.U.S. policy. In resigning he stated that the Canadian student has no knowledge of what N.F.C.U.S. is, why it was formed, how it has operated, or what it has done. He further pointed out that with a situation such as this N.F.C.U.S. couldn't claim to have the support of even five per cent of the Canadian student body.

Mr. Harrowing also stated that he was resigning from his position with the National Executive. At the recent Laval Conference he was elected vice-president for the Maritime Region. He read his letter of resignation to the Council. It stated that he felt some uneasiness during the Conference due to the manner in which it was conducted, but that he had hoped that when once home again he would have been able to busy himself with N.F.C.U.S. work to the extent that this anxiety would have been dispelled. However, the letter continued, such had not been the case, and ultimately he found that he couldn't bring himself to agree with the policy and therefore couldn't justify spending valuable time to execute what he described as useless policy.

In resigning from the National Executive he suggested an alternative policy to make N.F.C.U.S. a truly active body in Canadian student affairs. His first suggestion was that the present policy be thrown out. Secondly, steps should be taken to publicize N.F.C.U.S. so that every Canadian student would know what N.F.C.U.S. was, why it had been formed, what it had done, how it had operated, and what it hoped to accomplish in the years to come. Thirdly, he suggested that each local committee undertake to have N.F.C.U.S. sponsor small projects on each campus. These projects could be carried out in the immediate future and with little or no expense. In fact it was felt that N.F.C.U.S. could be self-sufficient in carrying out these small projects by making some of them money-raisers. By planning projects that worked instead of proposing "paper" policies the support of all students could be enlisted. Fourthly, he felt that a detailed programme should be worked out to show what would be done with a $1.00 per capita levy for N.F.C.U.S. His final point was that in about five years N.F.C.U.S., being sure of solid support, could demand a $1.00 levy from each student and then go to work with a policy on a national level such as has been proposed for 1952-53, and be sure that something would be accomplished.

GRADUATE PHOTOS

The editor of the 1953 Year Book has requested that all '53 grads have their photos taken for the Year Book as soon as possible.

NOTICE FOR NOMINATIONS

Nominations are required for the position of chairman of the local committee of the National Federation of Canadian University Students. Nominations must be in writing and bear the names of the nominee, the nominator, seconder and eight other students. The nominations must be given to S.R.C. vice-president Ian Whitcomb or left at the S.R.C. Office as soon as possible.

Ideas Needed!

The first of the year's Red 'n Black meetings got underway on Saturday afternoon, when about forty U.N.B.ers plowed through the first real snow storm of the year to Memorial Hall. Stirling "Shep" Shephard, president of the class of '53 and producer of the Red 'n Black presided.

The meeting was devoted to business as Shep outlined the policy of this year's show. He stressed that the party at the end of the revue was for "those who worked". He further stated that this year it was time to change the revue, try to make it more of a show and by so doing try to relieve some of the burden formerly placed on the M.C.

Anyone with ideas for the show is welcome to submit them—as soon after Christmas as possible.

At the close of the meeting forms were handed out to representatives of all classes. They are to be filled in and returned to the executive by Christmas, so your co-operation is needed when your representative calls. It is hoped, by the use of these forms, to uncover a lot of hidden talent on the campus, for we want this to be truly our show. Remember its up to you'n me in '53.

To Go Overseas

It was announced last week that Wilma Sansom, presently attending the University of New Brunswick as a post graduate had been awarded a National IODE Scholarship to the value of $2000.00. She hopes to be accepted into the Bristol University in England to continue her studies of drama. Currently working on a thesis dealing with "Development of Drama in New Brunswick" Wilma hopes to be able to study dramatic literature, as well as in the production of a play. When she has completed her studies she would like to work with amateur drama groups in New Brunswick.

MALE CHORUS

There will be no further meetings of the U.N.B. male chorus until Monday, January 12 at 7:00 p.m. in Memorial Hall. All members are requested to be present on that date.
