OUR BRITISH LETTER

LONDON, Nov. 29.—King George VI, not Queen Mary, is making an especial point of being friendly with the late King Edward's friends. At a number of house parties, where the names of guests are first submitted to His Majesty, it has been noticed that many of those who figured prominently in court circles in the last reign are again to be found.

At the shooting party given by Viscount Iveagh at Elveden for the King, for instance, Count Albert Mendelsohn and the Marquis de Saxe-Coburg, who were two of King Edward's closest friends, were among the guests. They have the reputation of being two of the most entertaining men in society, and of course are notable for perfectly fitting and up-to-date clothes. Sir Derek and Lady Keppel, Sir Ernest Cassell and Leopold de Rothschild, the last two King Edward's financial advisers, and all close friends of the late couple are the Quinness family, of which Lord Iveagh is the head, are in favor with the present sovereign as they were with the last.

Norman Brooke, the great Australian tennis player, who has not appeared in first-class tennis since his defeat by James C. Parke in the last Davis Cup competition in Australia, has decided to return and will play in the tournaments on the Riviera this winter. If all goes well with him he will make another attempt to win the all-English championship next year.

This, of course, means that Australia, with the help of Mr. Brooke, who is still considered one of the best, if not the best, individual players in the world, is going to make a strong bid to take the Davis Cup away from America next year and give it another trip to the Antipodes.
On the Riviera Mr. Brooke will again have an opportunity of meeting his old competitor, Anthony F. Wilding.
When last here Mr. Brooke was considered the best player of the two, but Mr. Wilding has improved so much that the struggle should be a very keen one.

The Right Honorable Jas. Bryce, when he left the British Embassy at Washington, announced that he was retiring from public life. That may have been true, but like many another retired British statesman, he is finding that he is busier in his retirement than he was as an ambassador.

Since his return from his round the world trip, Mr. Bryce has had not many days to himself. He did for a few weeks go into retirement at his modest country home, "Hindclap," Forest Row, Sussex, but his retirement was almost entirely taken up in writing, for Mr. Bryce is certain to give the public something about the countries he visited after leaving Africa, and perhaps a book about Anti-guity. His real work, henceforth, however, will doubtless be, as one writer, has aptly put it, "to express the needs of the community upon the broader sides of life." Since his return home Mr. Bryce has delivered a number of addresses on a great variety of subjects. As popular as he was in America as a speaker, he is likely to become quite as popular in his own country.

The former Ambassador to America is not alone in this practice of devoting his talents to the enlightenment and service of his country after his retirement from active work. Another of these is Sir Edward Fry, who a few days ago attained the age of 86.
It is twenty-one years since Sir Edward resigned his seat of Lord Justice of the Court of Appeal, and in that time he has served in many useful capacities, not the least of which has been as one of England's representatives in the peace conferences at The Hague.

A number of suffragists, members of the various political parties, have made an arrangement which, if it can be successfully carried out, will ensure a majority for women's suffrage in the next parliament.

They have concentrated in the hope of arranging the organization of suffragist electors in the constituencies before the general election. The idea is that these electors should put suffrage first in other words, that they should inform the candidates that their votes will be given in the interest of women's suffrage. Lord Lytton and Pethick Lawrence are both in favor of the plan.

While the Duke of Westminster and his influential committee of villages something less than $50,000 for their half-million fund to train British athletes for the next Olympic games at Berlin, the trade unionists of the country have, without any great effort raised over a quarter of a million dollars for the wives and children of the Dublin strikers, besides sending them several ship loads of provisions and coal. At the same time another big fund has been raised for the widows and orphans of the recent Welsh colliery disaster. It all goes to show that while the British people are still willing to subscribe to funds raised for practical and charitable purposes, such matters as the Olympic games will not induce them to part with their money even when the plan is backed by cliques and other members of the nobility.

