Steel Concern Leases 33,000 Acres of Land
Development of North Hastings Mines Coming
Iron Mine and Other Properties Taken Over

Belleville Chamber of Commerce Hears Details of Plan to Go Ahead With Mining in This County—New Processes of Refining Mean Exploitation of Properties.

DEVELOPMENT of the iron resources of North Hastings on a huge scale appears imminent. Mr. Charles Lehey, representing the Carbon Alloy Steel Company of Niagara Falls, Ontario, was in the city yesterday and laid details of prospective activities before the Directors of the Chamber of Commerce. Prospectors and specialists have been making extensive investigations of the territory adjacent to the old Wallbridge Mine near Eldorado and have become convinced that vast deposits of iron ore underlie this whole section. Following this gratifying report Mr. Lehey has visited the district and secured options on thirty-three thousand acres of land between Eldorado and Malone Station on the Central Ontario line. Among the options secured was that of the Dufferin Mine, the property of Mrs. Lillian Coe at Malone Station. The Dufferin Mine yields a magnetite ore of wonderful richness and was operated some years ago by the late A. W. Coe. The ore assays seventy-five per cent. iron and occasionally runs as high as eighty per cent. When it is recalled that eighty-four per cent. is the highest yield known in iron ores it will be understood how excellent is the mineral deposit of the Dufferin Mine. In addition to the territory about the Dufferin Mine, Mr. Lehey secured from Mrs. Coe an option on two hundred acres of a hematite property in the same vicinity. Option was also secured on the following properties: Canada Company, 200 acres; Geo. A. Ketcheson, 100 acres; Irvine Fraser, 200 acres; W. A. Blair, 200 acres; Alfred Holland, 100 acres; Dan McCrimmon, 100 acres; Hugh Morrison, 50 acres; Eileen McGrath, 450 acres; Joseph Armstrong, 800 acres; Coe Bros., 200 acres; and several others. All this acreage is located in the Eldorado and Malone neighborhood and forms part of what appears to be a continuous range. Nine of the twelve properties specified have hematite deposits; the other three magnetite.

The deposits of hematite iron ore do not usually extend to very great depth, rarely more than thirty feet, but the hematite deposits of Madoc Township are exceptional. The Wallbridge Mine, near Eldorado, was extensively operated about thirty-five years ago, had its main shaft down ninety feet and did not then reach the bottom of the deposit. The impression gained at that time was that the Wallbridge Mine was merely a great pocket of hematite but these later investigations of experts would indicate that it was part of a great ore body extending over several miles somewhat similar to the famous Massaba range in Minnesota. The Hematite of the Massaba range, which by the way has supplied the great majority of the smelters of the United States including those of Gary, Ind., and Pittsburgh, is comparatively shallow but extends over many miles of territory. It is said that nine-tenths of the steel produced in the United States is manufactured from Massaba ore. In addition to the options on the properties about Eldorado, Mr. Lehey has secured further options on two hundred acres in the neighborhood of Millbridge in the Township of Tudor. The ore at Millbridge contains a considerable percentage of titanium. The titanium has in the past been the barrier against the successful employment of the Millbridge ore but Mr. Lehey's associates have evolved a plan whereby titanium can be incorporated as an alloy with actual advantage to the resultant iron or steel. Associated with Mr. Lehey in the Carbon Alloy Steel Company is Col. J. R. Gordon, formerly of Toronto but now of Niagara Falls, and a brother of the Rev. C. W. Gordon, the well-known author who writes over the pen name of Ralph Connor. Mr. Gordon is in possession of the details of a process now being successfully employed at the plant of the Carbon Alloy Steel Company at Chippewa Creek whereby the crude ore is converted directly into the finest grade of cut-very steel. This has been the dream of metallurgists for centuries and has now become an accomplished fact. The steel produced at Chippewa has undergone the most severe tests not only on this continent but by the experts of Great Britain and the latter have reported upon it most enthusiastically.

The Ontario is informed that the Carbon Alloy Steel Company which is capitalized at one million, five hundred thousand dollars, is now negotiating for the sale of its interests to a British steel corporation with practically unlimited resources of capital. Just what this may mean in the way of steel producing works in this vicinity remains to be seen but the possibility of great development is in sight, at least in the matter of mining the deposits that are known to exist.

Much credit is due to Mr. Robt. Phillips of Madoc for his persistent efforts to interest outside capitalists in the Madoc and Tudor ore fields. Mr. Phillips has been working towards this result for several years and it is to be hoped that he will now reap an adequate reward. It was Mr. Phillips who first interested Mr. Lehey and through him the other corporations and capitalists mentioned. While Mr. Lehey has been securing these options personally it is expected that he will shortly turn them over to the larger organizations in which he is interested.

Famous Tree, a Land Mark
Falls, Victim of Progress

ONE of the oldest landmarks on Front St., disappeared before the axe today, when the stately elm which was planted on Arbor Day in the year 1840 was hewn down. The removal of the tree leaves a yawning vacancy which is noticeable from the farthest south on the main highway of the city.

The tree stood on private property; that attached to the Hastings House, now owned by Mr. H. E. Fairfield. Since the construction of the asphalt pavement on the street, this old mark of the past has been in the clutch of a slowly approaching death, the supply of moisture having been cut off. Some time ago the open space in front of the hotel was covered with concrete and only a few square feet of open ground remained through which the roots could suck moisture beyond that which came from underground spring or seepage or that which was extracted from the air. Last year the tree was given heroic treatment in the removal of rotted limbs and on Tuesday afternoon the work of final and total destruction began under the direction of the public works department and the Hydro workers, who are experts in this class of undertaking.

In less able hands there might have been damage to the buildings caused in the fall of the limbs but the task was carried out without incident.

The tree was in a very bad condition and it was felt that there was a possibility of accident in the event of a branch falling. The rot had permeated the entire growth.

REMOVAL of the tree makes possible improvements which will be made to this property in time. Mr. Fairfield stated today.

The elm was a landmark and saw Front street grow from the state of a village road to a modern business street. Changes have taken place in industry since the day it was planted. Then the lumber trade was an important one, and later came the grain business, since passed. The tree was in the heart of an industrial district not far from it were numerous factories.

Its latest shock was the disappearance of old untidy feeling John Barleycorn from the light of day—and the moonlight of night. It stood in the heart of a hotel district, for within a hand's throw in the olden times were many places where the spirit of grape was to be bought and drunk. Against the old bark had leaned many a wayfarer.

THE FALL of the old titan occurs in the days of the high cost of fuel and its wood will make up a number of cords of the stuff that is worth money today.

New Cheese Has Been Invented

OTTAWA, Nov. 16.—A new medium high-flavor cheese has been originated by the animal husbandry division of the Dominion Experimental Farms System. It is called "melliten" cheese or "Le Fromage Melliten" and is being manufactured at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

To make melliten cheese the milk is heated to a temperature of 90 degrees F., when it is renneted and cut. The curds are then cooked at a temperature of 115 degrees F., and afterward moulded and pressed in one and three-pound sizes, ready for the dining room. The process of curing is one of the most important features in its successful manufacture.

The cheese is said to possess a very pleasing and delicate flavor, with no objectionable odor, and connoisseurs have pronounced very favorably upon it. The animal husbandry division regard it as a distinct and valuable acquisition to the cheese industry.
