"INCONTESABLE" AS VICTORY OF THE ALLES SAYS GENERAL JOFFRE

Berlin However is Very Silent About Operations and Advises People That Reverses are to be Expected - Austrians Are Suffering.

London, Sept. 14. - "Incontestable" is the adjective used by General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French forces in describing the victory claimed by the allies along the western battle front. The latest communication from Paris indicates that the advance is continuing all along the line, with now across the River Aisne. But little news, and that of the vaguest sort, filters through from Germany regarding the operations taken in the west, though it is evident from the tone of Berlin, in official statements that the people are being warned not to be too optimistic, as certain reversals may be expected. The latest actual battle news in Berlin describes a sortie from Paris on September 6th, which it is stated has been repulsed. Despatches from many places, including Vienna, indicate that the Austrian army in Galicia is in sore straits, and that its complete destruction is evidently exaggerated, as the latest Russian reports indicate that General Ruzsky's forces are still meeting with organized resistance. It is evident, however, from the disposition of the combatants that the Austrian centre was crumpled up, while the left wing was hurled back into the marshes of the River San. This left wing, composed of the flower of the Austrian army, was reported to have been captured by the Belgians. Austria evidently fears hostile action on the part of Italy, according to newspaper reports from Rome, for feverish efforts are being made to fortify Trieste against attack, and the coast in that vicinity is being mined. One of the most interesting rumors coming out of Belgium is a report in a Paris newspaper that the German governor of the occupied Belgian territory entered Antwerp under an agreement of safe conduct in a fruitless attempt to come to an agreement with the Belgian government. Italy is still preserving neutrality, but has joined the Triple Entente ambassadors in a protest against the revocation of the capitulations by Turkey. Austria evidently fears hostile action on the part of Italy, according to newspaper reports from Rome, for feverish efforts are being made to fortify Trieste against attack, and the coast in that vicinity is being mined.

STRATEGY OF THE RUSSIANS WAS INVINCIBLE

Austrians Were Crushed When the Proper Time Came Koenigsberg Invested.

London, Sept. 14. - A Petrograd despatch to Daily Telegraph says: "Russian strategy in this campaign is destined to rank as a masterpiece in military history for while announcements were being made in Vienna of Austrian victories in the region south of Lublin and Chelm, the centre of the Austrian army was being lured on to its fate. The withdrawal of the Russians, it would now appear, was deliberate. It was contained until the invaders were within cannon shot of the indefensible railway line joining Lublin and Chelm. Meanwhile Russia was preparing an irresistible avalanche on her wings. Having fully assembled her forces she struck a terrible blow severing connection with the Austrians operating respectively around Krasnik and Tarnaszw. The capture of Lemberg had enabled Gen. Ruzsky to turn on the rear of the Austrian position at Tomaszow, which, thus isolated, was abandoned no Thursday. Simultaneously, the onslaught of the Russian right drove the Austrian left in headlong flight across the San. What proportion of the Austrian force was lost forever in the marshy tract on the east bank of the river is not known. Summing up the latest official reports it appears that the left and centre of the enemy were totally routed, while the right on the Rawa Ruska-Danaster line is still maintaining a desperate resistance in the hope of covering its retreat and preventing a disaster from developing into annihilation. In East Prussia, where most of the 300,000 German reinforcements have been hurried, it will require all the Germans' attention to hold Koenigsberg which, in its way is even more important to the Hohenzollern dynasty than Berlin itself because it is the city where the ruling member of the House of Hohenzollern receives by divine right the crown of Prussia."

Sunday Proved Another Great Day of Victory

London, Sept. 14. 4.48 p.m. The official press bureau this afternoon issued the following statement: "All day yesterday the enemy steadily disputed the passage of the river in the face of strong opposition nearly all the crossings were secured by sunset. On our right and left the French troops were confronted with a similar task, in which, like our own, they were successful. Many more prisoners were taken. It is reported from the French headquarters that the German Crown Prince's army has been driven back and that he has moved his headquarters from St. Menchould to Mount Faucon."

TRAPPED THEM

Some 2,000 Germans Took Refuge in a Sugar Refinery at Marne.

Paris, Sept. 14. - A chauffeur who conducted three French officers to the front witnessed the siege of a sugar refinery where 2,000 Germans had taken refuge during the battle of the Marne. It was impossible, he says, for the infantry to dislodge them and their fire was very damaging. Finally a battery of the famous "75" took possession, and the third salvo from these guns the building and its dependencies was seen to be on fire. The howl coming from the refinery was audible even in the direction of the cannonading. The Germans jumped from the windows and were shot as they fell by the infantry. Many surrendered and a few escaped, perhaps 200 or 300. The rest perished in the refinery and its out-buildings.

FORTY-FOURTH YEAR

BEEREN'S REPORT IS LEAGUE

Little Known German Capital of the Retreat of its Army.

By Special Wire to The Courier BERLIN, via Copenhagen, London, Sept. 15. - 6.30 a.m. - other day has passed with news of the great battle near Paris, concerning which no reports or details have been available since a week ago. The general staff in response to a question characterized that general situation as "favorable," but refrained from any comment whatever of the course of events since the first days of the British-French attacks and the withdrawal of German fighting on September 12th.

Reports committees of armistice with scattered French contingents in southern Alsace near Thann, Gebeville and Struth, but with the exception of the front there is no news from the front. The Germans presumably pushing is the withdrawal of the announcement that the armies with a united front have resumed the offensive, may happen before the end of the month. Much probably depends upon the rapidity with which the army under the crown prince completes the last stage of this obstacle in order to be in position to resume major operations.

By Special Wire to The Courier BERLIN, Sept. 15. - Paris correspondent of The Daily Mail explaining General Joffre's success says: "The reward of praise must chiefly Joffre's. It was not always kindly that the name of Joffre was mentioned during the retreat from the front. The criticism of his country now make one think that confidence had never wavered. He has the courage to expose himself to the danger of contempt and criticism of his country to re- Joffre recently said: 'There are two methods making war: one is to employ troops in masses, and the other is to fight in extended order. It is immensely costly in life, but it affords it for two or three times the immense superiority numbers, and the fact that men are disciplined to mechanical obedience, and they are when closely held together of the personal command of their officers.' The extended order is the French way. The French did not fight well together and he becomes content under constant command and mechanical discipline. 'One thing is certain. In open country I cannot employ troops in a mass and of superior numbers with extended order. To have the best chance for success I must fight in extended order. The battlefield is situated to the strong fortification which will support the extension of the front and hamper movements of the Germans. This is what Joffre has returned to the narrowest of France between Paris and the sea. The success of his strategy is simply shown.'"

FRENCH CASUALTIES PARIS, Sept. 15. - In a late casualities made public is the announcement of the death of Charles Rogier, a great general being struck in the head by a bullet near Bar-Le-Duc, and of Raoul Ducloux of Kerouan later, was a grandson of General Montcalon, a great general "Brave" Ducloux, a celebrated sailor who commanded I. Wallace in 1799 in the famous battle of the Nile. General Rogier had just been promoted to the rank of general when he was killed.

Capt. Hornby passed through Brantford on his way to his new post having heard the call at Greenwood.