The raising of the Dublin and Welsh funds, however, is taken as another evidence of the growing wealth and close co-operation of the trades unionists of the country. Much of the money has come from the workers and their organizations, which had only just, however, a fund of 35,000 guineas to guarantee the publication for three years at least of a daily paper, "The Citizen," which espouses the principles of trades unionism.

GREAT BRITAIN'S NEW BATTLESHIP BURNS OIL

The new battleship, Queen Elizabeth, the largest and most costly warship yet built for the British navy, from two points of view, set an important landmark in the history of battleship development. In the first place, she is the first to dispense entirely with coal, and to use oil alone in her furnaces. In the second place, she is the first ship to be launched with a main armament to consist of 16-inch guns.

This vessel, the thirtieth British ship of the all-big-gun era to go down, was laid down on October 21 last year, and so has been rather long on the stocks than is usual with British ships. But, when launched, a few days ago, she was heavier than any previous Portsmouth built ship, the launching stage, her weight of 10,000 tons, as compared with the average of 7,000 or 8,000. She is to be completed for sea by October 1914.

SAGE AND SULPHUR
DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Through Faded, Lifeless
Locks and They Become Dark, Glossy, youthful.

That loses its color and lustre, that fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women, and men who value their even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Tonadays we get this famous mixture by asking at any drug store for a so-called bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. Besides, it takes off dandruff, keeps scalp itching and falling hair from troubling you, and keeps the hair brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the glossy lustre and gives it an appearance of abundant, Agent, T. George Bowles.

Pains Have Vanished

Neuralgia Completely Cured.
The cure of Mrs. H. L. Barrett, Guthrie, P. Q., is another victory by Hood's Sarsaparilla. This great medicine has succeeded in many cases where others have utterly failed. Mrs.
Barrett says: "I suffered intensely from neuralgia in the head, face and shoulders. I had used various medicines without relief. I heard of Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it, and I bless the day I did. I took it several months and now feel well. All my pains have vanished. Sold by all druggists everywhere." side, 11,904 lbs.

Italian—Dulio, guns on broadside, 13 1/2 in., weight of broadside 11, 050 lbs.

German—Konig, guns on broadside 10 1/2 in., weight of broadside, 9,810 lbs.

The protection of the British vessel is equal to that of any of the above, and her designed speed is 25 knots, against their maximum of 21.

The power concentrated in the Queen Elizabeth has not been obtained without paying a high price for it, as will be evident from the figure already quoted. Shipbuilding is less costly in England than in any other country; but ships are now costing over 50 per cent. more than the first class battleships of the King before the general election. The cost of Edward type, completed only seven years ago, is estimated at the weight of Nelson's fleet at Trafalgar, consisting of 27 ships of the line, cost no more than $7,500,000.

We are far, too, from having yet reached the limit in cost, for Mr.
Churchill has stated that the five ships of this year's program are to cost $13,750,000 apiece. They will carry ten 15-inch guns and steam 21 knots, burning coal.

Nearly One Hundred Dreadnoughts.

The 15-inch gun, which now becomes—though for how long no one knows—the standard weapon of British battleship armaments, is the heaviest weapon now carried, or intended for carriage in modern fleets.
It weighs 36 tons, and fires a shell of 1,550 lbs., with a muzzle velocity of 2,405 feet per second, and the projectile is capable of penetrating nearly six feet of wrought iron at the muzzle, and just over two feet of toughened steel at a range of two miles.

Twenty-five years ago three battleships were built for the Navy (Guns Faint, Victory and Benbow) armed with two 16.25-inch 110-ton guns, but these fired a shell of only 1,300 lbs., while the projectiles of the famous "Woolwich Infants"— 16-inch 80-ton muzzle loaders mounted in the old battleship Inflexible, launched in 1878—weighed 100 lbs.
less.

The two battleships, which Germany is laying down this year will carry the same armament as the Queen Elizabeth—eight 15-inch and sixteen 16-inch. The Krupp 16-inch gun, however, fires a shell of only 1,075 lbs. and the muzzle velocity is 2,000 feet per second, and it will be considerably inferior in weight of broadside to the British ships of the 1913 program.

With the Queen Elizabeth there are now 93 Dreadnoughts in commission or completing afloat. The extent to which the craze has increased will be apparent from the fact that while the Dreadnoughts afloat at the end of 1906 numbered one, and at the end of 1907 they numbered seven, at the launch of Queen Elizabeth they numbered 93.

The thirty British ships included in this aggregate may be put down as averaging $500,000 apiece, or $15,000,000 in cost; but for the world's whole the figure would be nearer $13,500,000, and the total cost of the 93 ships about $13,500,000.

Fell From a Moving Train

(Canadian Press Despatch)

WOODSTOCK, Ont., Nov. 28.— While travelling from Toronto to St.
Marys via C.P.R., H. L. Rice, of the latter town fell from the train just a mile west of this city at 7 o'clock last night and lay beside the tracks until picked up by a freight car from the west at 10.30 this morning. He was unconscious when found and said that he had been walking from the dining car to the next coach when he slipped on a banana skin, he thought, and was thrown from the train. He is badly bruised and shaken up, and also suffering from the night's exposure. It is feared he may be internally injured. He is now at the General Hospital here.

REFUSED BANK'S REQUEST

ST. JOHN, N.B., Nov. 28.—A London cable says the Privy Council has refused the request of the Banque Nationale to appeal from a decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, in the matter of Banque Nationale vs. the Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance Company. It was a test case involving some $60,000 insurance on a Cambelltown, N.B., saw mill which was burned.

COLLISION ON ELEVATED

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Two Third avenue elevated trains, northbound, collided this afternoon at the Chatham square junction of the Second and Third avenue lines. Four persons were hurt, none seriously. One of the trains was forced upon the station platform by the impact and both trains caught fire after the impact.
The trains were not crowded and passengers were quickly emptied upon the platform.

What Did Grandpa Say?

FOXY GRANDPA'S mischievous nephews are always on the lookout for a good joke. They suddenly remember Grandpa's fondness for Holbrook's Sauce, and that he never eats a meal without it, so they empty the bottle and put it on the table at dinner, thinking "Grandpa" would have to go without "Holbrooks" for that meal at least. But Foxy Grandpa, as usual, discovers their scheme—says nothing—and when they pas-him the empty bottle at dinner quietly puts his hand down and pulls out of his pocket a new bottle of Hols-brook's Worcestershire Sauce, winks at his nephews and says:

NOW—WHAT DID GRANDPA SAY?

The proprietor of Holbrook's Sauce will give Fifty Dollars cash to be divided among the first thirteen best answers received from readers of Brantford papers only.
This contest is not being published anywhere except in the Brantford Courier and Expositor, and only readers of these papers are eligible to compete.

Remember, $50 in Cash Given Away Free

1st Prize, $15.00; 2nd Prize, $10.00; 3rd Prize, $5.00; then 10 Prizes of $2.00 each.

CONDITIONS:

The completion of the story must not contain more than 15 words, and must fit in with the story in the words Grandpa would be likely to say; also must contain the words "Holbrook's Sauce." Every answer must be accompanied by an outside wrapper and label from a Holbrook's Sauce Bottle to be eligible. Contestants may send in as many answers as they like, providing each one is accompanied by an outside wrapper and label.
Every grocer in Brantford sells "Holbrook's Worcestershire Sauce," and will be glad to supply you.

"Holbrook's Sauce" is made and bottled in England from pure malt vinegar brewed in our own breweries, combined with numerous spices gathered from all the corners of the earth. It is matured and aged like good wine—its manufacture and preparation taking over two years before it is ready for market. It is made in the largest Worcestershire Sauce factory in the world.

For the complete enjoyment of Soups, Fish, Steaks, Chops, Roasts, Fowl, Gravies, Salad Dressings, Sandwiches, Chéese, Oysters, Game, and as an appetizer with any meal.
